BROTHER KILLS BROTHER; MOTHER LIKELY TO DIE

Henry Gibson Victim of Rifle Bullet When He Tussled for the Gun.

MOTHER IS PROSTRATED AND MAY NOT RECOVER

"I Don't Think It Is Loaded," Said Elder Brother as He Picked Up Rifle—Shooting Entirely Accidental, Says the Coroner—Brother Arrested and Released.

The bullet which W. E. Gibson, 16 years old, accidentally fired through the brain of his brother, Henry H. Gibson, at their home, 76 Tennille street, yesterday afternoon, has broken the heart of the aged mother of the boys, and the affray may end in a dual tragedy. The gray-haired old woman is prostrated by the shock of the shooting and refuses to be consoled. The physicians do not believe that she will survive.

"I can't live without my dear boy," she said yesterday afternoon to a group of sympathetic neighbors from the mill district who came to offer her consolation. "He was the best beloved of all, and to have him snatched away like that is too much for my poor broken heart."

The shooting occurred about 2:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and according to the statements of witnesses examined by Detectives McGill and Gillespie, it was accidental. The boys had stopped work in the wood and coal yard operated by their father, William B. Gibson, and had secreted themselves in the second room of the little cottage to clean a 22-caliber Winchester rifle. The weapon had been in the house several years, and had lain undisturbed behind one of the beds in the house.

Didn't Think It Loaded.

"I don't think it is loaded," Henry remarked to his brother. "Better let me clean it. You can't tell about these things."

William handed the weapon to his brother, but before he relaxed his grip he decided to see for himself if there was a loaded shell in it. Henry turned to the door, and when he faced his brother again and reached out after the gun it exploded.

The bullet struck him in the nose, and passed through the brain. Henry fell to the floor groaning in agony. His brother stopped only for an instant, and then ran to call the hospital. When the Grady ambulance reached the scene Henry was dying, and before reaching the hospital he passed away.

Brother Is Released.

The detectives arrested William and carried him to headquarters to the investigation which Coroner Donehoo ordered. The statement made by Albert Gibson, a younger brother who was in the room, made it plain that the killing was accidental, and the inquest was abandoned. Chief of Police Beavers ordered Gibson released, and he returned to his home.

"I don't know exactly how it happened," he said making a statement of the affray. "We went into the room to clean the rifle, and did not know that it was loaded. Henry turned away for an instant, and when he faced me again I turned the gun over to him. Then it went off and killed him. God knows that it was accidental."

The shooting of her youngest and the arrest of her eldest was too much for Mrs. Maggie B. Gibson, the mother, and last night she was prostrated by the affray. It is not believed that she will live.

Both boys have splendid reputations in the neighborhood. They worked with their father in the wood and coal yard, and it was through them that a rather prosperous business was built up.

The body was not removed from the house. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon.

FINAL COUNT OF VOTES TO TAKE PLACE TODAY

The final count of the votes in The Constitution's circulation campaign will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at The Constitution office. The following judges have been selected to award the prizes:

D. E. Root, advertising manager for M. Rich & Bros. Co.

B. S. Fahy, advertsing manager for Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.

These men will check over the votes and award the prizes.

WOODROW WILSON BEATEN IN IOWA

Eight of the District Delegates Are for Wilson, but State Convention Bound Them by the Unit Rule to Vote for the Speaker.

Burlington, Iowa, May 16.—The Iowa state democratic convention today instructed the twenty-six delegates to the national convention to vote for Champ Clark under the unit rule. The Clark forces won a victory over the Wilson supporters by a vote of 638½ to 387½.

The Wilson adherents made a fight to prevent the application of the unit rule to the national delegates, and were supported by many friends of Bryan and friends of Harmon.

Thirty-two delegates will go to Baltimore from Iowa in June, although the state has but 26 votes in the convention. Eight delegates-at-large were chosen, with half a vote each, and twenty-four district delegates, with 22 votes, were named.

Eight of the delegates chosen were Wilson followers, but under the instructions given, will be required to vote for Clark.

The convention adopted a platform declaring for the nomination of all public officers by direct vote, including the president. The principle of the initiative and referendum was indorsed and the republican tariff described as "a masterpiece of injustice, involving remorseless exactions from many to enrich the few."

ROOSEVELT WING OF SIXTH TO MEET IN MACON TODAY

Macon, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Roosevelt republicans of the sixth congressional district meet in Macon Friday to electe contesting delegates to the republican national convention. They claim the recent convention which instructed for Taft was illegal.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT CAPTURES WEST VIRGINIA DELEGATES

Huntington, W. Va., May 16.—After hours of delay, brought about by a complication of strictly state affairs, the West Virginia republican convention tonight named six delegates-at-large to the Chicago convention and gave Theodore Roosevelt its unqualified indorsement and neglected to mention President Taft or his administration.

The action of the state convention in instructing the six delegates-at-large for Colonel Roosevelt gives the former president a solid delegation of sixteen votes from West Virginia to the national convention. Yesterday ten delegates favorable to him were chosen in the five congressional districts.

DELEGATES ONCE FOR TAFT ARE NOW FOR COL. ROOSEVELT

Union City, Tenn., May 16.—On March 26 the regular ninth Tennessee district republican convention was held here and elected Colonel W. S. Poston, of Alamo, and State Treasurer G. T. Taylor, of Union City, delegates, and M. B. Lovelane, of Martin, and J. T. Lovel, of Union City, as alternates to Chicago, with instructions for Taft. On account of irregularities in the call for that convention a second convention had to be called, which was held at Union City. The same delegates and alternates were elected to the Chicago convention and instructed to vote for Colonel Roosevelt. The convention was enthusiastic for Roosevelt.

BY DEAD BODIES PURSUERS TRAIL FLEEING REBELS

Army of Orozco Cut to Pieces in the Engagement With the Federals.

HUNDREDS OF FUGITIVES DIED FOR LACK OF WATER

Huerta Is Pushing North With the Federals and Intends to Attack the Rebel Forces in Their Last Stronghold—Rebels Abandon Dynamite.

At General Huerta's Headquarters, Near Yermo, Mexico, May 16.—At 10:30 p. m., under the glare of a blazing sun, the federal army pushed its way northward for ten miles today, picking up at every hundred yards or more bodies of rebels killed in last Sunday's engagement.

Scores of dead dotted the desert plains. Many starving rebels, separated from the main column on the retreat, staggered into the federal camp, half crazed from thirst and hunger.

They tell stories of terrible suffering and privation and declare that hundreds of insurrectos on the retreat left their officers and scattered over the desert. Many, it is feared, died on the barren mesas unable to obtain food or water.

Advance Guard Near Rebels.

After repairing many bridges and the telegraph lines, General Huerta arrived here today. Last night General Tellez took the federal advance guard north. They are believed to be near Ceballos, about twenty miles south of the rebel forces at Rellano.

General Huerta burned hundreds of boxes of dynamite and exploded nearly 500 bombs captured from the rebels at Conejos on Sunday.

"The prisoners tell me that many rebels have deserted," said General Huerta. "I intend to move north tomorrow, though progress is slow on account of the condition of the railroad."

Rebels Await Attack.

Juarez, Mex., May 16.—No dispatches were received here from the rebel front tonight. It was reported that the wires were cut south of Chihuahua. Early advices indicated that the rebels are well fortified at Rellano and Escalon and would await the federal attack.

The condition of Gonzalo Enrile, one of Orozco's chief advisers, who was stabbed two days ago, tonight was reported serious. Advices from the hospital at Chihuahua, where he is confined, say blood poisoning has developed.

West Coast Rebels Subdued.

Mazatlan, Mex., (via Tuscon, Ariz.), May 16.—That the government has the revolution on the west coast of Mexico in hand, at least temporarily, was indicated today by the arrival here of a Southern Pacific train for the north, raising the traffic blockade that has been in effect for more than a month. It was said today that more than $1,000,000 in currency was burned here recently to keep it from falling into the hands of looters.

PARSON RICHESON MUST DIE IN THE ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR THE MURDER OF HIS SWEETHEART, AVIS LINNELL

Shown in the picture are the Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, Avis Linnell, whom he murdered, and the chair in which he is to expiate his crime. At the time he murdered Avis Linnell, whom he had betrayed, he was engaged to Miss Violet Edmands, daughter of a wealthy member of his congregation. Richeson wanted Avis Linnell out of the way so she could not disclose their relations and prevent his marriage to Miss Edmands. Richeson was pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church at Cambridge, Mass.

Richeson Sane When He Killed Girl, Is Sane Now and Gov. Foss Says He Must Die.

Boston, Mass., May 16.—Clarence V. T. Richeson's last hope of escaping the death chair next week for the murder of Avis Linnell, of Hyannis, expired tonight when Governor Foss announced that he would not refer Richeson's petition for commutation of sentence to the executive council.

The statement from the governor followed closely the filing of the reports of the special insanity commission, which declared the condemned sane, although subject to fits of hysterical insanity.

Governor Foss Refuses Clemency.

The statement follows:

"Executive clemency will not be extended in the case of Clarence V. T. Richeson. The prisoner was sentenced upon his own confession for a crime which it appears impossible that any normal man could commit.

"After his confession and sentence a plea of insanity was set up by his counsel and strongly supported by affidavits extending over his life. The character of these affidavits left no other course for the governor than to submit these, and the prisoner himself to an examination by our leading alienists, in order to protect the commonwealth from the charges that the man was actually insane when the deed was committed as well as at the present time.

"The evidence shows that Richeson's

Sane Then and Sane Now.

The commission found that Richeson was sane at the time of the murder, and that he is sane at present.

In the death chamber at Charlestown the prisoner has borne himself calmly since he was transferred from the Charles street jail Tuesday. It was apparent that he still hoped that clemency would be extended to him, and it was believed today this alone was keeping up his spirits.

The statement issued by Governor Foss shows that the alienists found that Richeson's family was afflicted very generally with insanity, and that the condemned man himself is a neurotic, a somnambulist and a neurasthenic and subject to hysterical insanity.

COFFEE TRUST GIVEN BACKING BY MONEY TRUST

$75,000,000 ADVANCED TO LIMIT COFFEE OUTPUT

And Maintain the Price of Coffee for the Benefit of Brazilian Planters and American and European Dealers---Pierpont Morgan and New York Banks in the Deal.

Washington, May 16.—The first illustration of the activities of the so-called money trust given to the house investigating committee today was testimony that three New York banking institutions—the National City Bank, J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., and the First National bank—sent financial assistance to the government of Brazil to limit the output of coffee and maintain prices at a profitable figure for the benefit of Brazilian planters and American and European coffee dealers.

Witness Mildly Excited.

Mr. Sielcken was on the stand more than three hours, and his testimony was the first oral information given to the committee. He attributed to the National City bank a patriotic motive for its investment. He regarded the loan by the bank as of great benefit to the United States and said the bank made the loan reluctantly, to exploit American trade with South America.

Mr. Sielcken was mildly excited at several points of his testimony. He questioned the propriety of the committee going into Brazil's affairs and, as for his own participation, challenged the attorney general of the United States and all the attorneys of the country to discover any illegality in his actions as a coffee merchant.

The witness said that unless something had been done to help the planters of Brazil there might have been a revolution. The price of coffee had gone so low because of over-production that the Brazilian government encouraged planters to diversify their crops. He said that while a tax had been put on the planting of coffee, the Brazilian government and the state of Sao Paulo had not tried to prohibit the planting.

Untermeyer Quizzes Witness.

"Which would have been the worst, revolution in Sao Paulo, or for the consumers of this country to pay much more for all of their coffee?" asked Samuel Untermeyer, counsel for the committee.

"You would have to pay that, anyhow," said Mr. Sielcken. He argued that coffee would be still higher if the valorization scheme had not been put into operation.

Mr. Untermeyer read from tables to show that the production of coffee for several years amounted to but 6,000,000 bags, and that it sold at from 6½ to 7 cents a pound. Now the production was 14,000,000 bags, and the price was between 13 and 14 cents a pound. This was accomplished by withholding from the market the surplus supply of coffee, he said.

Mr. Sielcken testified that there

PATTEN SMASHES CEREAL PRICES

And Packing House Products Drop in Sympathy.

Chicago, May 16.—James A. Patten tonight received credit from market reporters for making Chicago Board of Trade prices take one of the most remarkable sommersaults on record. Cereals fell nearly 5 cents a bushel, and packing house products almost a dollar a barrel.

That Patten designed such an upset of quotations as took place here today for all kinds of grain and provisions, no person asserts. It was stated, however, that a gigantic selling movement, which got beyond all control today, had its start in his judgement and action regarding the wheat market.

The firm with which Mr. Patten is connected is estimated this evening to have sold upward of 5,000,000 bushels of wheat within the last forty-eight hours. About a quarter of this was said to have been for Mr. Patten's personal account, with some portion of the total at a loss. All of his own sales were said to have bee ncompleted yesterday, but the imeptus said to have been given thereby had a cumulative effect which, through the system of stoploss orders in vogue in the option method of trading, finally toppled over not only the wheat market, but values also of corn, oats and other speculative articles, notably pork.

One of the consequences of the smash was the free calling of margins tonight, but there was a disposition to assume that the worst of the semipanic had gone by.

Denial By Patten.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—James A. Patten, of Chicago, credited by market reporters of that city with causing "remarkable somersaults on the Chicago Board of Trade," made an emphatic denial here tonight that he had sold 5,000,000 busehls of wheat.

"I did sell wheat on which I was long yesterday," he said when shown the report from Chicago tonight, "but it was more than 75 per cent less than the amount stated in the Chicago story."

BRIBERY CHARGE MADDENS DIXON

Roosevelt's Manager Hotly Denounces Negro Delegate Chase.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—(Special.)—The sprightly adventures of W. Calvin Chase, a colored delegate from the District of Columbia to the republican convention in Chicago, furnished the subject of spicy comment on the part of the Taft and Roosevelt campaign headquarters here today.

Chase charged in a statement published this afternoon that Senator Dixon, manager for Roosevelt, sought to bribe him by promises to repudiate Taft and sign a statement declaring for Roosevelt. Henry Lincoln Johnson, of Georgia, and Rucker, formerly revenue collector of Georgia, are involved in the affair.

Chase's Statement.

Chase's statement follows:

"I accompanied a prominent Georgia politician to the residence of Senator Dixon about three weeks ago and remained with him two hours or more. He wanted me to repudiate President Taft and declare for Theodore Roosevelt. He was anxious that I should prepare a document similar to the one prepared by the two bolting South Carolina Taft delegates which he said would have a great effect upon the country. He outlined to me what the Roosevelt committee intended to do.

"He declared that the Georgia delegation, headed by Colonel Lincoln Johnson, would not be admitted to the convention. He also spoke of certain delegates that had been elected in Virginia and what would be done with them. He assured me that Roosevelt had cotrol of the national committee, and if I would prepare a repudiation of President Taft and bring it to him next morning he would have it telegraphed throughout the country.

"He assured me that I would not lose anything, and that it would be better for me to do this, because I would get privileges from Theodore Roosevelt that others would not get."

Calls Chase ex-Convict.

Senator Dixon, in his statement of the case, refers to Chase as "this notorious ex-convict, Chase, who has served at least one jail sentence in

President Says He Already Has Enough Votes to Nominate Him at Chicago.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 16.—Replying to the claims of Theodore Roosevelt that he had 522 delegates to the republican national convention, President Taft today, in a public statement, pointed out that Roosevelt had only 309 delegates, and for the first time admitted that the result of the primaries in Ohio will settle the question of the republican nomination.

What Taft Claims.

The statement follows:

"Only 188 delegates to the Chicago convention remain to be chosen. If Theodore Roosevelt were to get all of them, yet he could not be nominated. Carefully prepared figures show that only 309 delegates thus far are instructed for or pledged to him, and the talk of real and genuine contests against delegates who are instructed for me is as unsustained by the facts as many of the misleading issues which have been injected into this campaign.

"The number of Taft delegates thus far chosen, not counting the eight from Montana and a number from Texas and Arkansas which will be elected today, is 520, and the vote in Ohio, my home state, much to my gratification, will be the decisive one and will settled the question of the nomination.

"The Chicago convention will be organized by the friends of constitutional government and the success of that great cause now seems assured."

Taft on Roosevelt.

"I would not be here to bother you tonight if it did not concern the American people more than it does me to defeat Theodore Roosevelt for the presidency."

That was the way President Taft introduced his criticism of Colonel Roosevelt here tonight.

"If it were a purely personal matter with me," he continued, "I would be content to abide by the verdict of time and would remain in the white house silent under his misstatements and attacks upon me. But more than my own feelings in the matter is at stake. It is of supreme importance to the American people."

After a day of rest, during which he made two talks to workingmen at local manufacturing plants and conferred with Senator Burton and other state leaders, President Taft spoke tonight

Colonel Says He Has Majority, but Taft's Supporters Are Trying to Steal Them.

Toledo, O., May 16.—"Of the delegates already elected, I have 501," said Colonel Roosevelt today. He stood by his statement of yesterday that he had more than 500 delegates and was confident that he would be nominated on the first ballot at the Chicago convention.

The third day of Colonel Roosevelt's Ohio campaign took him from Greenville to Toledo. He made thirteen speeches to crowds which varied from a few hundred at the smaller towns to several thousand in the cities. In Toledo tonight he addressed a throng which was packed into Terminal convention hall.

Colonel Roosevelt was told today that President Taft would dispute his claim as to delegates and directed the preparation of figures to reinforce what he had said. The Roosevelt column of the list foots up 501. Under the heading "for some other candidate" are placed 345 delegates, while 84 are listed as uninstructed and 38 as contested.

Taft Claims Misleading.

"I have gone over this table in minute detail," said Colonel Roosevelt, "and I consider it a guarded underestimate of our strength."

The former president said that the list of delegates which have been given out by the Taft leaders are so misleading as to give little idea of the line-up and it was his purpose to show just what was the situation.

In his speech here tonight Colonel Roosevelt replied to the statement that, although he had been attacking political bossism, Walter Brown, his Ohio manager, was in the class of bosses. He declared that the talk about Mr. Brown being a boss was nonsense.

In defense of his proposal for the recall of judicial decisions, Colonel Roosevelt read extracts from a letter written last winter by former Federal Judge Peter Crosscup, of Chicago, to the effect that the colonel's contention was a sound one.

Colonel Roosevelt denied the charge made by President Taft that he was preaching class hatred.

"Scandalous" Says Roosevelt.

When Colonel Roosevelt learned of the outcome of the republican state convention in the state of Washington yesterday, as a result of which two

AD MEN OFF FOR DALLAS TODAY

"Atlanta Special" With Big Party Leaves at 2 P. M.

"On to Dallas," the slogan of the Atlanta Ad Men's Club for several months, will become a reality at 2 o'clock this afternoon when a delegation of between 75 and 100 Atlanta ad men and boosters will leave on a special train for the Texas city to attend the national Ad Men's convention, which will be held there next week.

The local colony of ad men will be joined by the North Carolina delegation. The party from the Tar Heel state arrived late last night and is quartered at the Majestic and Piedmont hotels. They represent Asheville, Winston-Salem, Salisbury, Charlotte and Statesville.

The special train will depart promptly at 2 o'clock over the Seaboard Air Line. It will be composed of a baggage car, combination club and smoker and three drawing room sleepers.

The train will arrive at Birmingham at 6 o'clock and at 8 o'clock the delegation will be the guests of honor at a banquet given at the Hillman hotel by the Birmingham Ad Club. Immediately after the banquet the Birmingham delegation will join the Atlanta special train in one or two sleepers and the entire party will leave at 10:30 o'clock over the Frisco.

The entertainment for Saturday consists of a breakfast at Memphis, followed by an auto ride over the city and luncheon by the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce at 2 o'clock. There will be no stops between Little Rock and Dallas, the special train reaching the Texas city early Sunday morning.

The convention will last for five days, after which the Atlanta delegation, with all other delegates and visitors, will make a four-day tour of Texas as the guests of the railroads and different civic and business bodies of the state. Visits will be made to Fort Worth, Waco, Houston, Galveston, Austin, San Antonio and other points. The Atlanta delegation will reach home in about twelve days.

were four million bags of coffee now being held out of the market by the valorization committee of seven, of which he is a member. Of that amount 900,000 bags were in warehouses of the New York Dock Company, he said.

"Could not the price of coffee go down if this were put on the market?" asked Representative Byrnes.

"No, it would have no effect on the market," said Mr. Sielcken.

Loan Amounted to $75,000,000.

The big loan by which the valorization scheme was floated was 15,000,000 pounds sterling. English, German, French and Belgian bankers took 13,000,000 pounds of sterling of it through J. H. Schroeder, of London, who sold to the National City bank 2,000,000 pounds sterling. This amount was pro rated between the Morgan bank, the National City and the First National.

Mr. Sielcken made a statement to the committee attributing to the National City bank a display of patriotism and an earnest desire to encourage the commerce of the United States with South America.

"They wanted to see our flag there," he said.

"Did Schroeder, of London, have the same patriotic motive to place the American flag in South American waters?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"Did the French, the German and the Belgian bankers have the same motive?"

"Of course not," answered Mr. Sielcken, "but it is none of the business of the United States to pry into these matters. What if England or some other country would come over to us and go into the south and try to find out how the price of cotton is kept up? We would throw them out."

Denies There Is Coffee Trust.

"I suppose this committee has got the impression from its counsel that this valorization scheme has put up the price of coffee," said Mr. Sielcken. "The impression is created that the financing of this plan was at the expense of the American consumers. I read of a coffee trust. There is nothing that resembles a coffee trust in the United States or in Europe. My opinion is that the price of coffee is not affected by the valorization scheme at all."

Mr. Sielcken's testimony was heard at this time out of the order orginally planned by Edgar H. Farrar and Mr. Untermeyer, counsel for the committee, in order to permit Mr. Sielcken to go to Europe. Chairman Pujo announced at the conclusion of the hearing that th future course of the committee would be determined by counsel and that no other witnesses were to be called immediately.

WORKING TO CLOSE GREAT CREVASSE

And Stop the Destroying Flood Rushing Over Louisiana.

New Orleans, La., May 16.—The Hymellia crevassee, 35 miles north of New Orleans, will be closed within ten days if the expenditure of a quarter of a million dollars can effect the object desired. Today the Mississippi river commission decided to appropriate $100,000 for the work and an equal amount, or even more, if it is necessary, has been pledged by property owners affected and state and parish authorities.

Captain C. O. Sherrill, chief of the United States army engineers, in charge of the fourth levee district, has charge of the stupendous job. The work of tying the ends of the crevasse, which today reached a width of 720 feet, was begun at noon and this afternoon material was assembled for the work of cribbing across the opening.

Hundreds are at Work.

Several hundred laborers were at work this afternoon and tonight but by tomorrow more than 1,000 men will be on hand and the work will begin in earnest.

In addition to a fleet of seven government boats, the Southern Pacific and Texas and Pacific railroads have sent pile drivers, lumber and 200 laborers to the scene; the LaFourche levee board has furnished material and promised 200 men; Governor Sanders has ordered 250 convicts to report there for duty and planters and mill owners in the section affected by the crevassee waters have pledged 200 or more laborers.

The entire force of men has been placed under Captain Sherrill, who has detailed three of the best engineers in his office to assist in the work. Assistant Engineer W. E. Knobloh will have charge of the cribbing of the upper end, the lower end being given to Junior Engineer George Klorer, and Junior Engineer George Sequiera has been placed in charge of the movement of men and supplies.

TAXES MAY BE REMITTED IN SUBMERGED TERRITORY

Baton Rouge, La., May 16.—Governor Sanders today sent a special message to the Louisiana general assembly, reciting the disaster which has been visited upon a large section of the state by the Mississippi flood waters and recommending that the tax of 1912 on real estate and personal property in the inundated territory be remitted.

The governor says there will possibly be one hundred thousand people more or less destitute who will need assistance in the way of rations or a means to earn a livelihood.

The resources of the state and of the several levee districts in the state have been taxed to the utmost and the citizens of Louisiana and of other states have responded most generously in material contributions for the relief work.

As a further means of giving aid to the people in the flooded area the governor recommends that a fund be provided for the purchase and distribution of seed to the farmers whose crops have been destroyed.

PRESSMEN OF BOSTON DECLINE TO STRIKE

Boston, May 16.—The Boston newspaper Web Pressmen's Union voted tonight that "there was no occasion for striking at present because of the Chicago situation." The union reaffirmed a recent vote to levy an assessment of one day's pay each week for the benefit of the Chicago strikers.

FAMILY TREES OF ENGLISH NOBLES LADEN WITH FRUITS OF SACRILEGE

---David Lloyd-George

London, May 16.—The Welsh disestablishment bill passed its second reading in the house of commons tonight by a vote of 348 to 267.

During the debate Mr. Lloyd-George effectively used the charge that the noble families whose representatives were the most strenuous opponents of the bill on the ground that it pillaged the established church, obtained their vast wealth by spoilation of the church in the time of the reformation.

A stormy scene came after his reference to a political leaflet in which, he said, the duke of Devonshire charged them with "robbery of God."

"Doesn't he know," queried the chancellor, "that the very foundations of his fortunes were laid deep in sacrilege and built on desecrated shrines and pillaged altars."

Among the voices raised in angry protest, Lord Hugh Cecils was the most conspicuous, to which Lloyd George retorted:

"These charges that we are robbing the church ought not to be brought by those whose family tree is laden with the fruits of sacrilege at the reformation. Their ancestors robbed the Catholic church, the monasteries, the altars, and the almshouses. They robbed the poor; they robbed the dead. Then, when we try to recover some part of this pillaged property for the poor, their descendants accuse us of theft—they whose hands are dripping with the fat of sacrilege."

HE CAUGHT THE LEGISLATORS VIOLATING STATE HEALTH LAWS

Baton Rouge, La., May 16.—Dr. Oscar Dowling, president of the state board of health, today swooped down upon the Louisiana state house, where the general assembly is in session, and discovered flagrant violations of the state sanitary and health laws. He corralled the sergeants at arms of both houses and informed them that the inmates of the capitol would be arrested unless the health laws were observed. Unless the laws are complied with concerning towels by Monday, Dr. Dowling informed the officers that they would go to jail.

SIX NURSES ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

The graduating exercises of the nurses of the Wesley Memorial hospital, which were held last night at the Wesley Memorial church, were unusually interesting.

The addresses were notably good, Col. Roy Dorsey, of the firm of Weltner and Dorsey, made the address of the evening. He discussed the duties of the trained nurse in the matter of education and prevention as well as in nursing sick patients, and emphasized the need of spreading abroad a knowledge of the science of living.

Sanitation, health, correct eating and the opportunity for educating the public on these and other points were discussed in an interesting and well-informed manner.

Dr. Stewart Roberts presented the diplomas. His address, preceding the delivery of the sheepskins, was full of feeling and good sense. It was a tribute to the trained nurse, and presented high ideals for the consideration of the six young nurses going out from the hospital.

Dr. George S. Tigner also made an intersting talk before delivering the pins to the nurses.

The platorm was beautifully decorated with flowers and palms and the graduates received so many beautiful bouquests that the stage became a mass of glowing bloom.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. S. B. Wiggin.

ROOSEVELT WING WILL MEET TODAY

The anti-Taft faction of the republican party in Georgia will meet in convention today in the senate chamber of the capitol to elect four delegates-at-large and four alternates to the national convention in Chicago June 18.

The delegates to be elected today will go to Chicago with credentials claiming to be prima facie regular and will be instructed to support Roosevelt.

A warm contest is expected in the fight to be waged by these delegates with the Taft delegates elected in March for the right to sit in the convention.

It is prophesied in the event Roosevelt's strength is sufficient to organize the national convention the contesting Georgia delegates probably will be seated in place of the regulars. They claim that the Taft delegates, who will bear credentials signed by the recognized Georgia delegation, were elected illegally and without notice.

JUDGE MAKES USE OF REFERENDUM

Athens, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—In Clark superior court today the referendum method was employed by Judge C. H. Brand in fixing the penalty for a defendant, Will Barrett, charged with assault to rob and assault to kill.

Several leading society and church women of Athens appeared in behalf of the boy and asked that his sentence be made a fine as for a misdemeanor. He had plead guilty. Some of the ladies made speeches in the courthouse in favor of a light sentence. The judge polled the jury and others in the courtroom by a rising vote for either a fine, sentence or a penitentiary term. The penitentiary won unanimously. A penitentiary term will be imposed.

Barrett, 19 years old, crept to the tent of John Arendall, a horse trader, held him up with a pistol, demanded money and was knocked down by the trader. In the scuffle, as Arendall was about to tie him, Barrett cut and stabbed the trader severely and escaped. Two packs of hounds were tried out in the chase after him. He went for three days on foot with scarcely more than five hours' sleep, leaped from a two-story building in bare feet and underclothing, borrowed a bicycle and gave the posse the slip. He was picked up in a neighboring town after three days.

LYNCH AND HIS STAFF WIN BY 8,000 MAJORITY

Indianapolis, Ind., May 16.—James M. Lynch, who for twelve years has headed the International Typographical Union, believes tonight that he and the other administration officers have been re-elected by a majority of at least 8,000, based on partial returns. The heavy vote for the administration is a surprise, as it was thought a large negative vote would be cast in the east, the result of friction over settlements in that territory. The official vote will be published in the June number of The Typographical Journal.

The vote on the adoption of two amendments to the constitution providing for increased salaries for president and secretary-treasurer, is said to be close.

MINNESOTA GOES FOR ROOSEVELT

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—With more than 800 delegates of the approximately 1,080 delegates to the state republican convention supporters of former President Roosevelt, the convention today indorsed Roosevelt and his principles, and instructed the Minnesota delegation of 24 to vote for him "first, last and all the time."

Practically the only fight of the session was over the minority report of the resolutions committee composed of three supporters of Senator La Follette. This report was rejected by the convention, 606 to 478.

The majority of the committee had agreed, however, to adopt into the majority report the La Follette planks favoring the presidential preferential primary; election of United States senators by direct vote, and the enactment of a more thoroughgoing corrupt practices act. In place of indorsement of Senator La Follette as second choice at the Chicago convention the majority report indorsed the principles of "progressive republicanism as propounded by Theodore Roosevelt, Senator Robert M. La Follette and other progressive leaders."

The majority report was adopted by the convention by an overwhelming vote.

FOR CLARK AND FOR PRESTON MARYLAND DEMOCRATS STAND

Baltimore, May 16.—Eight delegates at large and twenty-four district delegates, each with half a vote, were elected to the democratic national convention by the Maryland democrats in convention here today, pledged to support the presidential candidacy of Speaker Champ Clark, "as long as there is a chance for his nomination."

Mayor James L. Preston, of Baltimore, was unanimously indorsed for the vice presidency, and the state delegation was recommended to use every honorable effort to secure his nomination.

The proceedings were marked by the utmost harmony.

United States Senator John Walter Smith, whose home county of Worcester gave Governor Harmon, of Ohio, the four votes he received at the primary election, heads the list of delegates at large. Associated with him are United States Senator Isidor Rayner, Mayor James H. Preston, of Baltimore; Congressman J. F. C. Talbot, Arthur P. Gorman, Jr., former Congressman Joshua W. Miles, John J. Mahon and Jasper N. Willison.

The resolution pledging the delegates to support Speaker Clark was adopted by acclamation, amid cheers.

Other resolutions declared in favor of a six-year term for the president, making him ineligible for re-election; and commended the policies and acts of the democratic house of representatives, with special reference to tariff legislation. The tariff was declared to be the great issue before the country, and that the democratic doctrine of a tariff for revenue only, sufficient for the conduct of the government, administered with rigorous economy, should be the principal purpose of the democratic party in the fall battle.

A roll call of the counties and legislative districts showed that the presidential primary resulted in the election of 76 delegates to the state convention for Clark, 49 for Wilson and 4 for Harmon.

DELEGATES FROM MONTANA ARE INSTRUCTED FOR TAFT

Livingston, Mont., May 16.—Roosevelt forces were defeated at every turn in the republican state convention held here today. The Montana delegation, eight in number, will go to Chicago with a recommendation to use every effort to bring about the renomination of President Taft. The delegates received 421 votes to their opponents' 235.

Pledged to Roosevelt.

Raleigh, N. C., May 16.—Republicans who bolted the Fourth North Carolina congressional district convention last Tuesday organized today and elected J. C. T. Harris and J. C. Matthews as delegates to the Chicago convention. No instructions were given. While these delegates were uninstructed, they are pledged to Colonel Roosevelt as against those elected Tuesday who were instructed for Colonel Roosevelt's nomination.

CONTESTING DELEGATIONS NAMED BY TEXAS REPUBLICANS

Dallas, Texas, May 16.—Contesting delegations to the republican national convention were named in two congressional districts of Texas today, and in two other districts the supporters of former President Roosevelt held control and delegates were chosen instructed for the colonel.

Separate conventions were held by the supporters of President Taft and former President Roosevelt in the Eighth and Fourteenth districts.

SUPPORTERS OF ROOSEVELT CONTROL IDAHO CONVENTION

Lewiston, Idaho, May 16.—The Roosevelt delegates in complete control of the Idaho state republican convention elected today eight uninstructed delegates to the national convention. Of the delegates elected six are known as stalwarth Roosevelt men, while two are said possibly to favor President Taft.

FATE OF ALLEN WITH THE JURY

Wytheville, Va., May 16.—The jury deliberating the fate of Floyd Allen, of the mountain clan that shot up the court of Carroll county, was locked up at 9 o'clock tonight, after six and a half hours of consideration of the case. If a verdict is reached during the night it will not be reported until court convenes tomorrow.

The case went to the jury early this afternoon when Commonwealth's Attorney Wysor concluded his argument. After three hours' deliberation the jury returned to the court room. The foreman announced that no verdict had been reached and that Juror W. T. Williams desired to ask further instructions regarding the possibility of a verdict for a lesser crime than first degree murder. The court outlined the law at length and the jury again retired.

After a two-hour recess for dinner court was again convened. At 9 o'clock, the jury having failed to agree, Judge Staples decided to adjourn court, preventing the announcement of a verdict until tomorrow.

POLICE QUELLED DARK METHODISTS

Kansas City, May 16.—After two hours' ceaseless effort on the part of Bishop J. S. Flipper, of Atlanta, Ga., to call today's session of the African Methodist Episcopal conference to order for the election of four bishops, the police had to be called to quiet the uproar among the delegates.

After the police quieted the delegates the following bishops were elected:

The Rev. W. D. Chappelle, D. D., president of Allen university, Columbia, S. C.

MORTUARY

Mrs. S. M. Turner, Covington.

Covington, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Mrs. Susan M. Turner, one of Covington's most estimable Christian ladies, died at her home on Floyd street on Sunday afternoon after an illness of about four weeks, with an affection of the heart. Mrs. Turner had been a resident of Covington only about two years, having moved here from Forsyth. She was the mother of Mr. Miles Turner, cashier of Bank of Newton county, and Miss Ella Turner, of this city. Her remains were carried to her old home at Forsyth for interment, Rev. Dixon, pastor of the Methodist church at that place, preaching the funeral.

T. A. Bollinger, Macon.

Macon, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—At the advanced age of 76 years, T. A. Bollinger, one of the best-known contractors in the city, died this morning. Mr. Bollinger was born in Twiggs county, but spent the greater part of his life in Pulaski and Bibb counties. He had been building dwelling houses in Macon for fifty years. He leaves his widow, three sons, T. H. Bennett, of Hawkinsville; R. A. and John W. Bollinger, of Macon, and five daughters, Mrs. Jud Cherry, of Macon; Mrs. C. E. House, of Atlanta; Mrs. T. A. Porter, of Pulaski county; Miss Addie Bollinger, of Macon, and Mrs. Annie Anderson, of Cochran.

J. R. George.

J. R. George, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. George, died yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence in Forrest Park. The funeral will be held this afternoon at the residence, and the interment will be in Forrest Park.

DELEGATES TO ATLANTA.

Representatives to State Convention Appointed.

The following delegates to the state democratic convention, to be held in Atlanta May 29, have been appointed from their respective counties:

Berrien Delegates.

Nashville, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—A. C. Sweat and H. L. Lovett have been appointed as delegates to the state convention to be held in Atlanta, May 29. Editor Sweat warmly supported Underwood through his paper, The Nashville Herald.

Thomas Delegates.

Thomasville, Ga., May 16.—(Special.) Thomas county delegates appointed today to the state convention in Atlanta on the 29th, are: J. H. Merrill, M. M. Cooper, E. R. Jerger, S. G. Covington, J. A. Chastain, Thomasville; D. H. Parker, Boston; W. P. White, Meigs; J. Gardner, Pavo; T. J. Montford, Metcalfe; L. D. Johnson and T. C. Beverly, Ochlochnee. These delegates were all strong Underwood men in the recent primary.

Hancock Delegates.

Sparta, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—The following delegates have been appointed from Hancock county to attend the state presidential convention, which meets in Atlanta, Ga., May 29: James A. Harley, Harry Binion, R. W. Moore, R. H. Lewis, Iverson Lovejoy, R. H. Moate, L. E. Culver, R. B. Harley, Joseph W. Lewis, J. B. Hitchcock, James M. Harris, J. Q. Cheeley, John L. Culver, Ed L. Culver, W. H. Rives, Wash Darden, T. C. Moore, E. A. Rozier.

Emanuel Delegates.

Swainsboro, Ga., May 16.—(Special.) The following delegates have been chosen to represent Emanuel county at the state convention to be held in Atlanta on May 29: A. Herrington, A. S. Bradley, J. G. Mason, W. W. Curl, E. T. Coleman, N. B. Hutcheson, L. A. Sutton, C. D. Rountree; alternates, H. A. Jordan, W. T. Larson, S. J. Cowan, B. B. Stephens.

Brooks Delegates.

Quitman, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—The following seventeen delegates to the state convention selected by Colonel Russell Snow, manager of the Brooks county Underwood campaign, were approved Wednesday by Colonels M. Baum, chairman, and W. H. Long, Jr., secretary Brooks county executive committee: Hon. Lee W. Branch, of Quitman, chairman; Stanley S. Bennet, L. E. Bozeman, Samuel T. Harrell, W. R. Knight, D. T. Clyatt, Russell Snow, C. T. Tillman, John E. Morris, Jr., and Grover C. Edmondson, of Quitman; C. H. Ramsey, Grooverville; E. E. Hodges, Marven; J. I. Simmons, Briggs; C. H. Williams and G. B. Crane, Dixie; R. L. Beaty, Barwick, and Judge J. H. Culpepper, Barney. At the meeting of the executive committee on May 2 Colonels Baum and Long were authorized to represent the full committee in naming the delegation. The friends of Colonel Branch on the delegation are in favor of putting him in the race for one of the delegates to represent the eleventh district at the Baltimore convention, and it is very probable that he will be nominated and elected.

Meriwether County.

Greenville, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—The following delegates to the state convention, which meets in Atlanta May 29, have been appointed by Hon. N. F. Culpepper, chairman of the county democratic committee, to represent Meriwether county: E. B. Terrell, J. D. Gilbert, Geo. A. Wright, H. E. Bullock, J. A. McRae, John H. Hudson, Frank Carlisle, C. O. WEATHER HAS NOT BEEN COLD; 'TWAS ONLY YOUR IMAGINATION

You may have shivered during the past two nights and slept with a blanket pulled close about your ears, but you were not cold. Somehow you were deluded, and if you thought it was cold you made a mistake.

The thermometer fails to bear out your thoughts. In fact it is certain that there has been no cold wave, such as you imagined was in this territory and the registrations show that the weather of May so far has been moderately above normal, and that no such temperatures as have been experienced are now being felt in this state.

The lowest mark touched Thursday morning was 52 degrees, and the day before the lowest was 55. On the same dates in many years past, according to Weather Man von Hermann's data, the mercury has cuddled around 45, 47, 48 and even lower, while in May, 1893, it fell so low as 38.

The lowest temperatures of the past two days, though extremely chilly here in view of the season, are not so low when you figure that the same mark has been reached even ten days later in the year. The record shows that 52 was reached on May 26 and May 30.

"Where is this cool spell coming from?" said Mr. von Hermann. "Why, from the northwest, where there is general unsettled conditions, and just when it will let up I can't say. There is nothing so unusual in it, however. The temperature of May so far has been moderately above the mean up to the 15th.

"There has been nothing remarkable about the weather of 1912 except the excessive rainfall, and this has been exceeded in the past only twice. During March and April there was an accumulated excess of rainfall amounting to 7 inches, with a total precipitation of 15.53 inches for the two months.

"In February and March of 1897 there was a greater fall, amounting to 16.34, and again the next year, in July and August, there was 18.23 inches.

"The reason of the excessive rainfall here is that the atmospheric disturbances for some reason have been much lower than usual; they have followed the gulf course rather than the lake region. For that reason we have had rain instead of clear, dry weather, as usual.

"When will it cease? Well, the Lord only knows!"

SUNDAY BATHING WILL BE ALLOWED

Separate Hours Adopted for Men and Women.

Large Crowd at Meeting of the Park Board and Warm Debate Precedes Voting—Several Ministers Favor Sunday Bathing—Vote 9 to 3.

There will be Sunday bathing at Piedmont Park.

The park commission so decreed yesterday afternoon by a vote of 9 to 3.

The bathing at Piedmont park will begin on Tuesday, May 21, and the first Sunday bathing will therefore take place on May 26.

Under an amendment offered by Mayor Winn the Sunday bathing will be as follows:

From 6 to 8 o'clock in the morning for women and children only; from 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon for men and boys only.

This separates the sexes on Sunday and removes much of the objection that had been raised to Sunday bathing in the lake.

Many Attend Meeting.

The park commission held a public session and there was such a large crowd of citizens in attendance that the meeting had to be held in the council chamber.

The matter came up under a report from the playground committee, which was as follows:

"With regard to the Piedmont park swimming pool, your committee recommends that the pool be opened for swimming every day between the hours of 5 a. m. and 7 p. m., with the exception of Sundays, when the pool will be opened from 2 to 7 p. m.

"Your committee also recommends the following regulations for swimming:

"1. Bathers shall be required to use two-piece bathing suits with sleeves which come as far as the biceps.

"2. That the smaller reservation in the swimming pool shall be exclusively for the use of women and girls and on no condition shall a man be allowed to enter the same.

"3. That the teaching of swimming will be allowed upon condition that those who desire to teach swimming be required to register their names and addresses with the general manager and agree to aid the park commission in enforcing the regulations of the bathing pool.

"4. That no one shall enter the bathing pool except through the regular entrance provided for that purpose.

"5. That bathers will not be permitted to lounge around the swimming pool, or on the platform, in the refreshment pavilion, or in the park, when wearing their bathing suits, the intent of this being to require bathers to go from their bathrooms directly to the pool and from the pool directly to their bathrooms.

"6. That those requiring bathing house accommodations will be required to register their name and address in a book kept for that purpose by the bath house attendant."

Mayor Offers an Amendment.

Mayor Winn was the first speaker, and offered an amendment, which was that women and children only be allowed to bathe on Sunday from 6 to 8 o'clock in the morning, and men and boys only in the afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. In the course of his remarks, the mayor said:

"A plunge in cool, fresh, pure water on the Sabbath is not wrong, provided there is no disorder. No human or divine law is violated. I cannot see how a Sunday swim can be wrong if there are the proper regulations and restrictions. There are hundreds of people in this city who want and are entitled to legitimate Sunday recreation. Order can be preserved at Piedmont park, and if it is not preserved, then we can quickly stop the bathing."

J. K. Orr, speaking for a committee of Sunday school superintendents, said that at a meeting of the superintendents a resolution had been adopted asking the park commission not to permit Sunday bathing. He read the resolution in which the position was taken that while Sunday bathing was not wrong, that the way it was done at the park was more in the nature of a frolic than recreation and was therefore against public morals and good order.

Councilman Claude C. Mason made an appeal for Sunday bathing. He said that if bathing was wrong then it was wrong to operate the boats on the lake and to open the cyclorama to the public.

Dr. A. R. Holderby, pastor of the Moore Memorial Presbyterian church, said he was present as a member of the Evangelical Ministers' Association to protest against a desecration of the Sabbath day.

R. J. Guinn asked that the commission postpone action until the next meeting so the people could be heard from. He said the people of Atlanta loved fair play. He took the position that the religious people of the city were opposed to Sunday bathing and should be allowed to express their views.

A Preacher for Sunday Bathing.

Dr. E. D. Ellenwood, pastor of the Universalist church, said he felt in saying a word for Sunday bathing that he was speaking for a vast majority of the people of Atlanta. He said he was in favor of Sunday bathing under proper regulations.

C. B. Haynes, representing the Georgia department of the International Religious Liberty Association, read a paper in favor of Sunday bathing.

At this juncture Commissioner Bond moved to postpone action and the motion was lost by a vote of 9 to 3.

M. A. Hale, W. E. Newell, Rev. A. A. Little and Rev. C. O. Jones were among others who spoke against Sunday bathing.

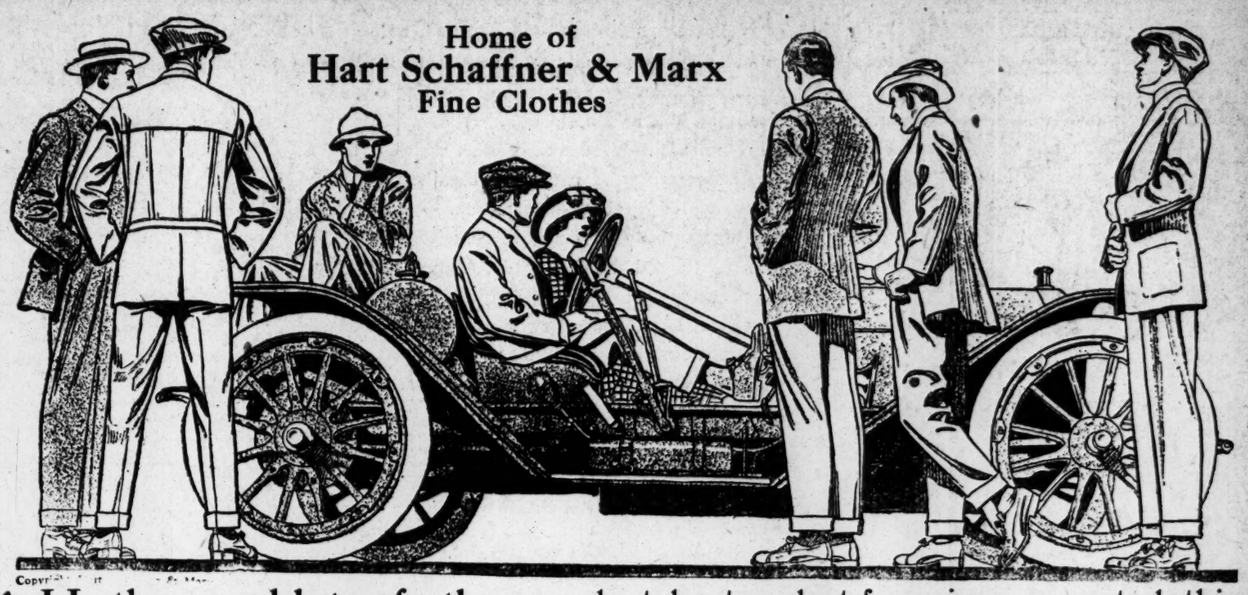

The public hearing was closed with a speech by Councilman Chambers, who made an appeal for Sunday bathing.

Against Sunday Bathing—Bond, Anderson, Thomson—3.

RECOGNITION DENIED INDUSTRIAL WORKERS

Indianapolis, Ind., May 16.—The Industrial Workers of the World lost their fight for recognition before the national socialist convention today, when by an overwhelming vote the meeting adopted the report of the committee on labor organizations advising a neutral stand regarding labor unions, indorsing neither the American Federation of Labor nor the Industrial Workers. When the majority report was read advising a neutral position friends of the industrial movement were surprised to learn that their three friends on the committee, instead of making a minority report, had affixed their names to the only report submitted. With the full committee in favor, argument was curtailed and the convention adopted the report without division.

While many expected the convention to take side with one or the other organizations, the following section of the report shows the party's position in reference to labor unions:

"The party has neither the right nor desire to interfere in any controversy which may exist within the labor union movement over questions of form of organization or technical methods of action in the industrial struggle, but trusts to labor organizations themselves to solve these questions."

CHARGE OF FRAUD AGAINST HAYGOOD

Alleged That Fitzgerald Lawyer Pocketed Proceeds of Land Sale.

Macon, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—John W. Haygood, a Fitzgerald lawyer, has been cited to appear in the United States court here on May 23 to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court.

The specific charge against lawyer Haygood is that he defrauded Mrs. Caroline A. Kilgore, of Cache county, Utah, out of $6,686. It is alleged that twelve years ago Mrs. Kilgore gave him power of attorney to sell some south Georgia lands and that he did so and then, concealing this from Mrs. Kilgore, induced her to sell the land to him for $2,282, paying her with her own money and retaining the balance from the original sale for himself.

Several years ago Mr. Haygood and his partner, Mr. Cutts, were defendants in disbursement proceedings in the United States court.

Sunday School Institute.

Macon, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Under the direction of the Sunday school board of the South Georgia Methodist Conference, a Sunday school institute will be held at Centenary church, this city, May 21, 22, and 23. Rev. John M. Outter, of Thomasville, will preside and among the speakers will be E. E. French, of Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. Charles D. Butler, superintendent of the Wesley Adult Movement; Miss Kilpatrick, of Mississippi, and Rev. J. M. Way, of South Carolina.

Liquor Licenses Unpaid.

Macon, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Some thirty near beer dealers of Macon have not paid the license fee of $300 required by the state and an inspector is coming here next week to ascertain their names and place the matter before the grand jury. The saloon keepers are liable for a misdemeanor for not paying their license.

NIGHTINGALE MEDAL FOR RED CROSS NURSES

Washington, May 16.—Red Cross nurses who perform exceptionally praiseworthy service probably will be rewarded in future by a decoration to be known as the "Florence Nightingale medal" in honor of the famous English nurse.

At today's session of the International Red Cross conference the proposition to establish a fund to provide such medals was referred to the central committees of the various countries.

A DOLLAR A WIGGLETAIL; BIG OFFER OF JOEL HURT

A dollar apiece for wiggletails.

That looks like easy money, doesn't it?

All you have got to do is to go out to a small lake in the city, catch all the wiggletails you can find, carry them to the office of a well-known citizen and receive one dollar—not per head in this case—but per tail.

This liberal, catchy offer is made by no less a responsible citizen than Joel Hurt, the well-known capitalist and promoter.

Mr. Hurt is in earnest when he announces that he will pay any person, man, woman or child, black or white, one good American buck for every wiggletail carried to his office. He means just what he says, and he has the money with which to make good his offer.

While there is no string tied to this offer, there are some conditions, of course, as Mr. Hurt or no other man, be he ever so free with his wad, is going to go about throwing dollars at wiggletails, just to see his money wiggle away from him for the fun of the thing.

Mr. Hurt appeared before the park commission Thursday afternoon and asked that the resolution to drain the lake in Springvale park he rescinded so that citizens who want the water could be heard from. This was done.

Mr. Hurt said during the course of his remarks:

"I hear that those who want the lake drained claim that it breeds mosquitoes. Now, I will pay any person in this city a dollar for every wiggletail that can be caught in the lake."

"What about frogs?" a commissioner asked.

"A few tadpoles don't hurt," was the reply.

The commissioner hastened to explain that he was thinking of engaging in the wiggletail business, and was under the impression that tadpoles were only large wiggletails.

So the offer is now before the people of Atlanta. If you are short of funds you can make a good stake by catching wiggletails in Springvale park lake—if you can find any there.

QUAKER HERB EXTRACT AND QUAKER OIL OF BALM

They Are the Two Most Wonderful Remedies Ever Seen in Atlanta.

The Health Teacher, when here, proved what Quaker Extract and Oil of Balm will do for sufferers of catarrh, rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach or blood troubles. It seems the longer this remarkable man stayed here the more wonderful are the results, for every day there are more and more reports made by people who have been cured by the use of the Quaker remedies. Some few people do not believe that the testimonials are genuine. They are subject to the severest investigation and inquiry at Coursey & Munn's drug store. The proprietors and clerks of a store would not recommend the Quaker remedies above any other if they were not convinced that it had powers that the others lacked. Ask anyone connected with Coursey & Munn's drug store what they think of these remedies. Then decide accordingly, whether you wish to try them or not. They will cheerfully answer all questions pertaining to the Quaker remedies.

Read what Mrs. Maggie Hall, living on rural route No. 2, was a sufferer from stomach troubles for about 15 years. This woman had expelled a stomach worm 15 inches long. She would bloat after meals, had headaches, nausea, belching spells, and was getting weak and thin. Mrs. Hall was being treated for stomach trouble when it was caused by this worm which she expelled. She had been trying various remedies for stomach trouble, but did not get any from them until she began taking Quaker Extract. After using one bottle this wonderful Quaker Extract did the work. I called at Coursey & Munn's drug store and explained that the remedy had done more for me than anything I had ever used in all those 15 years that I suffered from my stomach. It is really wonderful what a curative remedy it is. I will never fail to recommend it wherever I am or go.

When the Health Teacher was asked if he was not surprised at the quick work done by the Quaker Extract he said: "Such expressions are heard wherever and whenever I introduce these medicines. Quaker Extract is composed of pure herbs, roots, barks, berries, leaves and blossoms, and has no vile opiates or poisonous minerals in its formula.

WEATHER HAS NOT BEEN COLD; 'TWAS ONLY YOUR IMAGINATION

You may have shivered during the past two nights and slept with a blanket pulled close about your ears, but you were not cold. Somehow you were deluded, and if you thought it was cold you made a mistake.

The thermometer fails to bear out your thoughts. In fact it is certain that there has been no cold wave, such as you imagined was in this territory and the registrations show that the weather of May so far has been moderately above normal, and that no such temperatures as have been experienced are now being felt in this state.

The lowest mark touched Thursday morning was 52 degrees, and the day before the lowest was 55. On the same dates in many years past, according to Weather Man von Hermann's data, the mercury has cuddled around 45, 47, 48 and even lower, while in May, 1893, it fell so low as 38.

The lowest temperatures of the past two days, though extremely chilly here in view of the season, are not so low when you figure that the same mark has been reached even ten days later in the year. The record shows that 52 was reached on May 26 and May 30.

"Where is this cool spell coming from?" said Mr. von Hermann. "Why, from the northwest, where there is general unsettled conditions, and just when it will let up I can't say. There is nothing so unusual in it, however. The temperature of May so far has been moderately above the mean up to the 15th.

"There has been nothing remarkable about the weather of 1912 except the excessive rainfall, and this has been exceeded in the past only twice. During March and April there was an accumulated excess of rainfall amounting to 7 inches, with a total precipitation of 15.53 inches for the two months.

"In February and March of 1897 there was a greater fall, amounting to 16.34, and again the next year, in July and August, there was 18.23 inches.

"The reason of the excessive rainfall here is that the atmospheric disturbances for some reason have been much lower than usual; they have followed the gulf course rather than the lake region. For that reason we have had rain instead of clear, dry weather, as usual.

"When will it cease? Well, the Lord only knows!"

SUNDAY BATHING WILL BE ALLOWED

Large Crowd at Meeting of the Park Board and Warm Debate Precedes Voting—Several Ministers Favor Sunday Bathing—Vote 9 to 3.

There will be Sunday bathing at Piedmont Park.

The park commission so decreed yesterday afternoon by a vote of 9 to 3.

The bathing at Piedmont park will begin on Tuesday, May 21, and the first Sunday bathing will therefore take place on May 26.

Under an amendment offered by Mayor Winn the Sunday bathing will be as follows:

From 6 to 8 o'clock in the morning for women and children only; from 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon for men and boys only.

This separates the sexes on Sunday and removes much of the objection that had been raised to Sunday bathing in the lake.

Many Attend Meeting.

The park commission held a public session and there was such a large crowd of citizens in attendance that the meeting had to be held in the council chamber.

The matter came up under a report from the playground committee, which was as follows:

"With regard to the Piedmont park swimming pool, your committee recommends that the pool be opened for swimming every day between the hours of 5 a. m. and 7 p. m., with the exception of Sundays, when the pool will be opened from 2 to 7 p. m.

"Your committee also recommends the following regulations for swimming:

"1. Bathers shall be required to use two-piece bathing suits with sleeves which come as far as the biceps.

"2. That the smaller reservation in the swimming pool shall be exclusively for the use of women and girls and on no condition shall a man be allowed to enter the same.

"3. That the teaching of swimming will be allowed upon condition that those who desire to teach swimming be required to register their names and addresses with the general manager and agree to aid the park commission in enforcing the regulations of the bathing pool.

"4. That no one shall enter the bathing pool except through the regular entrance provided for that purpose.

"5. That bathers will not be permitted to lounge around the swimming pool, or on the platform, in the refreshment pavilion, or in the park, when wearing their bathing suits, the intent of this being to require bathers to go from their bathrooms directly to the pool and from the pool directly to their bathrooms.

"6. That those requiring bathing house accommodations will be required to register their name and address in a book kept for that purpose by the bath house attendant."

Mayor Offers an Amendment.

Mayor Winn was the first speaker, and offered an amendment, which was that women and children only be allowed to bathe on Sunday from 6 to 8 o'clock in the morning, and men and boys only in the afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. In the course of his remarks, the mayor said:

"A plunge in cool, fresh, pure water on the Sabbath is not wrong, provided there is no disorder. No human or divine law is violated. I cannot see how a Sunday swim can be wrong if there are the proper regulations and restrictions. There are hundreds of people in this city who want and are entitled to legitimate Sunday recreation. Order can be preserved at Piedmont park, and if it is not preserved, then we can quickly stop the bathing."

J. K. Orr, speaking for a committee of Sunday school superintendents, said that at a meeting of the superintendents a resolution had been adopted asking the park commission not to permit Sunday bathing. He read the resolution in which the position was taken that while Sunday bathing was not wrong, that the way it was done at the park was more in the nature of a frolic than recreation and was therefore against public morals and good order.

Councilman Claude C. Mason made an appeal for Sunday bathing. He said that if bathing was wrong then it was wrong to operate the boats on the lake and to open the cyclorama to the public.

Dr. A. R. Holderby, pastor of the Moore Memorial Presbyterian church, said he was present as a member of the Evangelical Ministers' Association to protest against a desecration of the Sabbath day.

R. J. Guinn asked that the commission postpone action until the next meeting so the people could be heard from. He said the people of Atlanta loved fair play. He took the position that the religious people of the city were opposed to Sunday bathing and should be allowed to express their views.

A Preacher for Sunday Bathing.

Dr. E. D. Ellenwood, pastor of the Universalist church, said he felt in saying a word for Sunday bathing that he was speaking for a vast majority of the people of Atlanta. He said he was in favor of Sunday bathing under proper regulations.

C. B. Haynes, representing the Georgia department of the International Religious Liberty Association, read a paper in favor of Sunday bathing.

At this juncture Commissioner Bond moved to postpone action and the motion was lost by a vote of 9 to 3.

M. A. Hale, W. E. Newell, Rev. A. A. Little and Rev. C. O. Jones were among others who spoke against Sunday bathing.

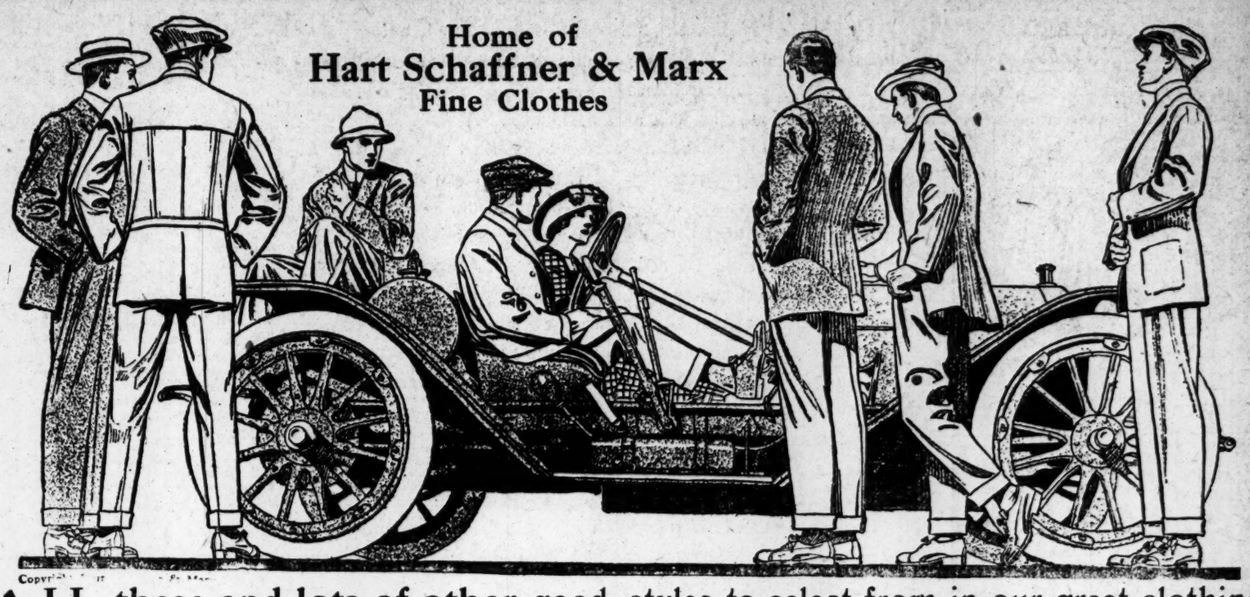

The public hearing was closed with a speech by Councilman Chambers, who made an appeal for Sunday bathing.

Against Sunday Bathing—Bond, Anderson, Thomson—3.

The "plain, unvarnished lie" is the latest word in the national campaign. Evidently, the whitewashed prevaricator stands no chance at all.

The real model married man pushes the lawn-mower and swears not at all, and anger urges him not to beat the carpet to a frazzle.

Bad of Mr. Bryan to read so many out of the party at this stage of the game, when we want to roll up an overwhelming democratic majority.

TOO MUCH "BUTTING IN."

The one big lesson that stands out of the overwhelming public repudiation of council's adverse resolution on public Sunday bathing is the wisdom, no less than the propriety, of minding one's own business—municipally as well as individually.

Council simply "butted in" on a matter with which it had no concern whatever, the questions of parks and their regulation being entirely in the hands of the park commission. As a result of its course in actually going out of its way to gratuitously interfere in a matter with which it had nothing to do, council is not only given an emphatic negative by the people, but the movement it ill-advisedly sought to stem has taken on even larger proportions.

There will not only be Sunday bathing at Piedmont park—as there should be—but the demand now is for Sunday bathing in the other parks around Atlanta.

The Sunday bathing incident, soon to be closed, is just one illustration of a too-prevailing tendency in municipal government for one department to interfere with the operation of another; for one board to attempt to trench on the authority of another; for one body to try to "hog" power and then shift on responsibility when chickens come home to roost.

Atlanta is weary of this sort of piddling and provincial procedure. It has cost much in the past, in delayed improvements, in a rising death-rate, lost motion and duplicated functions.

If council wants really to accomplish something constructive for the public welfare, something entirely within its authority and responsibility, let it get busy on the solution of the garbage disposal plant, which has been kicked around long enough, to the detriment of public health and the positive menace of life and efficiency in Atlanta.

"TWO BLADES OF GRASS."

In two communications published on this page, Joel Hurt, of Atlanta, and Colonel R. J. Redding, editor of The Constitution's "Farms and Farmers' Department," exemplify the spirit of that epigram of Dean Swift's which runs—

"He who makes two blades of grass to grow where once stood one, has done more for man than the whole race of politicians."

In friendly mood, Mr. Hurt and Colonel Redding join issue as to whether hillside farm lands should be drained or terraced.

Mr. Hurt holds that draining is the proper method, and that terracing has cost the farmers of the state approximately $1,000,000.

Colonel Redding, in the article to which Mr. Hurt takes courteous exception, and in several previous ones upon the same line, staunchly advocates terracing, backing up his position by strong arguments.

In passing, it is a hopeful omen when men such as Mr. Hurt, with large business interests, manifest a vital and intelligent concern in agriculture, the ultimate basis of all wealth.

Draining or terracing—which is the more scientific and effective procedure? Who is right, Colonel Redding or Mr. Hurt? We do not undertake to arbitrate the debate, the point being a technical one and outside the purview of the mere layman. But it is a safe assumption that The Daily and The Tri-Weekly Constitution, reaching many thousand representative southern and western farm homes with the terms of the discussion, will lead to fruitful and wide-spread consideration of the subject.

And, after all, is not such an interchange a refreshing break in the monotony of acrimonious and incessant politics? It is the land, and the men on it, and what, together, they bring forth, that truly matters in the long run. What avails the bitter clash of political gladiators, if the acres yield not their bounty; if the boll weevil or the San Jose scale encroach too ruinously; if the farmer farms merely with his hands and not also with his brains; if drouth or flood overtake the crop with which the talkative partisan must feed his hunger or lose ability to point out the pathway to political salvation?

Politics interesting? Surely! The situation in Ohio red-hot with thrills? By all means! The country in need of saying? When has it not been—during presidential campaigns? But back there, quietly plodding upon the acres, is the man upon whose shoulders finally rests the whole business—infernal and otherwise. It will do us no harm to sidestep the politicians, momentarily, and give heed to his welfare—for it is that of all of us.

THE PROBE-BUG AND A FARCE.

Because the power-plant at the federal capitol broke down the other day and left the big building in temporary darkness, there is to be a solemn congressional probe of the cause therefor, with an effort to place responsibility and apply punishment.

The present congress has been prolific in investigations, but not all of them have been happy in results.

There is, for instance, the probe by the Ashbrook house committee of expenditures in the postoffice department which has, for approximately a year, been assumedly turning the searchlight on the known iniquities and inefficiency of Hitchcockism. So far as any concrete product is concerned, the country is unaware that an inquiry has been in process, save as it has been reminded by the continued but futile proddings of the press.

In the case of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, for instance, though definite proof was offered the committee of a break-down in the postal service of this division, the chairman took the curious position that if clerks wished to testify they must pay their own expenses to and from Washington and, additionally, incur the risk of official decapitation.

As an inevitable and—perhaps—as an anticipated consequence, the inferior service in the Atlanta division grows worse daily. What is happening here is duplicated in every other section of the country. Pursuing this course, the committee has entirely ignored the fact that it may lay itself liable to suspicion of undue receptivity to the small patronage favors dispensed by the department.

In view of this notorious condition, we do not view with any particular alarm the report that the mere break-down of the capitol power-plant is about to be probed. If the age of man is extended to the days allotted to Methuselah, we may live to see something come of it.

UNDERMINING THE RACE'S BASIS.

Statistics submitted at the recent sessions of the Southern Sociological Congress in Nashville shed appalling light upon preventable infant mortality in the southern states. It was shown that that in eight leading southern cities—Atlanta, Nashville, Knoxville, Memphis, New Orleans, Birmingham, Charleston and Richmond—the death roll of infants for 1910 reached 3,716, twice as many victims as were claimed by the Titanic disaster. When it is said that 44 per cent of these deaths were traceable to bad air and bad food, the extent of human culpability begins to appear in its true dimensions. It is probable, also, that a considerable portion of these deaths were attributable to ignorance or neglect in other phases. It is safe, therefore, to assume that this mortality list could have been reduced fifty per cent, if not more.

If such conditions prevail in cities, assumedly with all the advantages of modern sanitation, food and milk inspection, education and hygiene, what must be the situation in the rural districts, as yet only remotely touched by the gospel of twentieth century health conservation?

If we also bear in mind that this statistical evidence as to infant mortality is corroborated, relatively, in every section of the country, we begin to see just what toll is taken of the race at its foundation, without regard to location or condition. It is already of common knowledge that in the neighborhood of 600,000 deaths occur each year prematurely in America, not to cite the incalculable tribute we pay in inefficiency due to disease and temporary or permanent disability.

It is the fashion to talk alarmedly of "race suicide" and the manner in which it threatens the smooth progress of society, from the numerical standpoint. Yet here is the genuine race suicide, genuinely the "slaughter of the innocents" after they have been brought into the world with infinite pain and large expense, and referable solely to the failure to apply the most fundamental rules of prevention and safeguarding.

It is, obviously, the primary function of the state and federal governments to devise and enforce such laws as will protect the physical well-being of the adult population. More imperative, even, is the obligation to undertake a campaign directed systematically at infant mortality. The average adult, of whatever station, is at least partially instructed in the procedure essential to preserve efficiency and life itself. The infant and the young child must depend upon others to supervise this phase for them. At least a tithe of the time and money we spend in breeding healthy hogs and cattle should be put forth in breeding healthy children.

TO DITCH OR TO DRAIN? TWO GEORGIANS TAKE ISSUE

Mr. Hurt for Drainage.

Editor Constitution: I notice in a recent issue of The Constitution an article from Colonel Redding on the subject of terracing land. This article is on a line with a number of others that he has written in the past advocating level terraces.

In my judgment this practice is so injurious to land that I cannot refrain longer from writing you protesting on behalf of the farmers of Georgia against what I consider to be a ruinous scheme for hillside ditching. The practice has been followed so long in some sections of Georgia, particularly in Troup county, that it has cost the farmers of the state, in my judgment, more than $1,000,000 in actual loss and waste.

It is impracticable, by means of level terracing, to prevent the water from accumulating and washing the hillside across the terraces and cutting the hill away into ruts, and, in many cases, into deep ravines. There is only one practicable method of protecting hillside farms in case of excessive rains. This method consists in relieving the land of the excessive water by providing proper drains to take the water and deliver it to a natural channel, or one made and paved with stone or other hard material.

The simplest method I have to suggest is to open a hillside ditch, making the highest point in it about midway between two natural drains or branches, and from this point to throw up a good hillside ditch, leading in both directions, until the water is carried entirely away from the cultivated land and into said drains, or, if there is no drain, to a forest. If the water is conducted into a natural drain, protected with shrubbery, with many small roots, no damage will be done. If it is conducted well into the woods the leaves and roots there would protect the land from serious damage. These ditches should be not further than 75, preferably 50, feet apart on steep hillsides. Where the land does not slope much they might be 75 feet apart. These ditches should be given a fall ranging from 8 inches to 12 inches in 100 feet, the fall in each case being governed by the slope of the hillside and the character of the soil. A steep hillside requires a ditch of the greatest fall, say 12 inches in 100 feet. A gently sloping hillside requires a ditch of less fall, say 7 inches to 8 inches in 100 feet. Ordinarily, for lands with a loam surface and a clay subsoil, it is safe to make the slope about 12 inches in 100 feet for an ordinary hillside slope.

In running the rows they should parallel the ditch both below and above it, thus making all short rows midway between the ditches. In this way the rows will conform, in large measure, to the ditches, and will help to relieve the land of excessive floods.

Land drained in this manner will hold the water in ordinary rains until it is absorbed, the rows doing their share. In heavy rains the ditches will convey the water away that is not taken away by the rows. The fall being light, not sufficient to scour, will do no damage, and the water will not be permitted to break over and cut away the hillsides.

Referring to Colonel Redding's communications, I have read with much interest many of them that contained wholesome advice to farmers, but in this matter I consider he is entirely in error, and I hope that he will cease to advise farmers to use the level, or contour, terrace.

JOEL HURT.

Atlanta, Ga.

Colonel Redding for Ditching.

Colonel Redding's article to which Mr. Hurt refers, and in which Colonel Redding advocated the ditching of hillside farm lands, appeared in The Constitution of May 13, and is as follows:

My own experience in efforts to prevent the washing of hillside lands leads me to prefer what is known as the terracing system, which involves the running of a dead level line across any part of the inclined surface to be protected and then other level lines above (uphill) and below (downhill) the first at such distance that each terrace line shall be three feet perpendicular below the next line above. These lines are first pegged out as indicated by the leveling or terracing instrument. If the surface be somewhat rough, or uneven, these pegs will often be in a very irregular and even zigzag line and the operator should regulate them, moving some a little uphill and others a little downhill so as to form graceful, easy curves, as the mean surface of the field requires. Then mark off the direction by one furrow of a scooper plow; then throw four furrows on it with a turn plow and smooth or level off the ridge thus formed, filling up the low places and reducing the high places. Then break the land with a hillside, or better, a reversible single disk plow, either of which throws every furrow slice down hill. When laying off rows commence either above or below a terrace bank and continue to about the middle of the narrowest place. Then move plow to the opposite side and continue laying off until the middle is reached again. Then fill in with short rows, first above and then below the vacant space. When crossing a gully, or an incipient gully, in laying off the level line, it is well to give a slight upgrade when approaching the gully and a similar downgrade when leaving it. This can best be accomplished by resetting the pegs for thirty or forty feet on each side before running the terrace furrow.

The next method is what is known as the graded terrace in which the terraces are given a grade of from 4 to 6 inches in every 100 feet, or ¾ to 1 inch every rod.

If you adopt this latter system you should break the land as before directed (throwing every furrow downhill) and when laying the rows commence at terrace bank and continue uphill until the terrace bank next above is reached, then fill in with short rows.

Under either system, where the terrace crosses a gully, or incipient gully, the bank should be made broader and somewhat higher and it's a good plan to bury loose stones, etc. Where gullies have already been established I would (by all means) fill these gullies with fine brush (tops uphill), cotton and corn stalks and other such convenient litter and turn a few furrows from each side onto the brush. Do this every year and you will soon fill them up.

Insane Criticism of Leader Underwood

(From The Macon Telegraph.)

A certain phase of political insanity this year seems to be quite violent. To continue to war upon a candidate after the primary, whether he is successful or unsuccessful, shows a despicable spirit. The limits to which some of the opposition to Underwood have gone in Georgia amounts to a crime.

In another column on this page we print a statement from the house leader which shows that some of those who severely criticise his vote on the amendment to the constitution to elect senators by the people, as amended by Bristow, did the same thing in effect twelve years ago.

The Telegraph is opposed to the election of senators by the people, with or without the Bristow amendment, because it strikes at the root of our system of government. Mr. Underwood is simply in accord with practically all of the politicians of both political parties. The Bristow amendment does not mean now what it would have meant thirty-five years ago. The negroes are not voting now as they did in those days—that menace is gone forever; and, further, sentiment at the north has undergone a revolution, there is no disposition there to put black heels on white necks any more. There will never be any soldiers or United States marshals at hte polls; but if perchance there should be they would be as much against the negro in politics as anybody else.

And yet The Telegraph would vote not only against the election of senators by the people, but it would vote against the Bristow amendment as a separate proposition. Those who favored the election of senators by the people were up against the proposition to accept the measure with the Bristow amendment, or see its defeat in toto. It could get through the republican senate only in that shape.

Among southern senators voting for the Bristow amendment in June, 1911, after they had satisfied themselves that it was not actually inimical to the south, were:

Senators Taylor and Lea, of Tennessee; Bally and Culberson, of Texas; Clark and Davis, of Arkansas; Gore and Owen, of Oklahoma; Martin and Swanson, of Virginia; Chilton and Watson, of West Virginia; Rayner and Smith, of Maryland; Smith, of South Carolina, and Paynter, of Kentucky.

Those who voted against it were: Senators Bankhead and Johnston, of Alabama; Fletcher, of Florida; Foster, of Louisiana; Bacon and Terrell, of Georgia, and Williams and Percy, of Mississippi.

"A Pillar of the Senate."

(From The Boston (Mass.) Record.)

Senator A. O. Bacon, of Georgia, is truly one of the pillars of the senate, in every respect typifying the ideals and the standards heretofore set as to what a southern statesman should be, able and courtly. Alas! these ideals and standards are disappearing, and the blight now has designs upon the seat of Senator Bacon. He came to the senate two years after Senator Lodge, and he therefore belongs to the class of 1895, which includes Senators Tillman and Martin. He has been conspicuous in the senate. He is especially prominent in matters appertaining to foreign relations, where he rivals Senator Lodge. He is a great stickler for the traditions and proprieties of the senate. Few men in that body are better beloved and more respected, and the constitution has no more sleepless guard than he. A valiant defender of that instrument ever has been Senator Lodge, and his addresses recently have been the best weapons seen used in defense of this real charter of democracy, but Senator Bacon is so sensitive about the welfare of the constitution that even Senator Lodge appears to him an unsafe guardian of it. "With Senator Lodge the constitution is always in danger," once remarked Senator Bacon on some point when Senator Lodge pleasantly twitted him about his solicitation for its safety.

MANY TAX ASSESSMENTS RAISED IN BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Ala., May 16.—Tax raises in Jefferson county aggregating $40,569,905 have been announced by the state tax commissioner here. Among the most striking raises are the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, which must pay on $19,693,653 increased assessment; Woodward Iron Company is raised $2,933,421; Republic Iron and Steel $1,592,541 and Pratt Consolidated Coal Company $1,418,050. Many individual assessments are in the same proportion and the action of the state board has caused a genuine sensation.

STEPLESS STREET CAR HAS COME TO STAY

New York, May 16.—The stepless street car has come to stay, according to an announcement of President Shonts of the Interborough Lines. An order has been placed for 150 of the new cars to be put in service on the Broadway line next fall. The car has been given a thorough tryout on that line and the company believes that its advantages, particularly as a vehicle appreciated by women, have been amply demonstrated.

ARCHBALD CHARGES DENOUNCED AS FALSE

Washington, May 16.—Denial of the statement of W. P. Boland, on which were based charges against Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the commerce court, was entered before the house judiciary committee today by G. F. Brownell, vice president and general counsel for the Erie railroad. Brownell declared emphatically that statements made by Boland to Attorney General Wickersham regarding Brownell's connection with the proposed sale of the Katydid culm dump to Judge Archbald and Edward J. Williams were "unqualifiedly false."

Mr. Brownell said the charge made by Boland that Brownell had urged the sale of the culm bank to Judge Archbald after the latter had called on the railroad official was "grotesquely and absurdly false."

C. G. Boland, brother of W. P. Boland, will be called when the committee meets tomorrow and an effort will be made to reach W. P. Boland himself before adjournment. Chairman Clayton said tonight that the committee would endeavor to conclude the preliminary hearing this week.

LOCKER CLUBS IN ROME WILL BE INVESTIGATED

Rome, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Judge John W. Maddox, in his charge to the grand jury, called in special session today to consider the blind tiger cases recently made against twelve of fifteen white men, stated that he would sentence every violator of the prohibition law brought before him and convicted to a term on the chaingang, even if it were his own son. He charged the jury to investigate the Elks club, the Owls and the Metropolitan, saying that they would fare like the others if convicted.

He remarked that several clubs should not have been permitted by the legislature in connection with the prohibition law and that if properly conducted they needed no liquor license. Judge Maddox also stated that he would not send the cases against violators of the prohibition law to the city court.

The jury returned about twenty indictments today and heavy bonds are being required by the authorities, who claim that they have evidence to convict.

RESOLUTIONS OPPOSE THE DILLINGHAM BILL

Kadishe Lodge No. 216 and Georgia Lodge No. 493, Independent Order Brith Abraham, with a combined membership of 765, have adopted strong resolution against the Dillingham bill, now pending in the lower house of congress, and which proposes to place severe restrictions around immigration. Copies of these resolutions have been forwarded to the president of the United States and to Georgia's representatives and senators in congress. The two lodges have also appointed Isadore Springer, J. Jacobs, Leon Eplan and H. Lichtenstein a committee to enlist the support of the friends of immigration against the passage of this measure.

The resolutions object to the requirement of a literacy test in the Dillingham and Burnett bills, and to the requirement of the possession of a certificate of identity in the Dillingham bill, and declare:

"These measures are so un-American in spirit, so inhuman in its effect as to practically mean the closing of the gates of America in the faces of those worthy immigrants who seek shelter in the United States from religious and political persecution."

The resolutions further declare that such legislation will seriously hamper the proper development of the country and retard its commercial progress; and they, therefore, protest against the passage of these measures and earnestly appeal to Georgia's representatives in congress to use every legitimate means to accomplish their defeat.

SAM STEELE IS DEAD; WAS LONG AT CAPITOL

Sam Steele, colored, porter in the attorney general's office in the state capitol, died very suddenly yesterday about noon, from an anoplectic stroke. He fell in the hallway, as though from vertigo, and seeing that his condition was serious, Attorney General Felder promptly had a physician called and Sam was taken to the hospital, where he died soon after.

Sam Steele was probably one of the best-known negroes in Georgia. He held the position of porter under several governors, beginning service in the state capitol building on Marietta street, before the present building was erected. He had been in the service of various state officials as porter and officeman for a period of thirty years or more. He is known all over Georgia by men whose business often brought them to the capitol, and he made many friends among the white people by his courteous attention and efforts always to please. He is said to have been about 65 years old, and is survived by his wife and several children and grandchildren.

LIFELONG REPUBLICAN TO VOTE FOR UNDERWOOD

Thomasville, Ga., May 16.—"Although I have been a lifelong republican, I shall cast my vote for Oscar Underwood if he becomes the nominee of the democratic party for president," said Mr. Leland, a prominent citizen of Chicago who has been spending the winter in Thomasville and leaves today for his home in that city. Mr. Leland stated that he had never voted anything but the republican ticket before, but that he had become so disgusted by the controversy being carried on between President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt in their scramble for the nomination that he would not vote for either of them. He admired Mr. Underwood very much, he stated, and should he be nominated he would undoubtedly vote for him.

FOUR BROOKS JURIES PUZZLING OVER CASES

Quitman, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Four juries out deliberating upon cases at one time is the rare record of the Brooks superior court. Lawyers who have been practicing for years state that they have never known of a similar occurrence.

The juries are considering the following cases: H. B. Courtney, charged with forgery; T. W. Woodward, larceny after trust; Will Duhart, violation prohibition laws, and Sadie Craxton, alias Sadie Connie, colored, stabbing.

The jury in the Courtney case retired to the jury room about 11:30 o'clock this morning, while the Craxton case went to the jury at 6 p. m. Conflicting testimony in the Courtney case seems to have that case hopelessly tied.

OLD VIOLIN PROVES FORTUNE TO FARMER

Gettysburg, Pa., May 16.—Charles Riley, a farmer here, has been freed from worry over financial troubles by the discovery that an old violin left him by his father several years ago is an instrument of rare make.

Riley thought little of the instrument until he was offered $50 for it. He then suspected that it might be worth more and refused the offer. A firm of experts later appraised the instrument at $7,500. It bears the date "1703," which is carved on it.

His father purchased it at public sale for less than a dollar.

Four Positions Open—Captain George S. Donnell, secretary to the civil service commission for the fifth district, has four important examinations booked for June 6. An assistant photographer for assignment to the bureau of mines, with salary ranging from $800 to $1,200 a year, is wanted, as is a laboratory aid to work in the bureau of plant industry at the same salary. Other places open are an examiner of surveys in the field service of the department of agriculture, the entrance salary ranging from $1,200 to $1,500 a year, and a preparator in zoology for the national museum in Washington, D. C., with a pay of $60 per month.

Called to Asheville.—Mrs. Hugh Crawford, of 253 Crumley street, has been called to Asheville, N. C., her former home, by telegrams announcing the serious illness of her mother, who was stricken with paralysis the first of the week. The telegrams indicated that her condition is critical.

MOBILE WINS CASE AGAINST RAILROADS

Washington, May 16.—The interstate commerce commission today held that where a railroad has a wharf to which its tariffs offer delivery and at which part of the shipping public is served, the wharf becomes a public terminal and if all shippers are not given access to it by the boats they choose to employ it becomes the carriers' duty to make delivery at other available docks at the same rate.

This decision, prepared by Commissioner Lane, was given in the case of Mobile Chamber of Commerce against the Mobile and Ohio railroad and other carriers. It affects not merely the railroad-operated wharves and docks at Mobile, but applies in principle to all rail carriers doing a connecting business with water lines anywhere in the United States. The commission's order in the case is effective July 1.

FLOWERS FOR THE SEA IN MEMORY OF SAILORS

New York, May 16.—In memory of the sailors who died at sea, during the war between the states, a boatload of flowers will be towed out to the middle of the Hudson next Sunday afternoon and there sunk, so that its contents may strew the surface of the water. The Daughters of Veterans of the War initiated this custom last year. In connection with the departure of the boat from its pier there will be addresses by representatives of various patriotic societies.

J. W. AUSTIN HEADS STATE PYTHIANS

Savannah Wins Drill Contest With Atlanta Second and West Point Third.

Augusta, Ga., May 16.—The grand lodge of Georgia Knights of Pythias today elected J. W. Austin, of Atlanta, grand vice chancellor, to succeed Grand Chancellor George T. Cann,

J. W. AUSTIN,

of Savannah. The only office in which there was a contest was for grand outer guard, and Mr. George Schaufele, of Augusta, won this position over Mr. W. T. Anderson, of Macon. Next year the grand lodge will meet in Waycross.

It was decided to have a state grand deputy chancellor at a salary of $1,500 per year to devote his entire time to the Knights of Pythias. He will assist the district deputies and be a rejuvenating officer also of lodges that are weak.

Following are the officers selected today: Grand chancellor, J. W. Austin, Atlanta; grand vice chancellor, Miller S. Bell, Milledgeville; prelate, H. M. Stanley, Dublin; grand keeper of records and seal, W. H. Leopold, Savannah; grand master of exchequer, R. C. Norman, of Washington; grand master at arms, John P. Cheney, Marietta; grand inner guard, Troy Beatty, Athens; grand outer guard, George C. Schaufele, Augusta.

The Pythian Sisters elected the following officers: G. C., Mrs. Jennie Dreeson, Savannah; G. S., Mrs. Medora Brown, Augusta; G. J., Mrs. Addie Koneman, Savannah; G. M., Mrs. Julia Schaufele, Augusta; G. M. of R. and C., Mrs. Margaret McFather, Edison; G. M. of F., Mrs. Annie M. Cumming, Augusta; G. P., Miss Helen Glass, Fort Valley; G. G., Mrs. Gussie Behr, Savannah; supreme representative, four years, Mrs. Olivia Benton, Savannah; alternate, Mrs. Willie Brewer, Douglas.

Miners Urged to Accept.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 16.—In as strong terms as he could possibly use John P. White, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, and other union leaders today urged the delegates in the anthracite miners' convention to accept the tentative agreement arranged with the coal operators and end the present suspension of mining. The entire day was consumed in speech-making and a vote on the big question may not come before Saturday.

HUDSON LOOKED 'WELL TO FUTURE

Named Fulton Oil Inspector, April 25, For Two-Year Term.

Appointed Shelby Smith's Successor for Two Years, Although Law Says Appointments Must Be for Unexpired Term.

On April 25, just five days before he went out of the office of commissioner of agriculture, T. G. Hudson, now candidate for governor, received the resignation of Shelby Smith as oil inspector, located in Atlanta, and immediately appointed M. E. Tilly for a term of two years, notwithstanding the law specifically provides that such appointments to fill vacancies shall be made only for the unexpired term.

This statement was made Thursday by Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Conner, who was surprised to learn that such an appointment had been made, as no information concerning it had ever been communicated to him.

Commisosner Conner looked into the matter because he had received a number of applications for the appointment of oil inspector in Atlanta, it being the apparent impression that Mr. Smith was about to resign the place. Mr. Conner received all the applications and the indorsements accompanying them, and stated he would give them due consideration.

Discovery Is Made.

Mr. Conner began to make inquiries as to whether Mr. Smith proposed to resign.

"Why he has already resigned," remarked one of the clerks in the office who happened to know about the matter.

Investigation developed the fact that Mr. Smith had resigned on April 25—it is said he is to become Mr. Hudson's campaign manager—and that the appointment of Mr. Tilly was made the same day.

"Now, Mr. Smith's term would have expired October 1," said Commissioner Conner, "and I found that Mr. Tilly had been appointed by Mr. Hudson and commissioned for a term of two years, from April 25.

"I cannot figure where Mr. Hudson had any right to make such an appointment as that and I have referred the matter to the attorney general."

The law as to filling vacancies among oil inspectors is found in section 1801 of the code and distinctly and specifically provides that appointments to fill vacancies shall be made only for the unexpired term.

Some Hold It Invalid.

Some contend that under his commission, Mr. Tilly can hold the office only until October 1, or until such date as would have marked the expiration of Mr. Smith's term; while others hold that his commission for two years is invalid under the law, and that therefore the appointment is invalid.

In any event there are several applicants for the place who are much disappointed since they learned that the appointment which they expected Mr. Conner to make was made by Mr. Hudson just before he left the office.

Commissioner Conner said he had never seen Mr. Tilly since going into the office on May 1, and did not even know who he was.

Although it is usual to give out such appointments for publication in the press, no notice whatever was given of it, and nothing was known of it until Commissioner Conner made the discovery, as the result of applications from those who were under the impression that Mr. Smith was about to resign. Publication is not made of the names of all oil inspectors, but the Fulton county position is such an important one, paying something like $2,400 a year, that announcement is usually made of it in the press.

SHOT DEAD IN HOME BY THE BLACK HAND

New Orleans, May 16.—Another crime in New Orleans early this morning has been laid at the door of the Black Hand Society. Anthony J. Sciambra, aged 27, who has been conducting a grocery and bar at the corner of Villere and France streets, was shot to death in his home at 2 o'clock this morning and his wife received two dangerous bullet wounds. The 1-year-old baby of the couple, who was asleep in the same bed with its parents when the first shots were fired, was uninjured.

Sciambra and his wife were shot while they lay in bed. The man jumped up and started to the door when four other shots rang out from the darkness and he fell dead, three bullet wounds piercing his chest. The woman, with two bullet wounds in her hip and shoulder, ran to the window and called for help. The assassin ran without any effort to rob the place. The police are working on clues which lead to the belief that the crime was committed on orders of a secret society among Italians.

AIRSHIPS MAY BE USED IN FIGHTING FLAMES

Perth Amboy, N. J., May 16.—An interesting discussion of the practicability of using aeroplanes in fire-fighting occupies a considerable part of the minutes of the 26th annual convention of the New Jersey Firemen's Association held here last night. The subject was brought up by John R. Johnson, statistician of the association, who spoke of the advantages of having automobile fire engines and added that he would not be surprised to hear that aeroplanes were to be used as fire fighters.

Several delegates scoffed at the idea and opposed a motion to have Mr. O'Brien's remarks placed on the minutes. Mr. O'Brien insisted however, saying that aeroplanes were now used in war and it would be just as feasible to drop flame-extinguishing chemicals from an aeroplane on a blazing area. The convention voted to have Mr. O'Brien's remarks placed on the minutes and re-elected him with the other officers.

IS THERE SUBTLE PSYCHOLOGY LINKING DOGS AND CATS?

Why is it that nine people out of ten, when asked by the tax receiver "Have you a dog?" will answer, "No, I haven't a dog, but I've got a cat."

The query was laughingly propounded to Tax Receiver Armistead Thursday, after that answer had been proffered by nearly every person who came in to return property for taxation.

The tax receiver was amused. He laughed as he disclaimed the psychological insight that would enable him to fathom the reason why.

"But it's a fact," said the tax receiver, "that nine out of ten will answer in that way when asked about their dogs. 'No' will be the response to the question, 'I haven't a dog, but I've got a cat,' or maybe the answer will be, 'No, I haven't a dog, but I've got a cat and some chickens.'"

The information as to the existence of the cat or the chickens is always conveyed in a very hopeful, obliging tone, as much as to say, "I certainly regret the absence of a dog, but if a cat wil do you any good—."

Canine Catastrophes.

Another surprising thing about the dogs is the number of things that can happen to the canine member of the family between taxation times.

"Nope. Had one. It died."

"No; somebody poisoned my dog."

"No, I killed him to keep from paying taxes on him."

"No. There's a dog at my house, but he ain't mine. He just took up with us."

"No. My wife won't let a dog stay on the place."

"No. Somebody shot my dog." And so on, without end.

Once in a while, however, someone returns a dog for taxation.

One man said he had nothing but a dog. He walked into the office with the statement that he wanted to return his wife's dog for taxation.

"Any real estate?" queried the tax receiver. "No," said the man. He had neither real estate, personal property, kitchen utentils—nothing but that dog of his wife's. They boarded, he explained.

Inadvertent Admissions.

Many of those who gave in dogs, did it inadvertently, thinking that a recent decision of the court of appeals, declaring that dogs are not "property," rendered the tax void.

"Yes, I've got a dog," would be the reply, "but you know that tax has been lifted."

Questioning would elicit the fact that the decision of the court was the basis of the belief.

"It's queer how many people read that story," said Tax Receiver Armistead; "but they forgot to remember that the dog tax is a special tax and that it is not based on a rate of valuation. The $100 dog goes in for $1, and the mongrel pup goes in for $1. There is no discrimination."

Time Expires Soon.

It is almost time for the tax books to close, and people had better be in a hurry to make their returns, cautions the tax receiver.

"The rush will be something terrible at the last if they don't come in now," explained the tax receiver, "and if they will just consider for a minute that the rush means long waiting, and remember the added fact that it will be very hot and close and that these quarters are none too large, they will for their own comfort and convenience come in at once."

Only 9,000 have been received so far, which means that approximately 28,000 returns must still be made. And there is but a short time in which to do it.

CONSERVATION OF HEALTH IS DISCUSSED BY SLATON

Augusta, May 16.—(Special.)—At the annual commencement and graduation exercises of the Augusta Medical College, now a branch of the state university, the address was delivered by Hon. John M. Slaton, president of the state senate and candidate for governor.

Mr. Slaton spoke of the conservation of life and health and the splendid work of the physician in this direction. Illustrating the apathy which has long prevailed with regard to health and sanitary problems, Mr. Slaton said:

"When the great White Star liner Titanic went down carrying more than 1,300 persons to watery graves and causing a property loss of twenty millions, the world stood aghast, nations were horrified; and yet in the United States alone, according to the best statistical authority, of the 1,500,000 deaths and 3,000,000 cases of sickness every year, 42 per cent are preventable. In my home city of Atlanta alone, as reported by the city bacteriologist, 1,341 of the 2,999 persons who died last year ought to be alive and well today. Here is the equivalent of a Titanic disaster every year, which we can and should prevent."

Mr. Slaton pointed out that from tuberculosis alone the total deaths in the United States equal those from typhoid fever, meningitis, smallpox, cancer, diabetes and appendicitis combined, and 99 per cent of such cases are preventable. Looking at it from a purely commercial standpoint, the United States suffer a loss in the value of lives and time taken from work, annually, amounting to $3,000,000,000.

By the proper use of preventive measures, he pointed out, within the last half century longevity has been increased in Prussia, where the greatest progress has been made in applied medical science, twenty-nine years; England has similarly increased longevity sixteen years and the United States fourteen years. In Prussia typhoid fever has been practically eradicated; the same thing can be done here.

"While the doctrine of conservation as applied to forests and lands is occupying the public mind," Mr. Slaton said, "let us not fail to understand and appreciate the tremendous possibilities that lie within the power of the physician in alleviating human suffering and extending the span of human life. Legislatures and governments are beginning to understand its importance and to assist by the enactment of wise laws, in the conservation of life and health. It is such opportunities as these, turned to good account, that magnify and exalt the medical profession."

Mr. Slaton, who, as a member of the general assembly, took prominent part in the creation of the state board of health, pointed to the valuable work that body is doing, and said it must unquestionably accomplish great good for the state, especially if the proper co-operation is given by the people to whom these benefits must accrue.

PRESSMEN RETURN TO THE GEORGIAN

Men Who Went Out on Strike Are Once More at Their Old Jobs.

Normal conditions have been restored at The Georgian. The pressmen who, on Saturday, went out at the instance of President George L. Berry, of the International Pressmen's Union, returned to work in The Georgian office yesterday.

Announcement to the effect that the trouble in The Georgian office was over was made by that newspaper in its columns yesterday.

It should be understood that there was no grievance on the part of the men with The Georgian or its management, but that the difficulty arose over a misapprehension as to the status of the pressmen's situation in other cities. The action of the pressmen in returning to work on The Georgian proves this to be true.

The Georgian was able to print its editions regularly through the aid of people in its own employ.

NAME OF ARCHIE BUTT OFF THE ARMY ROLL

Washington, May 16.—The name of Major Archibald W. Butt, President Taft's aide, who went down with the Titanic, has been formally dropped from the United States army roll. Ordinarily 90 days are allowed to pass before the name of a missing officer is stricken from the roll, but in the case of Major Butt it was deemed useless to follow custom.

LEFT $3,500 IN CASH IN THE SMOKING CAR

Pittsburg, Pa., May 16.—John N. Heany, cashier of the First National Bank of Bridgeville, left a satchel containing $3,500 in cash in the smoking car of a train when he arrived here last evening. Frank Stattler, baggage-master, found the satchel and turned it in at the "lost and found" room of the railroad company. Heany discovered his loss when he reached a local bank and recovered the money within a few minutes.

G. O. P. VANISHES IN LOUISIANA

Its Franchise Lost as Result of Returns—No Longer Officially Exists.

Baton Rouge, La., May 16.—As a party the republican party no longer exists in Louisiana today. Its franchise was lost when the official returns of the April election were read in the joint session of the general assembly today and the result formally promulgated. Only 4,961 votes were cast for the republican candidates and as this is less than the ten per cent required by state law, the organization no longer exists and the only way that the names of the nominees can be placed on the ticket in the future is by petition, as has been the case with independent candidates. The forfeit of the franchise also prevents the party from availing itself of the provisions of the state primary law.

Russia Blocks Chinese Loan.

London, May 16.—Meetings of the bankers representing the United States, Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia and Japan to discuss the terms of the Chinese loan have been suspended, as the conditions submitted by Russia are not acceptable to the original group of four powers. It is understood Japan has concurred in the Russian proposals, but the others say they are unable to agree to them. Further meetings will be held after Russia has given further consideration to the matter.

J. P. BAILIFF MUST PAY $500 DAMAGES

Verdict for That Amount Rendered for Seizure of Woman's Only Bed.

A verdict for $500, the full amount sued for as damages, was awarded yesterday to Mrs. Mattie Watts against C. W. Hopkins, a bailiff of the justice court of the Fourteen Hundred and Twenty-second district.

Mrs. Watts entered suit in February, 1911, charging that Hopkins had levied upon the only bed she had and that by taking the bed against her protest, the bailiff compelled her two sick children to sleep in the cold, damp floor for six days.

She said that she told the bailiff that she held only a retainer title to the bed, a furniture company being the owner; but that he, despite her protest, ordered his negro attendants to take the bed.

In recompense for her humiliation and inconvenience, she asked $500 damages, and the jury gave it to her.

The suit was directed against C. W. Hopkins, W. A. Gresham, H. Joseph Schaeter and S. C. Glass.

Tindall and Silverman represented Mrs. Watts.

HE RECEIVES $100,000 FOR ACT OF KINDNESS

New Haven, Conn., May 16.—Ernest W. Marlow, a young New York lawyer, who gave up his berth in a crowded Pullman to an elderly woman on a train between New York and Richmond several years ago, will receive nearly a hundred thousand dollars for his kindness. The elderly woman, Mrs. Helen Marsh, of this city, made him her residuary legatee, and the appraisal of the estate just filed here specifies the amount which he will get as $88,100.

RURAL NIGHT SCHOOLS TO DESTROY ILLITERACY

Frankfort, Ky., May 16.—On night schools in the rural districts of Kentucky, members of the state association of county school superintendents base hopes of eliminating a large proportion of the state's adult illiteracy.

The association is today reading with much interest the report of what Cora Wilson Stewart has accomplished by such means in Rowan county, in which she is superintendent of public instruction. She has succeeded in keeping the school plant well employed each night "larning" the elders, whose children occupy the buildings during the day.

WESLEYAN HOLDS MAY FESTIVAL

Miss Lucile Ray Is Crowned Queen at Class Day Exercises.

Macon, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—It was fete day at Weslevan college today and the young ladies made the most of the occasion, the annual class day exercises taking the form of a May festival, featured by the crowning of Miss Lucile Ray, of Macon, as queen of the May.

The exercises were held on the athletic field and were witnessed by hundreds of people. The procession formed at the college gymnasium, and, two abreast, the girls marched to the field, where the lines separated and the queen attended by sub-freshmen, walked between the columns to the throne. The picture was a pretty one, the green of the college campus blending perfectly with the class colors and the interesting costumes of the girls, many of whom were in dresses representing various nations.

Girls wearing Scotch plaid bonnets and other bands of green did the Scotch and Irish drills, while the chorus sang "Little Irish Girl."

The Hungarian drill and Japanese love song, by the chorus, followed, and twelve girls with sun-bonnets and milk pails performed the milkmaids' drill. The May queen from her throne presented the sub-freshman class with the senior colors, and the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" concluded the program.

At the close President Ainsworth announced that the basketball and tennis championship had been won by the junior class, and that Miss Georgiana Clark, of Rolla, Mo., had won the individual tennis championship.

Terrell Indorses Gurr.

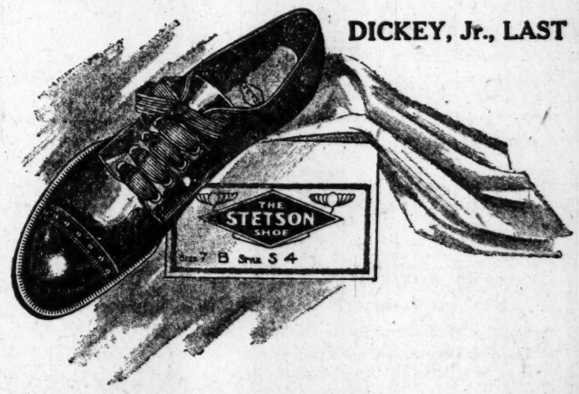

Dawson, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Terrell county's delegation to the approaching state democratic convention indorsed William H. Gurr for district delegate to the Baltimore convention. He is a successful lawyer here, and Dawson's court solicitor. Dr. J. G. Dean, a prominent physician here, was an aspirant for the position, but withdrew from the contest.

Bernhardt-Pettway.

The marriage of Mr. Luther C. Pettway and Miss Louisa May Bernhardt, daughter of Mr. Max Bernhardt, took place in the study of the Central Congregational church Wednesday, May 15, 5 p. m., witnessed by only the two families. Rev. G. L. Hanscom officiated.

Bridge Club Entertained.

Mrs. W. T. Gwinne entertained her bridge club and several guests Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. C. Tennent on Capitol avenue. The tables were placed on the broad, vine-shaded porch. A color scheme of pink and white was effectively carried out in the decorations and refreshments.

Mrs. Gwinne was becomingly gowned in white lingerie and Mrs. Tennent, who assisted in receiving, wore midnight blue silk.

The club prize for top score, a dainty box of handkerchiefs, was won by Mrs. O. C. McCanne, and the guest prize, silk hose, went to Mrs. Tennent.

Those who enjoyed Mrs. Gwinne's hospitality were Mrs. W. C. Tennent, Mrs. E. P. Nowell, Jr., Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Field, Mrs. G. M. Sullivan, Mrs. Walter Wilson, Mrs. George Wilson, Mrs. O. C. McCanne, Mrs. Louis Joerrissen, Mrs. John Sage, Mrs. W. C. Lloyd, Mrs. C. L. Daniel, Miss Ella Stevens and Miss Foster.

To Miss Cone.

Miss Dorothy High will entertain informally tonight at her home on Peachtree street in compliment to her guest, Miss Vera Cone, of Washington, D. C., who arrived yesterday. A few couples are invited for a small dance.

On Saturday night Miss Mamie Ansley will entertain a small party at supper at East Lake before the Athletic Club dance.

Anniversary Reception.

Rev. and Mrs. Fritz Rauschenberg gave a beautiful reception last night at their home in College Park to celebrate their crystal wedding. One hundred and twenty-five guests were assembled, and the occasion was one of delightful hospitality.

The reception hall and living room were glowing with the rich color of crimson ramblers, spreading masses of the roses in big jars being used with artistic effectiveness.

In the drawing room and dining room there was a profusion of Paul Neyron roses, the deep pink blooms on their long stems rising, majestic, out of tall jardinieres.

The table in the dining room was beautiful in pink, the candles having rose shades, and the centerpiece a crystal basket of Paul Neyron roses.

Delicious refreshments were served, and an orchestra furnished music.

Mrs. Rauschenberg was becomingly gowned in white chiffon and lace.

Receiving with host and hostess were their three children, Grace Lynnette, Inez Lavollette and William Riley, and Dr. A. R. Holderby, Mrs. R. W. Hay, Miss Rosa Rauschenberg, Colonel and Mrs. J. C. Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lyle, Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Hurt, Mr. W. S. Cox, Mrs. Emma Connally, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Stillman, Mr. and Mrs. Garnett McMillan.

Assisting in entertainment were Mrs. A. H. Alfriend, Mrs. E. D. Farris, Mrs. R. T. Aderhold and a group of young ladies, Misses Minnie May Powell and Hallie Byrd, of Lawrenceville; Fannie Henley, Ina May Farris, Annie Lamar, Margaret Oxenham, Kathleen Hines and Miss E. A. Haralson.

Mrs. G. B. Byrd and Mrs. E. J. Walker served punch.

WORLD'S BEST ART TO BE DISPLAYED

Masterpieces of English Painting Will Be Seen at the Montgomery.

Atlantans will have an opportunity to become acquainted with the masterpaintings of the world in the series of reproductions of famous pictures, which will be shown each week at the Montgomery theater. The first films will be run this afternoon.

The arrangement was perfected by Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, president of the Atlanta Art Association. The reproductions will include various schools and will represent various nations.

English painters will be represented this Friday afternoon, and the following pictures will be shown.

James Millais—Born 1829. Married Ruskin wife. "Northwest Passage," "Knight Errant."

J. M. W. Turnert—Born 1775. "Fighting Termeraire" (Tate gallery, all English).

Sir Edward Burne-Jones—Born 1833. "Beauty's Mirror," "The Prioress' Tale," "Cupid Psyche," "King Cophetna and the Beggar Maid" (Tate).

Dante Gabriel Rossetti—Born 1828. "Paola and Francesca," "The Beloved," "Loving Cup."

G. F. Watts—Born 1817. "Paola and Francesca," "Hope," "Sir Galahad," "Portrait of the Artist."

Lord Frederick Leighton—"The Return of Persephone," "The Garden of the Hesperides," "Helen of Troy."

Walter Crane—"Water Lily."

ANNUAL CHOIR FESTIVAL AT THE CATHEDRAL

The annual choir festival will be held at St. Philip's Cathedral next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The Communion Service, Kyrie, Creed, Sanctus, Agnus Dei and Gloria, will be from "Messe Solennelle" ("St. Cecilia"), by C. Gounod. The anthem at the offertory will be "King All Glorious," by Joseph Barnby. At the ablutions will be sung hymn 227, set to "Panis Angelicus," by Cesar Franck.

There will also be a corporate communion for the members of the choir. All who have at any time been connected with St. Philip's choir are cordially invited to be present at the service and make it a sort of reunion of old choir boys.

FOR JOINT MEMORIAL TO BUTT AND MILLET

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 16.—(Special.)—Permission for the erection in the city of Washington without expense to the government of a joint memorial to Major Archie W. Butt and Mr. Francis Davis Millet, who perished in the Titanic disaster, was sought today in a resolution introduced by Senator Bacon, of Georgia.

Senator Borah wanted to know why these two were singled out when there were so many heroes. Senator Bacon explained that Butt and Millett were the only two on the ship who held commissions of the government, one in the military service and the other in the civil service as vice chairman of the commission of fine arts.

"This is not an unfair distinction," said Mr. Bacon. "It is simply an effort of friends of these two distinguished men to pay a tribute to their heroism and devotion and does not in any way discriminate against others."

He pointed to a number of monuments erected in Washington by private subscription to commemorate the deeds of notable men.

Objection having been made, the resolution went over.

MADAME RACHELLE'S ADVICE TO BEAUTY SEEKERS

Margaret A.—Yes, it is possible to remove freckles quickly and without injury. There is a scientific laboratory product known as Wilson's Freckle Cream which is favored by the profession for its unvarying satisfactory results. You may buy it at most any good drug store for 50c the jar or direct from the Wilson Freckle Cream Co., Charleston, S. C. It is entirely harmless and positively guaranteed.

Mrs. Scott—To plump out your arms and neck is not an easy matter. Massage with a good skin food will help, and so will the proper exercise movements. I would suggest that you consult a physician concerning the most nourishing diet.

WET FEET CAUSED TROUBLE

Mrs. Coram Couldn't Avoid It, But Friend in Need Promptly Remedies the Mischief Done.

Tampa, Fla.—Mrs. E. C. Coram, of 2905 Highland Avenue, says: "I was very weak and worn out from womanly troubles. My husband bought me two bottles of Cardui to take as a tonic, and from the first day, it seemed to me, I felt its good effects. By the time I had used the two bottles I felt and looked like a new woman.

Some time later I got my feet wet at the wrong time, and I turned to Cardui to remedy the mischief done.

Before I had taken one bottle, it gave me the needed relief.

I gave the rest to a friend, for her daughter, who was suffering with similar troubles, and it cured her.

Cardui has had a most wonderful curative effect upon me. I am now 50 years of age, and feeling well. I constantly praise Cardui to all my sick friends. It is a wonderful remedy."

Thousands of ladies, all over the country, know by actual experience what it will do, for the ailments to which all women are liable.

It has helped others, and this is the best of proof that it will help you.

TIFTON BOARD OF TRADE HAS ROUSING MEETING

Tifton, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—The second of the weekly meetings recently inaugurated, held at the Tifton Chamber of Commerce last night, was a rousing one. The attendance was large, enthusiastic, and best of all was a spirit of good fellowship that promises great results for Tifton. It was a "get together" meeting, following the "talk it over" meeting of last week, and the harmony and unity of purpose manifest shows that a new era of development is at hand for Tifton.

President I. W. Myers presided and talks were made by L. P. Skeen on "The Americus, Tifton and Atlantic Railroad;" C. W. Fulwood, J. L. Herring, Rev. C. W. Durden, John W. Greer, R. E. Dinsmore, W. W. Timmons, D. Buchanan, E. L. Ireland, J. H. Young, J. S. Ridgdill, Henry Tift, H. H. Tift, concluding with an exhortation to Tifton to get together and do something, as we had talked long enough, and expressing his willingness to pay his part toward any public enterprise.

TIFTON WILL HAVE COTTON COMPRESS

Tifton, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Tifton will have a cotton compress ready for this fall's crop. The plant will cost $42,000 and nearly all the capital subscribed is local. The contract was agreed upon tonight between a committee of the chamber of commerce and a representative of the Webb Compress Company. It was first taken up last night and terms were under consideration during the day and tonight an agreement was reached. A site will be selected tomorrow. A committee was also at work today securing the necessary capital for another cotton ginnery which will be erected in time to handle this fall's crop.

KINEMACOLOR LECTURES ON CIVIC IMPROVEMENTS

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Atlanta theater kinemacolor motion pictures depicting subjects relative to civic improvement and industrial welfare will be shown free under the auspices of the National Cash Register Company.

The various women's clubs of the city have evinced much interest in these pictures, and a large attendance is confidently expected.

These pictures are said to afford a striking object lesson in the possibilities of beautifying bare and unsightly spots and back yards. A number of stereopticon views of some of Atlanta's back yards will be shown as an added attraction.

Meat Probe Postponed.

Washington, May 16.—The house committee on expenditures in the agricultural department today postponed indefinitely action on the Nelson resolution to investigate the meat inspection service. At the hearing on the resolution during this and last week various charges were made against the service.

GRAY HAIR ADDS DIGNITY, BUT AT THE COST OF LOOKING OLD

Prevent Gray Hair, Don't Try to Cure It—Use Healing Pine to Nourish the Scalp.

Gray or faded hair can be prevented. It is the natural result of lack of nourishment, lack of stimulation to the hair follicles.

Keep the scalp clean and pure by frequent washing—not too frequent, however.

In washing the hair use Krom Hair Soap, because it is made of the best material that it is possible to obtain and the product of the best soap chemists in the world. It relieves scalp and hair of foreign substances and leaves it in the natural fluffy condition, not taking from it the natural oils that make for life of the hair.

Krom Hair Soap contains a wholesome balmy pine essence so beneficial and necessary to the hair. It not only thoroughly cleanses the scalp and hair but it medicates the pores and stimulates the hair follicles (roots) to grow live, healthy hair and to resist and throw off disease germs.

You can prevent gray hair, but you cannot cure it. Prevent it now by the use of Krom Hair Soap, it will keep the scalp healthy. Where dandruff or other scalp ailments are far advanced use Krom Scalp Remedy. It relieves all cases, restores the scalp to a healthy condition and Krom Hair Soap will keep it healthy.

For sale by all druggists. Guaranteed to please you or your money will be returned. Krom Scalp Remedy, $1.00 bottles. Krom Hair Soap, 25c cakes. A liberal trial cake of Krom Hair Soap and a book you should have, "The Proper Care of the Skin, Scalp and Hair," by J. J. Krom, Specialist, will be sent for 4c stamps or silver.

SUBMARINE TUNAR STILL HARD AGROUND

Atlantic City, N. J., May 16.—The submarine Tunar, which grounded about 4 miles off the Great Egg harbor life-saving station this morning, is still hard aground and appears to be drifting closer in shore.

Captain Dannehauer, Chief Electrician Parks, Engineers Eclin and Wilson, and Hand, a sailor, are still aboard the craft.

The heavy seas are pounding almost directly at the stern and are driving the vessel from the position where it struck.

The members of the crew who were brought ashore are E. D. Baker, J. Payne, H. Johnson, C. J. Haffner, J. R. Miller, W. Hand, William Stewart, J. J. McConnell, J. B. Lantas, J. Davenport, S. Gardner, William Kroburgh, E. H. Roberts, all of Newport News, and J. L. Horton, of Bridgeport, Conn., the latter acting as pilot.

According to their story, the Tunar stranded at 7 o'clock this morning, but no alarm was felt, as the captain and pilot believed they could float the vessel at high tide. The storm came up in the meantime and drove the submarine hard on a sand bar.

The Tunar was on her way from Newport News, Va., to Bridgeport, where the vessel was to have been turned over to the government. The members of the crew who came ashore will remain here tonight and return to the ship when it is floated.

The revenue cutter is expected to reach the stranded vessel between midnight and daylight.

ONE BISHOP ELECTED OUT OF 244 CANDIDATES

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—Out of 244 candidates one man was elected bishop today by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in session here, Homer C. Stuntz, assistant corresponding secretary of the board of foreign missions of New York, being the first of eight new bishops who will be elected. He is the second man to have the honor of being elected on the first ballot since the two-third rule went into effect.

Five hundred and thirty-three votes were necessary to election. Dr. Stuntz received 577.

The next highest men were: D. G. Downey, New York, 331; Matt S. Hughes, Pasadena, Cal., 299; W. O. Shepard, Chicago, 299; R. J. Cooke, New York, 232; R. E. Jones (negro), New Orleans, 222; F. J. McCotnell, Green Castle, Ind., 215; N. Luccock, Kansas City, Mo., 212; Andrew Gilles, Minneapolis, Minn., 210.

The result of the first ballot was announced at an extra session at 5 o'clock and another ballot was taken. The result of the second ballot will be announced tomorrow morning.

Under a suspension of the rules the committee on episcopacy reported today their decision that eight bishops should be elected. Without change the report was adopted. It is expected that two and possibly three ballots may be taken tomorrow.

ECUADOR IS WARNED BY THE UNITED STATES

Washington, May 16.—The United States has made strong representations to the government of Ecuador that it must settle with the American-owned railway running between Quito and Guayaquil for services rendered, as well as the subvention the government allows. The bill against the government includes the cost of transportation of troops during the recent revolution, but the requests for payment from all sources have been ignored.

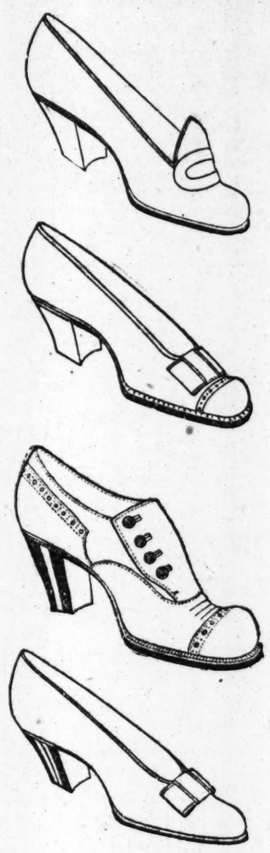

State department officials refuse to discuss the steps which might be taken if Ecuador pays no attention to the note.

CORPSE OF KING CARRIED HOME

The Remains of King Frederick Started on Journey to Copenhagen.

Hamburg, May 16.—The body of King Frederick VIII, of Denmark, who died here under tragic circumstances on Tuesday night, was started on its journey to Copenhagen at 8 o'clock this morning.

A brief funeral service took place in the rooms of the hotel before the casket was carried down the stairs by twelve municipal employees attired in quaint fifteenth century costumes. As the procession passed out, other officials in medieval costumes lined up on each side of the door. The widowed Queen Louisiana left the hotel on the arm of Prince Harald, her third son. Prince Gustav and the Princesses Thyra and Dagmar, the three youngest children of the late king, who had traveled with him and the queen from Nice, followed immediately after their mother.

Queen Louisiana, just before the casket was moved, left the rooms of the hotel, and, with a voice breaking with emotion, addressed the members of the Danish colony, who with a large number of citizens of Hamburg had assembled on the staircase. Her majesty reminded them of the pleasure her late husband had always found in visiting Hamburg and thanked them for their kindness and consideration since his death.

A military escort was waiting outside the hotel and saluted as the casket was borne out, while great crowds of silent spectators gathered along the route to the station.

St. Simons Opens.

Brunswick, Ga., May 16.—(Special.) With the inauguration today of the regular summer schedule to St. Simons by the St. Simons Transit Company comes the formal opening of what promises to be one of the largest seasons in the history of the resort. Already visitors have begun to arrive from interior points of the state and the various hotels have already a large number of guests. The season at Cumberland Island opens simultaneously with that of St. Simons.

ELECTRIC BLOCKS FOR THE SOUTHERN

Effective Safety System Added to Important Stretch of Main Line.

Washington, May 16.—One of the most complete and up-to-date electric automatic signal systems in operation on any railway in the world is to be installed by the Southern railway on the important stretch of its Washington-Atlanta main line lying between Denim, N. C., the first station north of Greensboro, and a point just south of Charlotte and embracing practically 96 miles, nearly all of which is double track. Contract has been let and the work will be completed in the next few months. Not only will the signals be operated by electricity, but the same power will be used to light all stations, switch and signal lights between Greensboro and Charlotte.

One hundred and sixteen three-position upper-quadrant automatic signals, representing the very latest product of engineering science, will be erected and so located that blocks will be approximately 2 miles in length. The system will be operated by alternating electric current furnished from a main plant at Spencer, N. C., and auxiliary stations at Charlotte and Greensboro, which will be so constructed that should the Spencer plant become inoperative from any cause, the power of the Southern Power Company can be immediately cut in without any interruption to the operation of trains or the lighting system. The current to operate the system will be transmitted by a line carrying 4,400 volts constructed on the right-of-way of the Southern railway and at each signal and station transformers to step down the current to 110 volts will be located.

The installation of this system of signals will not only provide protection against the possibility of collisions, but will also detect the presence of a broken rail, an open switch, a washed out bridge or a car standing on a side track, dangerously near the main track, thus affording a greatly increased measure of protection. Enginemen approaching a signal and observing the signal arm in a horizontal position or a red light at night will know that a train is in the first block ahead and must stop. Should they find the signal arm raised 45 degrees above horizontal or a green light at night they will know that a train is in the second block ahead and they must proceed with caution. When they find the signal arm vertical or a white light at night they will know that they may proceed at full speed, as the track is clear of all obstructions and no train nearer than two blocks ahead.

The Southern railway is just completing the construction of a similar system on the 12-mile double track stretch from Monroe, Va., through Lynchburg to Montview, and although a very efficient manual block system is operated on all lines on which traffic is at all heavy, President Finley has announced that it has been determined to install automatic electric signal systems on all double track lines and on all lines which may hereafter be double-tracked.

FOR LEFT-HANDED PEOPLE PASTOR PREPARES SERMON

Orange, N. J., May 16.—A unique church service is to be held at the First Methodist church here next Sunday, those invited to attend being all left-handed. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Wm. A. Frye, who is himself left-handed, will preach from the text, "But when the children of Israel cried unto the Lord, the Lord raised them up a deliverer, Ehud, the son of Gera, a Benjamite, a man left-handed."

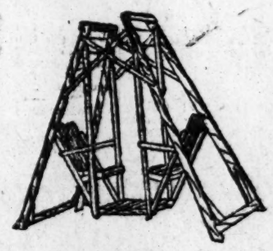

The pastor's invitation says:

"Most great geniuses, though not all, are left-handed, though perhaps I should say that left-handed people are geniuses. There is a real reason for it. The reason people are right-handed is that the left lobe of the brain is more developed. There is a distinct advantage in having the right lobe more developed. If that side is the more developed, you are left-handed. Left-handed people are right-brained people and out of the ordinary. They are apt to do the interesting or unusual things.

"Do you know that among the great baseball pitchers the smartest are the left-handed ones? Those south-paw fellows are the ratio of six to fifteen of great players.

"I have conceived the plan of organizing left-handed folk into a fellowship. The sign of recognition is to shake with the left hand."

GEORGIA WINS---ATLANTA BREAKS EVEN

Whiffs

Another Hope Gone.

THE YANKEES have done absolutely nothing for the Crackers, despite the promises of Scout Irwin, President Farrell and Manager Wolverton that "We'll take care of Hemphill." What have they really done? Absolutely nothing. True, they made it possible that we got Bailey from Newark, but they have not even left a man with us for ground rent purposes. And it does not look like we are going to get any one from them. The Crackers had a chance to get Catcher Guy Fisher but now comes the announcement that he had been sold to the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League. Fine business that. Hemphill and Callaway have excused Wolverton by saying that his team has been crippled and he has not been able to turn any one loose, but when he does turn them loose, they do not come this way. Such an affiliation with a major league club is just about as good as none at all.

No Comparison.

ED GRILLO, writing in The Washington Star, says there is no comparison between Cobb and Jackson. The Georgian is head and shoulders above the former Pelican. In part, Grillo says: "He lacks the spirit that the Detroit man displays under all conditions. If there are days when Cobb is not hitting he is distinguishing himself in some other way, while it is noticeable that when Jackson is not getting his hits, he might as well be on the bench for all the good he does the team."

Splendid Move.

GEORGIA showed the proper spirit Wednesday when at a mass meeting they invited the entire student body of Tech to Athens as their guests, and promising them a good time. This is the proper spirit, and more moves like that between the two schools will go a long ways to keeping the relations of the two schools from again becoming strained. The leaders in athletics at both schools seem to realize that nothing can be gained by resorting to unfair and ungentlemanly tactics, and their change of opinion has brought about a condition of affairs that no true sportsman can help but admire.

Who Will We Get?

SOME NEW players are promised the Atlanta fans in a few days. No one has made such a promise in a definite strain, but it is a known fact that Manager Hemphill is on the outlook for men that will strengthen his line-up. Just where the local manager will make his changes is problematical. He will not say. This column has ventured a suggestion, a hint, even a threat, at times, as to what part of the club needs the bolstering. Manager Hemphill knows where we stand on the matter so there is no further need to keep harping on the subject.

Better Than Ever.

FRANK WHITNEY, the grand little lightweight, looked better Tuesday night than he has ever looked before. He looked good enough when he was here the last time, but Tuesday he looked like the best lightweight in the business, and for no other reason than that he was able to use his right hand, which was helpless in his bouts in this city previously. And the way he played a tattoo on Miller's face with that right hook was a caution. Whitney ought to line up against some of the top-notch lightweights. He would make them travel at a mighty fast clip, and nine-tenths of the so-called top-notchers would be lucky to get a draw with him. Whitney has speed, a good wallop, science, generalship, shiftiness, is tough, and, in fact, has everything that goes to make a good fighter. He hooks up with Joe Mandot at the end of this month. The southern boy has his work cut out for him, too. If he gets a draw with Whitney he will be mighty lucky.

To Big Leagues.

THE THOMPSON boys will get a try-out with the New York Americans in June. According to a report from Athens, the famous Georgia battery is going to join the Yankees when that team goes to Detroit in June. Whether they are strong enough to make good in the big leagues is, of course, just problematical. In fact, it is doubtful if they are, but they are worth a trial and a farming out if they are not successful. They will eventually make good.

Crackers Take One, Lose One To the Barons

Birmingham, Ala., May 16.—(Special.)—The Barons and the Crackers broke even, the locals winning the first game, 4 to 2, and the visitors the second, 5-4.

Despite his wildness Foxen had the advantage of Atkins in the first. In the second hitting by both teams featured. A wild pitch by Prough, permitting Hemphill to advance from first to third, gave the victory to the Crackers. Smith and Sitton, the pitchers who started the second, were both forced to retire as the result of bombardments.

The hitting of Almeida won the first game for the Barons. In the second Bailey starred with the bat.

In the first game the Barons scored twice in the opening round. Marcan opened with a single and Messenger beat out his bunt to O'Brien. They were sacrificed and scored on Almeida's out and McGilvray's hit to O'Brien.

The visitors tied the score in the fifth. With one down O'Brien walked and Kerr was safe on an error of Marcan. Atkins' walk filled the bases, and Bailey's double scored, O'Brien and Kerr.

In the second game the visitors latched on to young Smith in the opening round. Bailey, first up, tripled to left. Ganley walked and stole. Hemphill flied to Johnston and Bailey scored. Alpjerman walked. On East's single, preceded by a wild pitch, Ganley and Alperman scored.

In the third the Barons made four. Smith, opening, fanned. Marcan singled and stole. Messenger singled to the infield and Johnston walked. Sitton was removed and Paige pitched to Almeida, who singled to East. Marcan and Messenger scored. McGilvray doubled to right, and he and Almeida scored on McBride's single.

The Crackers tied it up in the fourth. After two were down Graham doubled and scored on Paige's single. Paige scored on Bailey's triple.

The visitors won in the seventh. Bailey opened with an infield scratch. Ganley forced him at second. Hemphill forced Ganley at second. On a wild pitch by Prough, Hemphill went to third. East singled over second and the manager scored.

HOME

Crackers Here For Long Stay; Billies Today

The Crackers return home this morning from Birmingham, after having been away on a long road trip on which they played fourteen games, winning six, losing seven and tying one.

Taking everything into consideration, the trip must be considered a successful one. They made a good showing against the strong teams of the Southern division and with a little more break in their favor they would have won more games than they had lost.

In the fourteen games, the Crackers tallied 53 runs to 51 for the opponents, made 98 hits to 103 for their opponents and 23 errors to 20 for their opponents.

Practically every man on the club took a batting slump while on the trip. Hemphill, who is hitting well over .300 for the season, only hit at a .259 clip. Sitton and Graham passed the .300 mark on the trip, but they only played in three and four games respectively.

Billikens Today.

Johnny Dobbs and his Montgomery Billikens open up a five game series with the Crackers commencing today. The third game will be played in Montgomery on Sunday, the other four in Atlanta.

Mobile follows Montgomery for four games, then comes Birmingham for four. The Crackers then break their home stay with a jump to Montgomery for four battles on May 31 to June 1, 2 and 3.

Returning home on June 5, they open with New Orleans, playing four games. Then Nashville comes for three games and Memphis follows for a like number. Chattanooga is the only team that does not appear on the local lot right at this time.

Mobile, Ala., May 16.—Al Demaree pitched his seventh straight victory of the season, Mobile defeating Memphis, 5 to 2. Netzel's triple, a base on balls, stolen base and Abstein's single gave the Memphis team its only runs in the first. Mobile won in the third, when Jacobson cleaned the bases with a long two-bagger. Starr's hitting featured, with a double and three singles out of four times at bat. Crandall was put out of the game in the third inning for throwing the ball to the ground in disgust at a decision of Umpire Rudderham.

Marist Wins From Gordon; Not For Title

Barnesville, Ga., May 16.—(Special.) Marist College administered to Gordon today her first defeat of the season, and it was a severe drubbing, score 7 to 1.

Coach Bean's boys played rings around the local team, running well on the bases and hitting timely in the pinches.

Coaches Bean and Williams agreed before the game that the contest was in no nature a prep school championship affair, as it could not so be considered with no prep school organization. Furthermore, as Marist had previously been defeated by Locust Grove Institute and Gordon had twice defeated that team, Marist had no claim to the title clearly.

Norman started for Gordon, but was hammered unmercifully. Fillingim, who succeeded him, held Marist safely at all times.

Mercer Cops Two of Three From Tigers

Macon, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Mercer defeated Sewanee here this afternoon by the score of 7 to 4 and wound up the season. The game was a pretty pitchers' duel between the two captains, Voss and Gillem. Both pitchers were extremely wild and Gillem had the big end of the wildness.

Mercer was unable to hit Gillem at first, but after he got wild Mercer hit him for safeties many times.

The features of the game were the pitching of Gillem, who struck out six men in the evening, but the catcher, on account of a sore hand, was unable to hold him. The hitting of Gillen and Roddenbery, Gillem getting three of four and Roddenbery three out of three. The catching of J. Zellars, who went in in the fourth inning, and the steal home of Rice in the fifth.

Mercer scored her runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings. With two down in the third, R. Zellars struck out, but was safe on catcher's error. The wild pitches by Gillem, a base on balls and two hits netted Mercer three runs.

In the fourth Manly got a hit, a base on balls, three wild pitches and a hit counted for two runs.

In the fifth a hit, four stolen bases, a base on balls and a wild pitch added two more. Sewanee counted in the first, third, fourth and ninth innings.

A hit batter, two stolen bases, a base on balls and a hit made the first one.

In the third a base on balls, an error and a hit added one more.

In the fourth two hits, a stolen base, a passed ball gave Sewanee one. Sewanee made her last in the ninth on a base on balls and when Zellars pegged to second to get the runner it hit him and bounced wild, the runner scoring. This was the last game of college ball for Voss, Wills, J. Zellars and Rice and they all played good ball.

Americus 7, Columbus 6.

Americus, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Americus trimmed Columbus' semi-professional aggregation this afternoon in the first game of the series by the score of 7 to 6. This game marked the opening of the season in balldom locally and the first victory for Americus created considerable enthusiasm. It was neck and neck to the ninth inning, when Bope, for Americus, hit over the fence for a two-bagger, while Bailey scored him on a single. Robinson and Hooks, for Americus, and Tuggle and Geislin, for Columbus, constituted the batteries. The two teams play again tomorrow.

GEORGIA TAKES FIRST GAME FROM OLD RIVALS, TECH; BRANNEN STEALING HOME

Captain Kid Brannen led his Georgia cohorts to victory over their old-time rivals, Tech, at Tech Flats Thursday afternoon by stealing home in the ninth inning with the score standing 4 to 4. Georgia sent over another tally in this stanza, making the final count 6 to 4 in Georgia's favor.

It was a great game and the 5,000 or more fans who were present were on anxious seats from the beginning of the first inning until the end of the ninth. First one team and then the other would threaten to score until towards the last of the game both sides were scoring with frequent regularity.

Such as college games go, it was a grand game. When one sees college ball they must expect errors, they must expect some bonehead playing in spots and poor judgment in the field and on the bases. These are all part of a college game and Thursday's was no exception.

Brannen showed questionable judgment in trying to steal home in the ninth inning, but as he got away with it, he must have been right. But it was a critical time for him to make the stab, especially with the ball in the pitcher's hand.

Hubert's Bone.

But Shag Hubert, the Tech hurler, offset all of his good playing of the day by pulling the most palpable bone of the day, and making his otherwise stellar performance fade into insignificance. He evidently forgot that Brannen was on third base. When he awoke to the fact the speeding Brannen was right at the home sack.

The play at home was close, even at that.

The crowd was one of the features of the battle, as crowds always are at Georgia-Tech games. The stands were packed and there was an overflow on the bank in right field and along the right field foul line. And nine-tenths of those present had on the colors of the rival colleges, the red and black of Georgia mixing with the old gold and white of Tech.

The friendly rivalry between the two teams and the rival rooters was something that alumni of the two schools have been working for for these long years. It was amply demonstrated on Thursday that the two schools can compete for athletic honors without coming to blows, as has been the case in former years.

Bands Friendly.

Another noticeable feature was the rivalry of the two bands. But it was a friendly rivalry. They played each other's airs before the game, the school songs and vied with each other in keeping the crowd amused before the game started. And the rival rooters sent cheers to the skies for their opponents.

Hubert was stung rather freely by the Red and Black batsmen, but he was not hit half as hard as the score shows. He kept the thirteen bingles pretty well scattered. Two long hits were flukes, the outfielders misjudging them and they were eventually converted into runs.

But his fielding was a distinct feature of the battle. He handled nine assists in the box cleanly. And some of them were shot at him with plenty of whiskers tacked to them.

Homer Thompson pulled off the greatest play on the Georgia side when he leaped into the air and speared a liner from Sloan's bat in the third inning, falling from the force, but doubling up Fielder at second base while sitting on the ground, a play that brought applause from even the most rabid of Tech supporters. Homer deserved the praise that he got on this. No better play is made anywhere.

McWhorter and Thompson did the hitting for the Georgia bunch, and they did sting that pellet, too. They got three bingles each, and there was no question about any one of them.

Brannen the Star.

Bedingfield did not last the entire game. Tech tied up the game in the seventh inning with him on the mound. Captain Brannen substituted himself, and he set out to win the game. He allowed only one scratch hit and fanned four batters, being complete master of the situation at all times.

Tech was the first to score. McLin drew a base on balls in the fourth inning, and moved to the keystone on a wild heave by Bedingfield. H. Holland sacrificed him to third, and he counted on Montague's slow roller to Thompson that the shortstop could not field home in time to get McLin.

Georgia grabbed the lead in their half of the sixth. Bowden singled and Twitty sacrificed. Thompson drove a long fly to left which Pound lost in the sun, and Bowden went to third, Thompson pulling up at second. Covington went out, neither man advancing. Then Bedingfield, who had proved an easy mark at bat, shut his eyes, took a swing and laced a peach to left field, scoring both runners.

Tech tied it again in their half. Sloan beat out a bunt, but was forced at second on McLin's sacrifice. Holland flew out, but Montague hit to right and McLin took third, scoring on a passed ball.

Georgia grabbed the lead again in her half of the seventh. Brannen singled and McWhorter followed suit. Both advanced on Hutchens' out to right field. Bowden went out. Twitty hit one in front of the plate that Hubert fell down on in trying to field, and Brannen counted. On H. Thompson's single McWhorter counted, but Twitty was thrown out trying to go to third.

Tech tied it up again in their half. Pound singled; Holland sacrificed and, when Bedingfield made an error, both were safe. Both advanced on Holliday's out. Fielder hit a short fly back of short on which Pound counted, Montague going to third. Bowden had his second passed ball and S. Holland counted. Hutchens retrieved the ball and threw wild. Montague tried to count, but was nipped at the plate.

Georgia Wins It.

Branneene opened up the ninth with a double to center field, Sloan misjudging it. McWhorter fanned; Bowden advanced on Hutchens' out; Bowden walked. Bowden started to steal second. Montague made the throw to Hubert, and Brannen started for home. Hubert held the ball, then threw to home too late to get the Georgia captain. Twitty then singled and Bowden tallied.

The teams go to Athens today to play the second game of the series. Eubanks will probably hurl for Tech, and Brannen for Georgia.

EIGHTEEN-YEAR-OLD CADET FIRST IN BIG TRAP SHOOT; MAXWELL THE FIRST PRO

Columbus, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—First honors in the seventh southern handicap went to Vassa Cate, of Brunswick, Ga., who is an 18-year-old cadet attending the school at Stone Mountain, Ga. He got permission to leave his school work to attend the big trap shoot. Handicapped at 19 yards, he smashed 93 out of 100 targets in the big classic singles event here Thursday afternoon. Cate is an amateur.

Not only did he outclass all amateurs, but had a two-target lead over the nearest professional. The day was cloudy, dry and very windy, making the shooting more difficult than it has been any day during the meet. Cate's record, in the circumstances, is considered by all remarkable.

George W. Maxwell, of Hastings, Neb., professional, the celebrated one-armed shooter of the Dupont team, won high professional honors, with 91 breaks out of 100 in the singles, handicapped at 21 yards.

Cate Gets Prizes.

Cate received the cash prize of $250 besides a handsome gold watch given by the interstate association. His total prize money for the meet is over $300.

In spite of the many shooters being kept away by the floods in the Mississippi valley there were 106 entries, six more than there were at the southern handicap meet in Charlotte, N. C., last year, when W. T. Laslie, of Tuskegee, Ala., was the winner, breaking 96 birds from the 19-yard post. J. S. Young, of Chicago, also made 96 at the meet here two years ago.

The famous Columbus cup, largest and most costly of all the trap-shooting prizes of this country, was won this year by H. W. Kahler, of Philadelphia, Pa. He is an amateur. Out of 600 targets he broke 557. Vassa Cate came next in the totals for the match, with 552.

Six hundred targets embrace the total for combined events during the three days, singles and doubles.

Gilbert's Good Work.

Fred Gilbert, professional, of Spirit Lake, Iowa, surpassed the highest amateur record of the shoot, a total of 565 out of 600 targets. In the totals he led the highest amateur by eight targets.

The highest professional record for the tournament was based on single targets, broken from the 16-yard mark. Under this condition 400 targets were shot at. H. D. Freeman, of Atlanta, Ga., smashed 394, missing but six.

The high amateur record of the shoot, figured on the same basis, was that of H. B. Pottinger, of Charleston, Mo., who killed 382 clay pigeons out of the 400.

H. W. Kahler, of Philadelphia, Pa., who captured the Columbus, Ga., cup, also won the handsome Carpenter cup offered by W. E. Carpenter, of this city; best in doubles during the week, 89 out of 100. Mr. Kahler also won the second money in the handicap, receiving $150.

Big Attendance.

The attendance Thursday broke all records of the meet. All seats were occupied and many stood. When the Columbus cup, valued at $500, was up the spectators passed the thousand mark. In 191, Mr. Kahler won the amateur championship of the world at Pinehurst, N. C., 173 out of 200 targets. He suffered the extreme handicap Thursday of 23 yards. The date and place for the next handicap has not yet been chosen. The shooters here have been entertained in the Muscogee club, by the Elks and many Columbus people. The visitors will scatter for their several homes tonight.

H. D. Freeman, of Atlanta, who made the high professional average of the tournament, had a wonderful run today when he shattered every one out of 100 targets. The shooting was done from 16 yards and the targets were singles.

This was the only perfect score made during the three days of shooting.

"HEMPHILL HAS NO EXCUSE FOR RETAINING PETE O'BRIEN"

---Fuzzy Woodruff

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF.
(In Birmingham News.)

Hemphill is doing himself an injustice with the ball club he now presents. He has the foundation of a fine machine, but the vital points are lacking. It may be Hemp's fault and then again it moughtn't. There seems no excuse for retaining O'Brien.

Alex O'Dell last season showed himself as capable a third baseman as the Southern League possessed, with the possible exceptions of Red Smith and Art Phelan, both of whom are doing stellar work in the major leagues today.

Dixie has never known a better first baseman than Earl Sykes since the days when Dominick Mullaney was in his prime.

I am not trying to give advice to managers. Hemphill knows more baseball in a minute than I could possibly know in an eon, but I would like to discover rhyme or reason for his keeping O'Brien in the fray, while Sykes is resting on the bench, eager and willing to step back into harness.

Sykes said last night that he was as right as a rabbit. He is not a man to boast. If he says so, he is. And no one, who has seen O'Brien work, can gainsay the fact that the venerable Pete is ready for the Home for the Has Beens.

TWO ATLANTA WOMEN REMAIN IN THE TOURNEY

Nashville, Tenn., May 16.—Play continued this afternoon at the Nashville Golf and Country Club for the championship of the Woman's Southern Golf Association. The winners of yesterday's matches played in the championship flight today and the losers of yesterday played in the second flight. The elimination matches will continue tomorrow to determine the contestants in the final contest.

Mrs. Frank Jones, of Memphis, defeated Mrs. G. D. Mason, of Louisville; Mrs. George Harrington, of Atlanta, defeated Miss Alexa Stirling, of Atlanta; Mrs. E. W. Daley, of Nashville, defeated Mrs. K. G. Duffield, of Memphis; Mrs. Nash Broyles, of Atlanta, defeated Mrs. Thomas B. Payne, of Atlanta.

The results of the second flight follow:

Miss Jeanette Acklen, of Nashville, defeated Mrs. A. B. Newell, of Nashville; Mrs. Sam Phillips, of Memphis, defeated Mrs. A. Seymour, of Nashville; Mrs. Harry Armstrong, of Memphis, defeated Mrs. McFarland, of Memphis; Miss Anne Watkins, of Chattanooga, defeated Mrs. D. E. Huger, of Memphis; Mrs. Stewart, of Memphis, won by default.

IS SPEEDWAY TO BE REVIVED?

Is Atlanta's speedway to be revived and a big race meet held there this fall? This is a question now engaging the attention of the Atlanta Automobile and Accessory Association.

The matter came up for discussion at the regular meeting of the association Wednesday night.

A committee, composed of F. E. Chambers, Wylie West, Charles L. Elyea and John E. Smith, was appointed by President Hanson to investigate the feasibility of the project and report on the same at the next meeting.

It was given as an opinion that the track could be resurfaced for approximately $2,000. Whatever action is taken on the matter largely depends upon civic interest displayed in the project.

The association is confident that the business interests and leaders in the city's affairs appreciate the number of visitors such a meet will attract and the good that will result therefrom, and anticipate their support and cooperation in promoting the affair.

It was pointed out that Indianapolis is now in the throes of a race meet, and that the city, as usual on such occasions, will be overrun with visitors, and, while the races do not come off until the latter part of the month, all tickets in the grandstands have been sold.

If this is the experience of Indianapolis why shouldn't an Atlanta race be equally successful is the manner most of those in attendance at the meeting regarded the matter.

It was estimated that it would take $30,000 to underwrite the meet, and it is believed that it would be an easy matter to secure subscriptions to this amount.

President G. W. Hanson started a tentative subscription list by subscribing $500 B. S. Abbott was next with $200; C. S. Elyea $200, L. B. Crane $100, D. T. Bussey $100, Wylie West $100, I. O. Teebley $100, and other of similar amounts were quick to follow.

The next meeting of the association is the first Wednesday in June, and until then final action on the matter will be deferred.

TECH STUDENTS GOING TO ATHENS

The Jackets will invade the camp of the enemy tomorrow, when they journey to Athens, 300 strong, on a special train over the Seaboard for the last game of the Georgia-Tech series.

The result will be a big day in the Classic City. A cordial invitation was extended the Tech students by the Georgia men at their mass meeting Wednesday night, and it is said that old rivals will forget past enmities when the Jackets pay their first visit to Athens in several years.

If the schedule had not been switched and the last games transferred to Athens it would have been the privilege of the Red and Black to march up Peachtree Saturday with flaunting colors. When the Jackets learned of the change they were on the alert to take advantage of their opportunity to follow their team to a foreign field, especially when their cheers will have a big influence on turning the series their way.

Arrangements were concluded with the Seaboard, whereby several hundred students and supporters will leave the city tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. A round trip rate of $1.50 has been put on, return to be made Saturday afternoon following the game.

Green—Why was the will set aside?

Brown—It kept getting in the way of the lawyers who were settling the estate.

COBB SUSPENDED BY BAN JOHNSON

Tiger Star Benched Indefinitely for Striking a Spectator in New York.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 16.—Manager Jennings tonight received notice from President Johnson of the indefinite suspension of Ty Cobb, the star Detroit outfielder. Jennings would not comment on the suspension, but Cobb said that he thought he had been unfairly dealt with.

"I should at least have had an opportunity to state my case," said Cobb. "I feel that a great injustice has been done."

Cobb expressed regret that he had struck a spectator at the American League grounds in New York yesterday. He said the spectator was the aggressor and that the same man had annoyed him on other occasions. "Yesterday," said Cobb, "I tried to avoid the man, but when his language became too much for me to stand, I lost my head."

ATLANTA LOSES PITCHER TONEY

Chicago, May 16.—(Special.)—Louisville, of the American Association, outbid Atlanta, of the Southern League, for the services of Pitcher Fred Toney, of the Cubs, the player being turned over to the Colonels by Manager Chance this morning.

Atlanta wanted the pitcher badly and was willing to pay a good price for him, but Chance had promised Louisville a hurler, and as Toney was available he was sent there.

Toney is a native of Nashville, Tenn.

OLYMPIC DAY AT BALL PARKS

New York, May 16.—The American Olympic committee has decided to ask the owners of the major league baseball clubs to set aside a day at their parks to be known as "Olympic Day," and turn over their receipts to the fund that will be used to send the American athletes to Stockholm in July.

The committee believes that all the clubs in the National and American league will comply with the request.

KILBANE TO FIGHT "KNOCKOUT" BROWN

New York, May 16.—A ten-round match between Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion, and Knockout Brown, to be held here on June 11, was arranged tonight. Under the articles the boys are to weigh in at 128 pounds at 6 o'clock on the night of the fight. The St. Nicholas Athletic Club has guaranteed a purse of $15,000, to be split evenly between the fighters.

ST. JOHN'S AUDITORIUM WILL BE OPENED SUNDAY

The opening exercises of the auditorium in the St. John's Methodist church will be held Sunday morning and evening in connection with the annual homecoming services also to be observed on that date.

The new auditorium is an elegant construction. It has been five years in erection and will be one of the most commodious places of gathering in connection with any of the city's churches.

Dr. W. N. Ainsworth, president of Wesleyan Female college at Macon, will deliver the sermons at both the morning and evening exercises and all old members and pastors of the various churches in the city are cordially invited to attend.

ASTOR'S WIDOW AND SON ARE UNDER GUARDIANS

New York, May 16.—Former Justice Henry A. Gildersleeve was appointed guardian for Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, and Langdon P. Mavin guardian for William Vincent Astor, by Surrogate Fowler today. The guardianship will continue until the will of John Jacob Astor is admitted to probate.

The action was taken by the surrogate upon the motion of Mrs. Astor and Vincent, who set forth in affidavits that they are infants, but more than 14 years of age.

TODAY IN BASEBALL.
By George L. Moreland.
May 17.

1870—Forest City team defeated Atlantics, 132-1, in five innings.

1887—In a game at New York between the New York and Indianapolis teams, twenty-three bases on balls were given. Billy George issuing thirteen passes and Larry Corcoran ten. That season four had balls entitled a batter to a base.

1888—Tim Keefe, of New York, again struck out 11 Pirates, making a total of twenty-two strike-outs in two successive games he pitched against them.

1889—Catcher Jantzen, of the Minneapolis Western Association club, made three home runs against Milwaukee.

1906—Waddell, of Athletics, held Detroit to one hit, which was made by Ty Cobb, the first Tiger batter in the first inning.

1907—St. Louis Browns vanquished Athletics, 13-1, making 17 hits for a total of 23 bases off the two Rubes—Waddell and Vickers.

1907—Christy Mathewson, of the Giants, held the St. Louis Cardinals to three hits in 12 innings, fanning 11 of them, and won his game, 2-1.

LET PREACHERS KNOW THE WORLD

So Speakers Urge at Southern Baptist Convention.

Chair of Sociology Wanted at the Louisville Seminary. Sentiment of the Convention Is Strongly Against Church Union.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 16.—Baptist ministers should be just a little bit more worldly, or more properly they need a better understanding of economic and sociological problems, according to the views of President E. Y. Mullins, of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary at Louisville. That students of the seminary may gain such knowledge President Mullins and the board of trustees today petitioned the convention to establish a chair of sociology in the seminary.

According to their views, expressed before the convention, it is as much the duty of the church to help those outside the church solve the problem of earning a living as well as in aiding them to live cleaner and better lvies.

The Rev. Mullins explained to the convention that the institution is in need of a permanent ministerial educational fund and an authorized board for its adminstration. He declared the seminary could have enrolled more than 312 students last year had it had sufficient funds to aid those who made application.

For Chair of Sociology.

Dr. George E. Eagar, member of the seminary faculty, pleaded for the establishment of a chair of sociology. He outlined certain sociological phenomena of the present day and connected the same with the urgent need of an educated ministry to cope with them. He discussed the movement of the urban population of the nation toward great cities and social centers.

"The two vicious elements that flock to the city from the country," he said, "are, first, the insolent, wealthy class; and, second, the illiterate, ignorant class, who, by the laws of heredity, are possessed of criminal or semi-criminal tendencies.

"The most obvious immediate step to take to meet this condition is to train up a Christian ministry, capable intellectually, as well as morally, to do its part in the way of leadership, and the correlary tothis is that the denomination should begin at once to provide sufficient material means to effect this object."

Age of Practical Christianity.

"We have reached the age of practical Christianity," said Dr. J. L. White, of Memphis, in discussing the proposed chair of sociology in the seminary. "The church can no longer divorce itself from the social an deconomic problems that throb for solution at the hands of consecrated intelligent men.'

The Rev. F. P. Faulk, of Waco, Texas, also spoke on the subject. The request of President Mullins was referred to a special committee for consideration and report.

The recommendation of the committee appointed yesterday that a board of journalism be named whose business would be to publish a religious newspaper under the auspices of the Southern Baptist convention, was unanimously voted down by the convention this afternoon. The report was read by Milton Riggs, a Baptist editor of St. Louis. It provoked warm discussion.

Those opposing the establishment of an official denominational publication pleaded earnestly for an independent religious press and independent editors. There are now nineteen Baptist publications in this jurisdiction, with a circulation aggregating 150,000. An official organ, it was declared, might prove disastrous to some of them.

For Seminary Trustees.

Rev. Dr. R. T. Hanks, chairman, read the list of nominees to fill the nine vacancies on the board of trustees of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary.

The nominees are:

Arkansas—Ben Cox, P. C. Barton, F. F. Gibson.

Mississippi—James B. Levell, W. E. Barton, Martin Ball.

Louisiana—L. E. Thomas, C. E. Jenkins, W. H. Brengle.

Tennessee—J. W. Dillard, W. H. Major, J. N. Penick, J. Pike Powers, J. J. Taylor, Spencer Tunnell, Norman Smith, R. H. Hunt, R. W. Weaver.

Texas—Howard Ardrey, O. L. Hailey, S. J. Porter, F. C. McConnell, R. T. Hanks and Forrest Smith.

Professor John T. Henderson, of Bristol, Tenn., read the report on the Layman's Missionary Movement. The committee spent during the year $1,638.38, of which the Sunday school board paid $123.64 and $199.17 was raised by field contributions.

Convention of Laymen.

A laymen's convention to be held in some central southern city was called for by the report and later was more specifically asked for by the convention itself.

At a meeting of the Texas delegation today it was decided to hold a conference on Texas state-wide evangelism Friday afternoon. A proposition to build the first Baptist college in one of the provinces of China which has thirty million people and no advanced school was championed at the Texas convention last year. The proposal was then made that Texas would give the first $50,000 toward a million dollars for schools in foreign fields. The Texas delegation will vote almost as a unit to take next year's convention to San Antonio, Texas.

Against Church Union.

Declarations of the necessity of preserving the integrity of the denomination at all points and of resisting all efforts to brand it down through undenominational or interdenominational organization were the dominant features of the morning session.

Definite opposition of the convention to any plan of church union, first voiced by the report of the committee on the proposed world conference on faith and order submitted to the convention last night was again emphasized by various speakers today.

The Rev. N. C. McConnell, of Waco, Tex., chairman of the committee to which was referred the report of the Sunday school board, reporting on behalf of that committee, declared that in a few years there would be only three denominations in this country, Catholic, Federalists and Baptists.

"When this time comes," he said, "we will probably lose about one-fifth of our membership."

Woman's Missionary Union.

The Woman's Missionary Union auxiliary to the Southern Baptist convention, met today at the First Presbyterian church. Each of the eighteen states is entitled to twenty delegates. Hundreds of visiting women filled the house. The delegates are seated by states and the enrollment is:

Alabama, 12; Arkansas, 9; District of Columbia, —; Florida, 3; Georgia, 13; Illinois, 4; Kentucky, 11; Louisiana, 6; Maryland, 4; Mississippi, 12; Missouri, 18; New Mexico, 5; North Carolina, —; Oklahoma, 19; South Carolina, 10; Tennessee, 16; Texas, 21; Virginia, 9; total, 171.

The treasurer's report shows that southern women gave to foreign missions, $156,846.41; home missions, $97,557.17; Sunday school board, $1,574.87; Margaret home, $1,253.81; training school, $10,724.99; total $267,957.25. The president, Miss Fannie E. S. Hock, of Raleigh, N. C., delivered the annual address.

Following are the officers: Miss Fannie E. S. Hock, president; Mrs. William C. Lowndes, treasurer, corresponding secretary; Miss Nancy Lee Swann, assistant corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. C. Johnson, recording secretary; Mrs. F. C. Wallis, assistant recording secretary.

Home Board Evangelists.

The home board evangelists of the Southern Baptist convention, led by the Rev. Dr. Weston Bruner, of Atlanta, are conducting a conference on evangelism one hour a day at the First Christian church house. At the first service today the house was filled. The Rev. Raleigh Wright, of Tennessee, discussed personal work. The leader, Dr. Bruner, closed the discussion with "campaign work in evangelism."

U. S. EXHIBIT IN CANAL ZONE

Ad Men of North Carolina Will Urge Proposition at Dallas.

A delegation representing ad men's clubs and boards of trade of half a dozen North Carolina cities arrived in Atlanta last night on their way to the convention of the Associated Ad Men's Clubs of America in Dallas, Texas.

It is the purpose of the Carolina delegation at the coming convention to promote a permanent exhibit of United States products and manufactures in the canal zone for the encouragement of Central and South American trade. This plan originated with the Ad Men's Club of Winston-Salem and has already had the approval of H. Z. Stimson, secretary of war, and John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American Union, among other men prominent in inter-American commerce and affairs.

Mr. Rich states that he has already secured permission to present the plan for the approval of the convention.

Regarding the plan Mr. Barrett has said:

"The greatest opportunity before the United States today for its future foreign commerce is in the twenty republics lying to the south of us, and as a result of the efforts of the Pan-American Union the trade of the United States today in that part of the world is growing more rapidly than it is with any other foreign group of nations. We are, however, only at the beginning of what we can accomplish in the future if we will simply make the proper efforts."

No More Biennial Conventions.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 16.—Biennial conventions were abolished in favor of meetings once in every three years by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers today and a resolution adopted that the next convention should be held in 1915. The place will be selected next week. The Grand International auxiliary today decided to establish a fund for relief of widows and orphans of engineers, donating $5,000 to found the system.

UNANIMOUS REPORT FOR COLONEL PERKINS

Washington, D. C., May 16.—(Special.)—Colonel Perkins' tedious fight for restoration to his rank in the marine corps was advanced a peg today when a unanimous report in his favor was made to the house by the naval affairs committee which has had the case under investigation for a year.

The report was made by Representative Witherspoon, of Mississippi, on the Howard bill, which proposes to restore Colonel Perkins to his old number and grade which he held June 16, 1906.

In concluding a lengthy report reviewing the facts in the conspiracy and the main features of Colonel Perkins' interesting career, the report states:

"The record of the American navy is the pride of the American people. It glows with unsullied honor. The highest consideration of pride in the navy as well as justice to Colonel Perkins requires that this first dark stain shall be blotted out in his reinstatement to the active list. The committee, therefore, unanimously recommends that the bill do pass."

DECLARES UNDERWOOD STANDS BEST CHANCE OF NOMINATION

Hon. G. R. Hutchens, who managed the successful Underwood campaign in Georgia, and who is now on a trip east, called on Mr. Underwood as he passed through Washington. In a letter to The Constitution, Mr. Hutchens expresses the opinion that Mr. Underwood stands the best chance for the nomination, and says his candidacy is growing in strength every day. Mr. Hutchens' observations in the following letter will be of interest:

"Editor Constitution: I came to Baltimore via Washington, D. C., strictly on a business mission, but availed myself of the opportunity to call on Hon. Oscar Underwood, Georgia's candidate for president, during a few hours' stay in the national capital. I found him in his usual place, looking after the affairs of the country. He expressed profound gratitude to Georgia for her overwhelming indorsement of his candidacy and, without undue pride, professed strong hopes of success at the national convention. It looks now to me as if he stands the best chance of nomination. There are many reasons why he should, and new and forceful reasons are daily being discovered which add strength to his candidacy.

"I read today, while in Baltimore, an account of Mr. Bryan's tour of Ohio and of his efforts to discredit Governor Harmon. I wonder how long suffering democracy will stand for such abuse as that from the Bryan-Wilson forces and kindred reckless and utterly selfish rule or ruin individuals, and how long will we stand these festering germs and recognize them as friends. I do not think there is any two or three or dozen or 100 men within the democratic party whose individual views are so sacred and divine as to be held infallible, and so important in their personage as that they ought not to be held amenable to the judgment of a majority of the party, after all sides have had their views and opinions considered.

"The man who says unless you nominate me or my man I will not support the nominee, has no right to a voice or seat in our national councils, no matter whether he be Bryan or who he may be.

"Bryan is after the nomination himself, in my judgment, and like Roosevelt, is willing to hazzard the success of his party in his effort to secure it. He has been to Florida for Governor Wilson, while he held credentials to the national convention for Clark. He has beeen and is bushwhacking all the time in a guerrilla political warfare trying to destroy all sides and add to his own store, and in the light of past experience lead our party to defeat again.

"I call upon every friend of democracy in America to fortify against this insidious effort to lead us away from and off of our platform, so well built upon the Underwood tariff bills and the party's record in the present session of congress, into the delirium of Bryanism, with only experimental policies and fine-spun theoretical expediences for a coating. No one man has a right to control the democratic party, and 'by the eternal' I feel like it is safe to say no one man shall control except in common with the rest of the party.

"G. R. HUTCHENS.

"Baltimore, May 14."

For Solicitor General.

Billie B. Bush, of Colquitt, Miller county, has announced his candidacy for solicitor general of the Pataula circuit, and all reports from that section indicate the probability of his election. Mr. Bush is one of the best known lawyers in his section. He is prominently identified with the Elks, and has many strong personal and political friends, not only in the circuit, but throughout the state.

Mr. Bush was in Atlanta Thursday, after a brief visit to Indian Springs.

"I am advocating putting solicitors general on salaries instead of fees," said Mr. Bush. "Another reform I want to see made is the establishment of a regular criminal court calendar. That is something we do not have on the country circuits, and I think it equally important with the civil calendar."

Can Run Mixed Trains.

The railroad commission has declined to require the Augusta Southern railway to remove the freight cars from its mixed freight and passenger trains, Nos. 43 and 44 operating between Augusta and Tennille. One or two citizens of Sandersville complained that the train did not make its schedule time on account of the freight cars handled on the passenger train and frequently missed the Central of Georgia connection at Tennille. The railroad company answered that its bad schedule was not due to the freight cars, but the condition of its track and roadbed, during the winter months. Repairs have been promised which will obviate the difficulty. The road also showed that it is making no money and could not afford to run an all-passenger train with the present business. The commission decided in the railroad company's favor, and the train will continue to be a mixed one.

Secretary From Georgia.

Carl Hutcheson, the well-known Atlanta attorney who took a prominent part in the recent successful fight in behalf of Hon. Oscar W. Underwood in this state, has just received a letter from Secretary Urey Woodson, of the democratic national convention, naming him as secretary for Georgia for the convention. This means Mr. Hutcheson will be one of the assistants to the secretary of the convention during its proceedings.

Two New Banks.

The First Farmers' bank, of Jackson, Butts county, was granted a charter yesterday by Secretary of State Philip Cook. This bank has a capital of $50,000 and J. C. Jones, J. M. Gaston, S. O. Ham and others, all of Butts county, are the incorporators.

A charter was also granted to the Bank of Cassville, Bartow county. This bank has a capital of $25,000, and W. D. Pittard, Joe Lipscomb, J. C. McTier and others are the incorporators.

NORTH CAROLINIANS WILL GIVE DINNER ON MAY 20TH

On Monday evening, May 20, at 8:30 o'clock, a dinner will be given by the members of the North Carolina Society of Atlanta at the Georgian Terrace hotel, the guests of honor to be Governor Joseph M. Brown, Mayor Courtland S. Winn, Clark Howell, J. R. Gray and Foster Coates.

This dinner is given to commemorate the 137th anniversary of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, signed at Charlotte, May 20, 1775. Burton Smith will be toastmaster.

At this dinner a formal organization of the North Carolina Society will be made, resolutions will be adopted and officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

All North Carolinans are cordially invited to participate, and those not having already sent in their subscriptions are asked to communicate with Shepard Bryan, or T. B. Higdon.

Among the North Carolinans interested in making this dinner a success are V. A. Batchelor, J. J. Disosway, John Y. Smith, D. J. Fowle, Dr. E. G. Ballenger, P. C. McDuffie, Walter P. Andrews, Hudson Moore, Dr. Claude Hughes, Dr. Michael Hoke and about fifty others.

C. B. HAYNES PREACHES ON COMING OF CHRIST

"The Bible reveals that Jesus is soon coming to this earth again, and that in connection with his coming the existing nations of the world will be destroyed, in order that the kingdom of God may be set up on this earth. Before that destruction comes God in his infinite mercy will send a message of warning to all the earth in order that those who heed it may be prepared to meet him in peace when he comes. That message will contain the whole truth of God, will be preached in all the earth, 'and then shall the end come,' said Carlyle B. Haynes, the evangelist, last night, in the old Baptist Tabernacle, to a large crowd who had gathered to hear him deliver an address on "The Victories of the Message." He said in part:

"The message of the coming king is now being preached in the earth. Meetings such as are being held in this building are being conducted in every large city of this country, and in hundreds of smaller places, not only in America, but in all parts of the earth. Hundreds of men are connected with this same worldwide movement, preaching the same message of the coming of Christ that you have heard here."

THREE FEUD VICTIMS BURIED NEAR DALLAS

Dallas, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—William McCord, who was cut to death by Grady Cooper last Sunday, was buried at Mount Zion church, four miles south of Dallas, at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and at 5 o'clock, just half a mile away, Grady Cooper and Grover Cooper, whom Mr. McCord shot after having his throat cut, were buried at Bethany church. Grady died Monday afternoon and Grover died Tuesday morning.

These young men were of two of Paulding county's most prosperous families, and it is hoped that with them beneath the sod will forever rest the contention for which each so tragically forfeited his young and prosperous life.

SUPT. BRITTAIN'S DECISION ON CONSOLIDATING DISTRICTS

As the recent decision of Superintendent M. L. Brittain, of Georgia's schools, relative to the proposed combination of two school districts in Wilkes county, is of importance to the common school system of the state The Constiution presents it herewith in full.

"C. H. Hill, W. P. Gray and others residing in Wilkes county petitioned the board of education to consolidate the Hogue and Ophelia school districts into one, proposing to erect a building near the center, and setting forth that one thousand ($1,000) dollars could be obtained for this purpose. The county board of education, at a meeting held on March 18, 1912, decided against the consolidation desired by the petitioners and it is upon this action that the appeal is based.

"The principle of consolidating weaker into stronger schools better fitted to give more time and attention to the pupils is unquestionably correct and in line with progressive educational development. It is not always possible, however, to est blish and maintain some even of the most desirable institutions immediately, particularly if in opposition to the will of a large number of those upon whom they must depend for patrongae and support. Furthermore, it appears that the action desired by the appellants would not be in accord with some of the provisions of the law as laid down by the general assembly. The proposed consolidation would include patrons at a greater distance from the school than is permitted by section 1 of the act amended August 22, 1907, which declares that "no property shall be included whose occupants reside further than three miles from the school house without written petition of two-thirds of the qualified voters." This probably could be done if means of transportation were provided. There is no mention of this and doubt is even expressed as to whether funds available from local and state funds will suffice without aid from private sources for even the ordinary school work.

"Further, in my opinion, it is more than doubtful if the law gives the state school superintendent the right to act as desired by the appellants in this case. Section 19 of the act of 1911, revising the school law, states that county boards may consolidate two or more districts when, in their judgment, the best interests of the schools require such change. The section desired by the appellants in this case, however, appears to be somewhat in the nature of mandamus proceedings to compel the county board of education to make the consolidation desired, for which I find no justification or provision of law. The members of the board are intimately acquainted with school conditions in the county and when, as in this case, an impartial and fair hearing has been given to both sides, the conclusion reached by this tribunal should stand unless the law has been misconstrued or palpable error committed. Especially should this be true, if the sentiment is almost equally divided with regard to the change proposed, since where so much doubt exists judges personally familiar with the facts and conditions are in better position to act fairly and justly.

"The action of the county board of Wilkes in this case is, therefore, sustained and the appeal is dismissed.

"M. L. BRITTAIN,
"State Superintendent of Public Schools."

ELEVEN PLAYGROUNDS WILL BE ESTABLISHED

The park commission, acting under the recommendations of the playground committee, decided Thursday afternoon to establish nine white and two negro playgruonds this year. The report of the committee is as follows:

"Your committee on playgrounds begs leave to recommend that playgrounds be established this year at the following places: Grant park, Joyner park, Pine Hill, Dargan park section, Hunt and Linden streets section, Springvale park, Oakland city school yard, Mims park, Brisbane park section, Storr's school on Houston street, and Gray Street school yard, the last two being for negroes.

"Your committee also recommends that at Grant park, Joyner park and at Pine Hill there be one assistant to the director.

"Your committee further recommends that the salary of the directors be $50 per month, and that the salary of the assistants be $40 per month, with the exception of the colored directors, whose salaries the committee recommends be $35 per month each."

Cottolene

THE hospitality of the South is proverbial; a great factor in the success of Southern hospitality is Southern cooking, for good cooks make or mar the meal.

Cottolene is a Southern product, made from pure, refined cotton oil, and Southerners know of its purity and healthfulness better than Northerners.

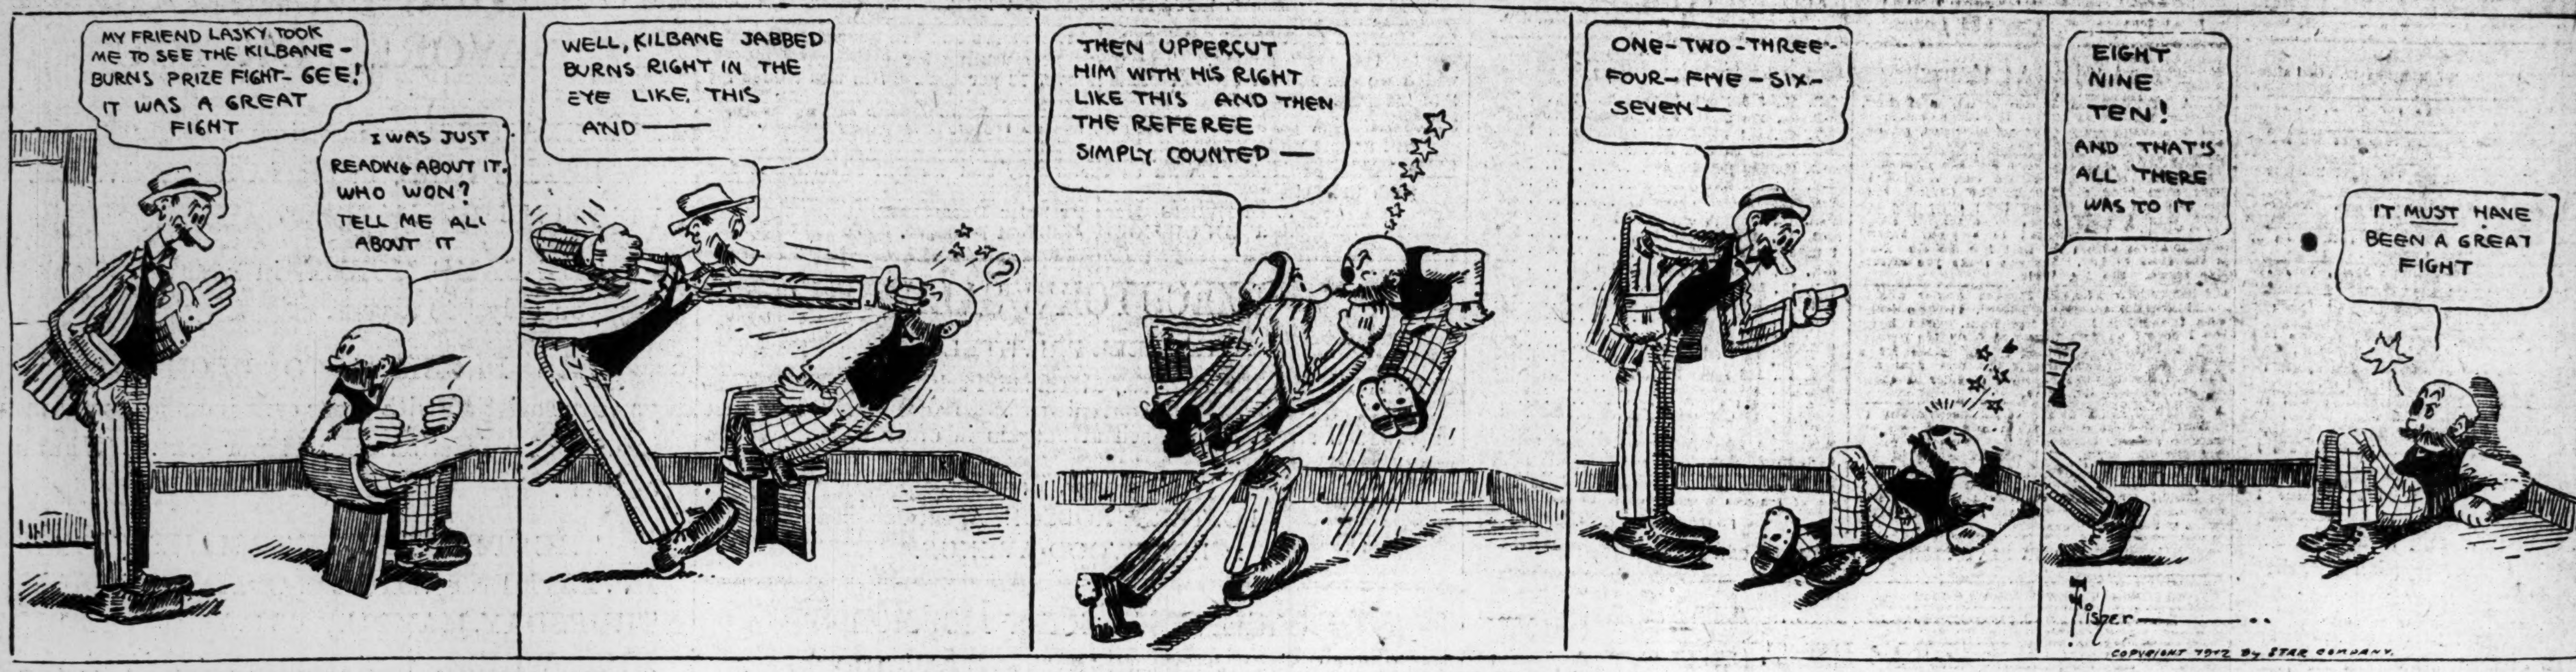

It stands to reason that a cooking fat which is of vegetable origin, free from hog fat and indigestion, will make purer, richer, more healthful food than the product of the pig.

ABOUT CHICKENS

BY "YOUR UNCLE DUDLEY"

Address: "Your Uncle Dudley," Care The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Which Is the Best Breed?

In reading over the northern poultry journals that have recently come to my desk, I was somewhat surprised when I noticed so many editorials and communications that were addressed to or which alluded to those who were about to engage in the poultry business.

I have been wondering if our tidal wave of beginners had floated northward. It seems to me that the indications are that it has. Then, judging from letters that have recently come to me and also from the great number of people who have told me that they were about to engage in the poultry business, I am forced to the conclusion that this tidal wave, instead of diminishing, is really on the increase.

Among the first things that a beginner wishes to know is which is the best breed to use. I have answered this question a great many times, and yet there are some things concerning this important matter that I do not remember ever having said before. There are, as everybody knows, a large number of varieties of fowls bred in this country. Chickens from every country in the world are bred in America, and each one of these breeds differs greatly in characteristics, in temperament, in color, in shape, and then in the work that they perform.

Wide Differences.

Some of them are sober, steady-going, gentle, not easily excited, and by nature endowed with the ability to adapt themselves quickly to their environments. Others are entirely different. They are nervous, easily excited and find it difficult to become content with their surroundings. The gentle breeds are content when placed in small runs. The others are restless in close quarters. The Asiatic represents one extreme, and the Mediterraneans the other of those characteristics.

Almost always, those who wish to commence to breed poultry overlook the important facts given above, and think only of the final results that they desire to bring about. They fail to study well the conditions by which they are surrounded and that are fixed; and then the characteristics of the different breeds of fowls that they wish to use. This frequently results in the selection of a breed that would give good results almost anywhere else except in the place that is chosen for them. It is, therefore, absolutely essential that these extremes in both cases should be thoroughly looked into and harmonized, or failure is a certainty.

How Conclusions Are Formed.

When it is published in the papers that someone, perhaps in the north, has made a wonderful record with a bunch of White Leghorns—broken the egg record and thereby pulled in what we all want, a good crop of dollars—the man who is about to start out as a breeder of poultry at once concludes that this is the breed that he should use. Conditions and characteristics are laid aside. He spends a nice sum of money for a bunch of Leghorns, and conditions and characteristics fail to harmonize; the egg product is far below the record, he becomes disgusted with the poultry business, when he should really be with himself; quits and injures the industry.

I have never in my life seen a bunch of Leghorns give the best results in the back yard of a town lot. I have never seen them fail, when properly cared for, on a poultry farm. I have never seen a bunch of any variety of fowls that had Asiatic blood in their veins fail to give good results when properly cared for, when confined to small quarters. I have never once seen good results produced when two or more breeds were kept in a small yard.

In fact, I have never seen the best results possible attained when more than one breed was used anywhere, unless a thoroughly posted old poultryman was in full charge of the business.

Begin at the Bottom.

Another grave error is often made in this way: People often start at the top instead of the bottom of this business. They begin with the nonsetters, buy a cheap incubator, hatch out a few chickens, attempt to raise them, and from a lack of knowledge of how to manage them, they all die. Had they begun at the bottom with a good, steady utility breed, they would have learned first the fundamental principles of poultry culture, which knowledge would have enabled them to have gained the top of the ladder by putting their feet on one round at a time. Go slow in this business; take time to learn as you go. This is the only sure road to success.

To Feed for Eggs.

W. D. Lee, Atlanta, Ga.—Uncle Dudley: I have some Brown Leghorns and I only get about one-half as many eggs each day as I have hens. There is lots of green and tender Bermuda grass in my yard, and I think I feed them enough. Please tell me what kind of feed and about how much each should I give them to obtain better results. I am just a beginner; bought my stock about a month ago. Can I keep Indian Runner ducks in the same yard with chickens? And how many females can I keep to one drake? Also would a six-foot fence be high enough to hold them?

Answer—The proper way to feed laying hens is to feed them in the morning grain covered with straw, so that they will have to scratch to get it, and keep before them all day long a dry mash, such as you can buy prepared at McMillan & Co.'s, Atlanta, Ga. They sell what is known as "Chicken Chowder," which is an excellent dry mash. In the evening feed grain again.

Keep fresh water, oyster shells, charcoal and grit before them, together with the green food which you say that you are giving them, and I see no reason why you should not get with this treatment an abundance of eggs.

You cannot keep ducks and chickens in the same yard. Ducks have no crops, and their gizzards are not made to grind hard grain. They should be fed on soft food exclusively. Chickens can grind their food in their gizzards. Ducks cannot. You can keep about four ducks with one drake. The Indian Runner duck will not be able to get over a wire fence three feet high. Leghorns can easily fly over a six-foot fence.

Great Egg-Laying Contest.

The following list gives the greatest number of eggs that were laid by the leading pens, in the Philadelphia North American egg-laying contest. No variety that laid under 400 eggs is included in this list. For the week ending May 7:

STOCK, DAIRY AND POULTRY FARM.

Operated in Connection With the New Kimball, Atlanta, Ga., Will V. Zimmer, Proprietor.

WE want to get a lot in inquiries regarding our Jerseys. If you are interested in good cattle, write us for prices on our stock; state exactly what you want so that we may quote intelligently.

WHETHER there is any chance of your buying, or not, we want to hear from you. Of course, we like to make sales; but we also want all the chances that we can get to acquaint the people of Georgia and the South with the class of stock that we have to offer.

WE believe in good blood, and our herd consists of registered Jerseys. We believe in good individuality, and a cow must pay for itself if it stays at Kimballville.

WE offer for sale a few good young bulls, ready for light service, some fine heifers, both bred and open, and a lot of splendid young calves of all ages.

LET us have your name and address, so that we can send you some literature that will give you an idea of what our herd stands for.

17 BEAUTIFULLY SHADED RESIDENCE LOTS

AT AUCTION

TOMORROW, SATURDAY, MAY 18, AT 3:30 P. M.

In the Ponce de Leon Avenue Section, Fronting Angier Road—Barnett Street and Belgrade Avenue, Near the New School on North Avenue.

THESE LOTS are well located for enhancement; they are right in the path of progress in that rapidly growing part of the city known to all Agents and Real Estate traders as the Druid Hills-Ponce de Leon section.

THE PHENOMENAL increase in VALUES in this section is a fact known to all. It is a fact that lots on Ponce de Leon avenue—only a short distance from this subdivision—have advanced within the past 5 or 6 years from less than $20.00 to $80.00 a foot, or from 400 to 500 per cent.

THESE LOTS will advance proportionately, when the streets surrounding them have been worked out and developed in accordance with the plans already proposed. It is proposed to work out and grade and chert East North avenue from Kennesaw avenue, east with an underpass at the Southern railway near Ponce de Leon. This will make a great East and West Highway—free from street cars—running from the great industrial center along Marietta street, by the Tech school and Ponce de Leon into and through Druid Hills and from there to Decatur and East Lake—North avenue is only 200 feet from these lots.

City Improvements Sure to Come

AT AN EARLY DATE. City water is passed up (under the bond issue) from Belgrade avenue up to Barnett street. Water is already on Barnett street part of the way to these lots. THE TRUNK SEWER LINES to take care of this section are to be built this summer by the county.

New School Close By

ESPECIALLY DESIRABLE FOR HOMES because of the splendid new North Avenue school located only about two blocks away from these lots. This school will cause all lots conveniently located to become more and more in demand, and demand makes increase in value. Also because this general section is one of the high-class residence communities of Atlanta.

Lands in This Neighborhood and Section Difficult to Secure

BECAUSE it is either already in the hands of Land Companies, or is held by owners, who realize its gilt-edged future and are holding it for even higher prices which are sure to come.

A Logical Conclusion

FOR the above reasons we strongly recommend the purchase of these lots to the homeseeker, the builder and speculator, and especially to the small investor, because they will surely and quickly increase in value.

TERMS OF SALE

ALL LOTS will be sold on terms of one-fourth cash and the balance on or before 1, 2 and 3 years with 7 per cent simple interest. HOW TO GET THERE—Take Ponce de Leon Avenue to Druid Hills cars, get off at Barnett street, go south two blocks. Or take Highland avenue cars, get off at Cleburne avenue and go north about two blocks, both routes all O. K.

LADIES are expected and especially invited to come. Get plats from

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

The Chapman-McNair Company, whose present department store is located at No. 380 Decatur street, have just let the contract for a new building which will be erected on Piedmont avenue, about 75 feet south of Edgewood avenue, at a cost of $30,000. The new store will also have a frontage on Edgewood avenue.

This building will be two stories high with a basement. It will front 54 feet on the west side of Piedmont avenue, immediately adjoining the triangular store building which occupies the lot in the junction of Piedmont and Edgewood avenues, where it will have a frontage of 42 feet. On the south side of the site of the new building is an alley.

The structure will be of reinforced concrete construction. It will contain 13,000 square feet of floor space. Work of construction will begin in the near future.

Walker & Chase are the architects of the new store. The contract for construction has been let to the Mackie-Crawford Company.

Piedmont Avenue Sales.

Chess Lagomarsino has bought from A. C. Evins a lot adjoining the south side of the proposed Chapman-McNair store, for a consideration of $4,375, or at a rate of $175 per front foot. The lot has a frontage of 25 feet, with a depth of 59 feet.

This lot is in the center of a district of considerable activity which has recently been announced in the vicinity of Piedmont and Edgewood avenues.

William S. Ansley has bought from J. G. & A. C. Evins No. 206 Edgewood avenue, consisting of a store and residence on a lot 55x95 feet, for a consideration of $16,000, or at a rate of $290 per front foot.

The Young Man and the Democratic Party.

(Hon. J. H. Lee in May National Monthly.)

We are entering on a new era of national life. Throughout the breadth of our land, in our colleges, in our factories and mines, on our farms and everywhere there are thousands of young men anxious and waiting to enlist in our cause. To these the democratic party extends a hearty welcome and asks not only to join the ranks, but to sit in our party councils and help us plan and win the glorious victory which next November is surely to be ours.

COX COLLEGE RECITAL ATTRACTS LARGE CROWD

The recital of certificate students of the annual graduation exercises of Cox college and conservatory was held last night in the chapel at College Park. A large audience was in attendance and the program was well prepared and executed.

These exercises marked the beginning of the annual commencement program, which will prevail throughout this week, ending with services next Sunday. Nine graduates will receive diplomas this season, and sixteen students will be tendered certificates.

The program was as follows:

Piano solos by Misses Lurine Lawson, Edna Humphries, Blanche Armistead, Myrtle Cook, Bernice Cook, Pauline Mertz, Frances Cleo Kendrick, Charlie Mae Dodd, Matilda Etheredge and Lucile Mobley.

An impressive violin solo was rendered by Gould Chapman, and the vocal selections were sung by Misses May Ellen Rafter, and Barbara Harless. The grand ensemble was performed by Misses Miriam Madden, May Rafter and Professor Lidnor.

Covington School.

Covington, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—The beginning of the commencement exercises of the Covington public schools occurred Thursday night, when Miss Sue Means and class gave a recital in elocution. Friday night Miss Bessie Ezell will have her musical. Both these exercises will be unusually good. The commencement sermon will be preached at the auditorium Sunday by Rev. John G. Logan, pastor of the Methodist church here. Monday night the graduating and closing exercises will take place.

WHY SUGAR TRUST WAS ORGANIZED

Witness Admits Combine Was Formed Because of Strong Competition.

New York, May 16.—How and why the so-called "sugar trust" was formed was told today before the special examiner in the government's dissolution suit by Julius A. Stursber, formerly secretary of the Brooklyn Refining Company, who was called as a witness by the government. Strong competition was the reason assigned by Mr. Stursberg. He said the "trust" agreement was brought about through conferences which John E. Searles, of the Brooklyn Refining Company, had with officers of the other companies.

Mr. Stursberg said that aftr the first agreement had been entered into in 1885, all refineries were closed down for ten days to reduce the overproduction of sugar.

"Did negotiations to form the sugar refineries company follow that shutdown?" asked the district attorney.

"Bad business."

"When did you commence on the conference that ended by the formation of the sugar refineries company?"

"In the spring of 1887."

"How was the 'trust' agreement brought about?"

"By Mr. Searles, of our company, seeing the officers and owners of other companies."

Mr. Stursburg said that under the "trust" agreement it was contemplated that the refineries entering into it should be directed by a board of eleven trustees.

"Stock to the par value of $50,000,000, he said, was issued by the trustees, and $35,000,000 worth of this was distributed to the stockholders and owners of the refineries that entered into the combination. The remaining $15,000,000 of stock, he said, was put into the treasury for "further need."

Mr. Stursberg named concerns in Boston, Philadelphia and the southern states which were in competition witn the Sugar Refineries Company, the name of the corporation created by the "trust" agreement of 1887.

District Attorney Wise was questioning Mr. Stursberg regarding the change in business methods in 1891, in which year the sugar refineries became the American Sugar Refining Company, when the hearing was adjourned until tomorrow.

SCHEME TO PASS TARIFF MEASURES

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 16.—(Special.)—A scheme by which the democrats of the senate can pass the Underwood bills has been privately suggested to democratic leaders by the stalwart republicans. They propose that such a number will absent themselves when the vote is taken as will enable the democrats to outvote the progressive republicans and pass their bill.

The result of such absenteeism will be to put up to President Taft tariff bills which will give him anotner bunch of vetoes affecting the high cost of living to explain in the approaching campaign.

The regulars figure that the president would find it difficult expaining to republican audiences a veto of the tariff for revenue bills of the democrats than quasi-protective tariff bills such as a combination of democrats and progressives would put up to him.

The progressive republicans are now seeking to convince the regulars that regardless of who is nominated, it will be bad politics for the party to have more vetoes to explain.

A democratic caucus has been called for tomorrow night by Senator Shiveley, of Indiana, in the absence of Senator Martin, of Virginia.

At this caucus a tariff program will be agreed upon.

The present disposition of democratic senators is to demand a vote on every one of the tariff bills sent over from the house. When the bills now pending are acted upon they anticipate that the house will frame a bill rev'sing the cotton schedule.

Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, advanced the prize argument for foolishness at a meeting of the senate finance committee today. He suggested that all tariff bills be postponed until after the Chicago convention.

"The last republican national convention pledged a revision of the tariff," said Mr. Heyburn. "That has been done, and I think we should await a further expression from a national gathering of the party before proceeding further."

The republicans are finding great difficulty in agreeing on a wool bill. Senator Smoot has been carrying around in his pocket for days a proposed bill to revise schedule K, which he and Senator Lippitt, of Rhode Island, agreed upon, but he cannot secure the united support even of the stand-patters to his compromise bill.

The opinion was expressed by many today that a definite program would have the effect of at least curtailing the session after the national party conventions.

CLYCE IS CHOSEN FOR MODERATOR

Texas College President to Preside Over Southern Presbyterian Assembly.

Bristol, Tenn., May 16.—The election of Dr. Thomas S. Clyce, of Sherman, Texas, as moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States (southern branch) and the reports of four executive committees constituted the chief business during the first day's session of the assembly, which convened at 11 o'clock this morning in the First Presbyterian church in this city.

Following the opening sermon by the retiring moderator, Dr. Russell Cecil, of Richmond, Va., addresses of welcome were delivered and nominations were made for moderator, whereupon adjournment was taken until 3 o'clock. The afternoon session was taken up largely by seconding speeches.

Upon the third ballot Dr. Clyce was declared elected, receiving a vote of 94 to 87 for Dr. R. C. Reed, of Columbia, S. C., 91 being necessary to a choice. The other nominees were Dr. W. A. Dobyns, of St. Joseph, Mo., whose name was dropped on the second ballot; Dr. James I. Vance, of Nashville, Tenn., whose name was dropped on the third ballot.

Dr. S. H. Chester, of the committee on foreign missions, submitted its report. Dr. S. L. Norris made the report of the committee on home missions. Dr. R. E. Magill made the report of the committee of publication, while Dr. H. H. Sweets made the report of the committee on ministerial education and relief.

Rev. A. L. Phillips, of Richmond, Va., general superintendent of Sabbath schools and young people's societies, addressed the assembly and urged that all literature used by the Sunday schools and the societies be kept free from higher criticism.

The new moderator is president of the largest male college which the church has in the southwest. He is an alumnus of King college, in this city, and was born near Bristol.

EDUCATIONAL BUILDING CONTRACT IS AWARDED

Athens, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—Tonight the building committee with the matter of the erection of the new $40,000 educational building in charge awarded the contract to the Smith Construction Company, of Athens. Work is to begin about June 1 and it is hoped that the corner stone may be laid during or at the end of the term of the University summer school. The building is to be completed by December 1.

The committee, with Chancellor Barrow as chairman, is Dr. T. J. Woofter, dean of the school of education; Judge Samuel Adams, of Savannah; Judge G. F. Gober, of Marietta, and Harry Hodgson, of Athens. All were present.

Thomas County Committee.

Thomasville, Ga., May 16.—(Special.) At a mass meeting held here yesterday the following democratic executive committee was elected to serve the county for the next two years: Louis Moore, chairman; J. E. Craigmiles, secretary; J. C. Beverly, Thomasville district; J. J. Paramore, Boston district; G. W. Holloway, Barwick district; T. E. Dixon, Pavo district; Jeff White, Murphy district; C. F. Rheberg, Ellabelle district; J. A. Bowers, Meigs district; J. B. Stubbs, Ochlochnee district; J. W. Wilson, Metcalfe district; Ad Way, Way's district. It was decided at this meeting that the time for holding the Thomas county primary would be fixed at the same date as that of the state primary. Thanks for his efficient services as so long chairman of the committee were voted to Hon. H. J. MacIntyre, who declined to be re-elected to the office, and his candidacy for the office of solicitor of the southern judicial circuit was unanimously indorsed.

LARGE CROWD AT BENEFIT CONCERT

German Societies Entertain Two Thousand—Receipts for Flood Sufferers.

Financially and artistically, the benefit for the Mississippi flood sufferers given last night by the German societies of the city was one of the greatest successes of the year. The audience numbered close to 2,000 people, filling the Atlanta theater.

The concert was under the auspices of the Atlanta Turn Verein Maennerchor, assisted by the Freundschaftsbund Maennerchor, which are always foremost in promoting worthy enterprises. Mr. Hunter Welsh was conductor of the singing section of the society, and in addition there were two able soloists, and the entire Atlanta Symphony orchestra, W. Whitney Hubner, conductor.

The choral work of the two German societies proved the feature of the evening. They were well trained and sang with a spirit and feeling that aroused enthusiasm in their hearers. The voices of the chorus are exceptionally good.

The orchestra as usual did unusually well. Since their organization the Atlanta Symphony orchestra has come to have a very definite and sure place in the hearts of Atlanta music lovers and their splendid work last night was a great treat.

Miss Mary Lovelace, the soprano, has a voice of exquisite tone and real dramatic power, which was displayed to advantage in her aria on last night's program, and again in the group of English songs. She was heard appreciatively.

Mr. Louis Koplin was the pianist, and showed a finished tecnique and sympathy in his renditions that places him among the real musicians of the city. Miss Edna Bartholomew accompanied with ability.

Overture "Egmont," Beethoven—Orchestra.

MATTHEWS NAMED TO HANDLE GAVEL

Native of Calhoun, Ga., Chosen Moderator by Northern Presbyterians.

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—The moderatorship, the highest honor in the gift of the 124th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, in session here, went on the first ballot late today to the Rev. Dr. Mark Allison Matthews, a southerner and pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Seattle, Washington. Out of a total of 805 votes cast Dr. Matthews received 418, 403 being necessary to elect.

Other nominees and the votes cast for them were: The Rev James G. K. McClure, president of the McCormick Theological seminary, Chicago, 157; the Rev. Dr. Frank W. Sneed, of Pittsburg, 132, and the Rev. Dr. J. Frank Smith, of Dallas, Texas, 98.

A gavel, composed of wood of Center College, Ky., the log cabin in which Lincoln was born; ash from the home of Henry Clay, a paper weight from the desk of John M. Harlan and a piece of mahogany from Sandomingo was presented to the moderator by Dr. Irwin, pastor of the Fourth church in this city.

Dr. Matthews was born at Calhoun, Ga., in 1867. He was ordained in 1887, in the same year built the first Presbyterian church in his home town. He held pastorates in Dalton, Ga., and Jackson, Tenn., removing to Washington in 1902. His Seattle congregation is said to be the largest Presbyterian congregation in the world. Dr. Matthews, who is known as the "tall pine of the Sierras," is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs less than 150 pounds.

Election of the moderator overshadowed in interest only the sermon of the retiring moderator, the Rev. John F. Carson, of Brooklyn, who declared that the church is the living, vital force it has been through the ages, warning that danger lies not in too little practical Christianity, but in neglect of its "spiritual functions."

Consideration of the set reports of the various boards and committees of the assembly will come later in the session, though the report of the permanent committee on temperance was made public today.

Most of the nominal membership of the assembly, 900, is expected by tomorrow, while members of correlated organizations and visitors have brought the attendance already to about 2,500.

Tonight the commissioners celebrated the Lord's Supper.

BITTER CONTEST OVER CANAL BILL

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 16.—(Special.)—In the following language today Representative William C. Adamson, of Georgia, opened one of the biggest legislative fights for the present session of congress:

"The Panama canal has been built by the American people at an enormous expense. It will be run for the first few years at a loss. If any steamship lines have claims to make for special concessions, they must postpone them until the people determine what sort of a business proposition they have."

This was the keynote of Mr. Adamson's speech opening the debate on the bill for the opening of the canal, the regulation of tolls and the government of the canal zone.

Mr. Adamson is chairman of the interstate and foreign commerce committee, which drafted the bill. He was replying to the argument of many republicans in favor of remitting tolls of American ships in the coastwise trade, which the bill does not do.

It developed today that a bitter fight is to come within a few days on the provision of the bill which prohibits all railroads in this country from owning or controlling either wholly or in part any steamships with which "they do or may compete." The effect of tnis provision is practically to prohibit railroads from owning steamships. Although carrier in the canal bill, this section is sweeping and does not relate only to ships using the canal.

So great is the opposition to this plan that Mr. Adamson decided this afternoon to offer an amendment changing it slightly with the hope of gaining support for it. His amendment will give the interstate commerce commission the final determination of the question as to what ships are violating the law. The commission may act on its own initiative or at the request of the steamship lines or of a shipper. The commission is also given general authority to regulate rates through the canal, just as it regulates railorad rates.

Mr. Adamson's speech this afternoon caused a flurry in the house. Representative Ebenezer Hill, of Connecticut, a republican, interrupted him to ask:

"Will not this bill permit Canadian ships owned by railroads to use the Panama canal and prevent American ships owned by railroads from using it?"

"Perhaps it will," snapped Mr. Adamson, "but this provision is broad. It reaches all railroad-owned ships. We are not dealing with international questions in this bill. I will be glad to take that question up separately at a later time, but not in this bill."

"But it does grant a privilege to Canadian ships," insisted Mr. Hill.

"It grants no privileges," said Mr. Adamson. "On the contrary, it prohibits railroads in the United States from owning steamships. Congress only has control over American ships and American railroads."

Several members shouted that they would not vote for this section.

"I don't care whether you vote for it or not," shouted the Georgian.

Opponents of certain provisions of the measure affected to discover a "joker," which they claimed would give to Canadian railroad-owned steamships a monopoly of the traffic through the Panma canal at the expense of American railroad-owned vessels which would be barred under the terms of the measure.

Representative Doremus, of Michigan, democrat, charged that "a small coterie of Wall street parasites" had entered a conspirary with the railroads to force congress to strike out the prohibitation against railroad-owned ships. He said the attempt had been made to force the hand of congress by refusing to advance money for the building of ships, the operating companies of which were divorced from the railroad corporations.

THEATERS

Kinemacolor of "The Durbar."

(At the Grand.)

A trip to India without inconvenience and at a small cost is what the Kinemacolor of "The Durbar" of Delhi has produced. The public-at-large could not go to this wonderful spectacle in person but the Kinemacolor exhibition is within reach of all and shows "The Durbar" in a manner, that could not have been accomplished in as good a manner as the Kinemacolor reproduces it, had the spectator been present in person.

The engagement concludes with tomorrow night's performance and a matinee will be given today and also tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., with night performances at 8:30.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Crowded to capacity has been the rule at the busy Forsyth all this week, because the bill of vaudeville that is the attraction is of unusual quality and drawing power. There has not been a better variety of entertainment since the theater was first opened, and no bill that has been offered in the theater possessed more genuine class.

Seven sterling acts of the highest quality make up the program that commences next week's program. The headliner will be Lasky's problem play of the future "In 1999," written by William C. deMille.

Jackson Officials.

Jefferson, Ga., May 16.—(Special.)—In the primary held yesterday for the nomination of county officers, the following were chosen: Judge J. A. Wills, for ordinary; N. B. Lord, of Winder, for clerk of court; S. C. Potts, of Winder, sheriff; Obie Hawks, of Commerce, for tax receiver; O. P. Braselton, of Pinelog, chairman road and revenues.

STATE OF GEORGIA—Fulton County. Capitola L. Wood v. W. J. Wood. Superior Court, September term, 1912. No. 16467.

To W. J. Wood, Greeting:

By order of court, you are hereby notified that on the 14th day of December, 1907, Capitola L. Wood filed suit against you by way of equitable petition for purpose of setting aside first verdict in divorce suit, returnable by order of said court to the September term, 1912, of said court.

You are hereby required to be and appear at the September term, 1912, of said court. To be held on the first Monday in September, 1912, then and there to answer the plaintiff's complaint.

Witness the Hon. W. D. Ellis, Judge of said court, this May 15, 1912.

ARNOLD BROYLES, Clerk.

By virtue of the order of the Court of Ordinary of Fulton County, will be sold, at public out cry, on the first Tuesday in June, 1912, at the courthouse door in said county, between the legal hours of sale, the tract of land in said county, to-wit: "A contingent remainder interest under the will of William Flynn, late of said county, deceased, in a part of land lot No. 84 of the 14th district of Fulton County, Georgia, commencing on the south side of West Fair Street 240 feet west of Chapel Street, and running thence west along the south side of West Fair Street, 60 feet, thence running south, same width as front, 60 feet, more or less, said lot being in the City of Atlanta and having a house thereon, known as No. 196 West Fair Street."

Said property is being sold for the purpose of maintainance and support as recited in said order.

G. A. VINSON,
As Guardian of the Property of Mary Shields.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, May 16.—Today's market was a narrow and featureless affair with rather a heavy understone, offset by purchases on the scale down from the largest Wall street interest. Further showers occurred yesterday, quite generally east of the river, but clearnig weather was apparently indicated, so that the effect of the rains yesterday was largely removed. During the afternoon, the market gradually sold off to the lowest prices of the day, on rumors circulating to the effect that the resolution for changing the dates of the agricultural bureau reports would come up for consideration within the next few days in the senate. It is the understanding of the trade that if this resolution passes there will be no June report from the bureau and that has some effect upon sentiment, since a low condition estimate has been generally anticipated. The weather, however, will remain the dominant factor, and some further reaction is probable should we now run into a period of clear and warm weather, which will allow the cultivation of the crop to proceed.

The following is a copy of a petition to be presented to the Secretary of State of Georgia, pursuant to the Statute in such cases made:

GEORGIA—Fulton County. To the Honorable Philip Cook, Secretary of State:

I.

That it is a corporation organized, chartered and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Georgia under the name of Cotton States Insurance Company, incorporated for the purpose of conducting a general fire insurance business under the laws of the State of Georgia, by the Secretary of State under the General Law.

II.

The date of said original charter is November 29, 1911, and petitioner shows that it has not heretofore obtained any amendment thereto.

III.

Petitioner represents that it desires that its charter be amended in the following respects, to-wit:

(a.) That the capital stock of said Company be increased from the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars to the sum of One Million Dollars, said stock to have a par value of One Hundred Dollars per share.

(b.) That the name of said Company be changed from Cotton States Insurance Company to COTTON STATES FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

IV.

Petitioner shows that said amendments have been authorized by the vote of a majority in amount of the entire capital stock of the said corporation at a meeting of the stockholders called for the purpose on March 16, 1912, by resolution of the Board of Directors, notice of which meeting was mailed to each stockholder of record, addressed to his last known place of residence, thirty days previous to the date of said meeting and more than ten days prior thereto, as required by law, and petitioner shows that a certified abstract is filed herewith from the minutes of its Board of Directors showing that the application for the proposed amendments has been authorized by the vote of a majority in amount of the entire capital stock, as hereinbefore set out; that this petition has been published once a week for four weeks in The Atlanta Constitution, in which said paper is published the Sheriff's sales of the County of Fulton, in which said county is located the principal office of petitioner. All of which appears from the affidavit of the President hereto attached.

Petitioner herewith tenders to the Secretary of State a fee of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars as required by law.

COTTON STATES INSURANCE COMPANY,
By HARVIE JORDAN, President.
H. K. COLE, A. Secretary.
BROWN & RANDOLPH, PARKER & SCOTT,
Attorneys for Petitioner.

GEORGIA—Fulton County.

To the Superior Court of Fulton County:

The petition of Samuel M. Inman, James W. English, Joseph A. McCord, James W. Lee, Robert J. Lowry, W. O. Foote, W. Woods White, John B. Whitman and John E. Murphy, all of said state and county, with the exception of James W. Lee, who is of St. Louis, Mo., respectively shows:

1. That they desire for themselves, their associates and successors to be incorporated and made a body politic as a benevolent institution, under the name and style of Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute.

2. The term for which petitioners ask to be incorporated is fifty (50) years, with the privilege of renewal at the expiration of that period.

3. The location and principal office of said corporation shall be in the county of Fulton, state of Georgia.

4. Said corporation has no capital stock and is not organized for pecuniary gain, but is purely benevolent in character.

5. Petitioners desire to purchase and otherwise acquire, receive, hold, handle and dispose of such real estate, or other property as may be necessary for the conduct of its business, with the right and power to sell and convey and encumber by mortgage, security deed, or otherwise any property and assets of the company from time to time as may be deemed advisable to carry out and develop the purposes of the corporation.

6. The sole object of the proposed institution is to train the colored youth along practical and industrial lines and to aid, strengthen and develop them for usefulness and influence along the lines of mechanical and industrial education.

Petitioners pray the right and power to receive gifts and legacies, to be permitted to sue and be sued, and to carry on such benevolent and religious exercises and teaching as may be consistent with the purposes of this organization.

Wherefore, petitioners pray to be incorporated under the name and style aforesaid, with all the powers, privileges and immunities that are now or may hereafter be allowed or granted to corporations of similar character under the laws of Georgia.

COTTON DECLINED ON WEATHER NEWS

Market Closed Barely Steady at Loss of Two to Eight Points.

New York, May 16.—The cotton market was quiet today and more or less irregular, but prices showed a declining tendency in the main, as a result of scattering liquidation or selling on more favorable weather in the south. The close was barely steady at a net decline of from 2 to 8 points.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 1 point, although the cables were better than due, and before the end of the first hour sold about 5 to 7 points net lower, under liquidation by recent buyers and pressure from loca lsources, which was probably inspired by the official forecasts for generally clear weather in the belt. Offerings were well absorbed on the decline and prices rallied during the middle of the day on covering and bull support, which may have been prompted by reiterated predictions of a bullish government report next month, or unfavorable private crop advices. But after showing a net advance of from 3 to 6 points the market weakened again on reports that there had been a general improvement in crop conditions during the past week and renewed realizing on liquidation. Closing prices were at practically the lowest point of the day on most of the active positions.

Receipts 13,292 bales, against 5,313 last week and 12,177 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 1,905 bales, against 7,100 last year; at Houston 846, against 449 last year, and at Galveston 1,099, against 906 last year.

Cotton spot closed quiet, 5 points lower; middling uplands 11.75; do. gulf 12.00; sales 60 bales.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 16.—Cotton, spot steady, 1-16c off; middling, 11 13-16; sales on the spot, 500 bales; to arrive, 300; low ordinary, 8¼, nominal; ordinary, 9 1-16, nominal; good ordinary, 10½; strict good ordinary, 10⅞; low middling, 11 3-16; strict low middling, 11 9-16; middling, 11 13-16; strict middling, 12¼; good middling, 12⅜; strict good middling, 12 9-16; middling fair, 12⅞, nominal; middling fair to fair, 13¼, nominal; fair, 13⅝, nominal; receipts, 1,905; stock, 59,421.

Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 2 points down, compared with the close of yesterday. Cables were better than expected and the weather map showed light rains, well distributed over the cotton belt. Crop news, however, was encouraging and excellent progress toward completing planting was reported from many sections that have been extremely backward. It was the general opinion that recently rains hace been so light they have resulted of little damage. Immediately after the call, prices were 2 to 3 points down; scalping shorts bought covers to realize profits and the market improved, standing 1 to 3 points down over yesterday's close at the end of the first half hour of business.

During the middle of the morning, selling orders increased and it was said that they were coming from large spot interests. Sufficient pressure was put on the market to send it 7 to 8 points under yesterday's close. The decline was not maintained, because of the profit-taking by ring traders on the short side; a small amount of buying for the long account also came in on the decline. At noon the market was steady, 1 to 2 points under yesterday's closing.

In the afternoon the market was first very steady and the trading months went 3 to 4 points over yesterday's close. Later there was a slump on the rumor that the senate was likely to pass tomorrow the bill postponing until July the government's estimate of the area planted in cotton. At 2 o'clock prices were 3 to 5 points under yesterday's last quotations.

Cotton futures closed steady at a net decline of 6 to 8 points.

Dry Goods.

New York, May 16.—The cotton goods markets rule very quiet, with some softening in prices reported on a few constructions of wide convertibles. Fall orders continue to come in well from retailers, while immediate ordering is slow.

Remarks.

Showers are reported from all sections in the belt. Temperatures are slightly higher west of the Mississippi river and continue about stationary in other districts.

C. F. von HERRMANN,
Section Director, Weather Bureau.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, May 16.—The cotton market was given good support today by two or three large interests that have been most prominent on the long side during the last few days and at one time October sold at 11.60, five points over yesterday's close. The weather forecast for the cotton belt was very good, however, and during the last hour the market showed weakness and closed barely steady at the low of the day. Closing prices were 3 to 8 points lower than those of yesterday. There was some buying of July today by the leading spot interest and July was stronger than the new crop months.

The outside public does not seem to have much confidence in the new bull leaders, but is ready to buy on bad weather news.

To Close for Whitsuntide.

Liverpool, May 16.—The cotton exchange here will be closed May 25, 27 and 31 and June 1. Whitsuntide holidays.

STOCKS WEAKER AS THE DAY GREW

All Leading Shares Tended Lower—Precipitate Declines.

New York, May 16.—To the dispassionate observer additional evidence of inside selling or liquidation was forthcoming in the course of today's stock market. The tone was heavy when not distinctly weak and pressure was more or less pronounced throughout the session. The volume of business was moderately large, not the least significant fact being the increased activity that marked the declining scale. All the leading shares tended lower with losses of 1 to 2 points by midday. On the other hand, there were gains of as much and more in some of the semi-active stocks, including International Harvester, while the more obscure issues, among which may be mentioned American Malting preferred and Texas Company, displayed fitful periods of improvement. American Can at 36⅞ went to its lowest price in over a fortnight, but even today's final quotations represented a handsome advance over its figure of a month back.

Canadian Pacific at 270 attained a new high record, with a similar achievement for Sears-Roebuck. It is freely predicted that developments of advantage to the shareholders of Canadian Pacific and Sears-Roebuck are impending, but the sentimental value of these stocks on the rest of the list may be set down as inconsiderable.

It was not until the late afternoon that the market suddenly turned from heaviness to acute weakness. Practically every issue on which the list has built its rise of the past two months then declined precipitately, with the supply far in excess of the demand. The decline was materially assisted by the operations of the short interest. Reading, Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific, American Can and United States Steel all felt the force of the impact, while most of the early gains in the low-priced issues were speedily wiped out. In the absence of a more valid reason the "street" attributed the reversal chiefly to the attitude of the anthracite coal miners and the possibility of awkward complications arising from the investigations now proceeding against the United States Steel and American Sugar Company.

The final hour brought some change for the better, Reading recovering 2 points from its low of the preceding hour, with about half as much for Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper.

The metal shares, as a group, reflected greater strength than other industrials, their position being fortified by technical conditions, such as a reduction in the European supply, a rise in Rio Tintos in London and better home demand. The closing was dull, with a large percentage of substantial net losses.

Some of the favorable factors of the day, to whcih no attention seemed to be paid, were the better crop advices received from Minnesota and the Dakotas and the extraordinary figures shown in the country's foreign trade for April. Imports and exports for that month were larger than in any previous year, imports increasing by $29,000,000, with an increase of $21,000,000 for all shipments to foreign parts. April exports of breadstuffs totaled approximately $69,000,000, as against $51,000,000 last year.

London's market presented variable features, with some heaviness in Americans. Changes in the Bank of England statement for the week were scarcely more than nominal, except for the strengthening of reserves to liabilities.

Paris advices point to a reduction of the bank rate there in the near future.

Greater ease in short time money was shown here today, sixty-day accommodations being obtainable at 3 per cent against the recent 3 1-4 rate. Another large telegraphic transfer of currency of San Francisco was made.

Bond prices were generally lower save for Brooklyn Rapid Transit 4s, which held strong. Total sales, par value, $2,579,000. United States governments were unchanged on call.

Money and Exchange.

New York, May 16.—Money on call steady at 2¾@3 per cent; ruling rate, 2¾, closing bid, 2⅞; offered at 3.

Time loans easier; 60 days, 3@3¼ per cent; 90 days, 3¼; six months, 3½@3¾.

Prime mercantile paper, 4 to 4½ per cent.

Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.8425 for 60-day bills, and at $4.8680 for demand.

Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds easier.

Atlanta Bank Clearings.

Atlanta bank clearings as given out by the Atlanta Clearing House Association were as follows:

Clearings yesterday, May 16	$2,105,541.96
Same day last year	1,700,135.06
Increase for day	$ 405,406.90

Foreign Finances.

London, May 17.—Bullion amounting to £66,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance today.

London, May 16.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Total reserve increased £287,000.
Circulation decreased £143,000.
Bullion increased £144,173.
Other securities decreased £964,000.
Other deposits decreased £166,000.
Public deposits decreased £530,000.
Notes reserve increased £196,000.
Government securities unchanged.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability this week is 52.30 per cent; last week it was 51.20 per cent.

Treasury Statement.

Washington, May 16.—At the beginning of business today the condition of the United States treasury was:

Working balance in treasury offices, $60,132,856.

Ordinary receipts yesterday were $2,715,898, with ordinary disbursements of $2,110,582.

The deficit to date this fiscal year is $13,430,627, as against a deficit of $977,389 at this time last year.

London Stock Market.

London, May 16.—American securities opened steady and about unchanged today. Later the market moved irregularly and at noon prices ranged from ¼ above to ½ below yesterday's New York close. In the late trading New York selling was depressing. Closed uncertain.

Bar silver steady at 28¼.

Money, 2@2¼; short bills, 2 15-16; three months' bills, 2⅞@2 15-16.

Southern Railway preferred, 76½.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL THE MARKETS

SLUMP IN GRAIN CAME SUDDENLY

In Quarter Hour's Time Values Were Swept Away Amid the Excitement.

Chicago, May 16.—Minutes counted for days this afternoon on the board of trade. In a single quarter of an hour values that had required a fortnight to pile up were swept away in a whirl of stop-loss selling. Surprising improvement of the crop outlook was said to be an underlying cause. The end of the session left traders in a daze, with wheat prices 2 to 4¾ cents lower than the night before, and with the break extending to all other grains and to provisions as well—corn off ¾ to 4@4⅛c, oats 7-8 to 2¾c, and packing house products 12½c to 82½@85c.

Excitement in the wheat pit, although foreshadowed since early the previous day, came to a climax so suddenly that the few, if any, speculators could escape being bewildered. Unloading by the most conspicuous leaders on the bull side of the market had continued beyond any expectation, and apparently had exhausted all the buying power in the market either from shorts or the general public. The result was to make prices unresponsive to bullish news, and was normally so sensitive to advices of the other sort. Aside from a brief period at the start, the day was one successive wave of weakness following another, but until the final deluge seeming to be no worse than what might be weathered.

Just when it appeared that the crisis had passed stop-loss orders were reached wholesale and then prices crumbled. In an uproar not equaled for many a day, brokers sacrificed property right and left. As they thronged out of the doors of the big hall not one dealer in a hundred stopped to notice that the chalk marks on the blackboards showed virtually no reaction, May wheat being quoted 4½c to 4¾c down at $1.11½ to $1.11¾, as against $1.16¼ last night. July fluctuations during the day ranged from $1.08¾ to $1.11 5-8, with the close $1.08 7-8, a sheer fall of 2 3-8@2½c.

Aside from the effects of the smash of wheat prices, corn suffered because elevators here were turning out remarkable quantities of the contract grade by cleaning and otherwise treating inferior receipts. Another weight on the market came from the fact that Argentine shipments aggregated 3,400,000 bushels, against none at all this time last year. Predictions of a big total acreage more than offset the unsettled weather. July swung between 74 5-8@74¾c and 77 3-8@77½c, closing demoralized, 2½c to 2¼c lower at 74 7-8c to 75c. Cash grades were weak. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 81½@82c.

The oats market went to pieces simultaneously with other grain. There was no adequate support, although one of the largest shorts had earlier been an active buyer. It was apparent holders had taken fright at the collapse of wheat and corn. Outside limits touched by July were 49 7-8 and 52 5-8, with latest sales 2 3-8c net lower at 50c.

Realizing sales made pork weak throughout the day. Nevertheless provisions held up fairly well until the props were knocked from under grain. Constant increase of pork stocks here was said to be, in a measure, responsible for the setback in the price of that article. When the pit was cleared pork was 80c to 82½@85c less expensive, and lard and ribs 12½c to 22½c decreased in cost.

Coffee.

New York, May 16.—Coffee opened quiet at unchanged prices to a decline of two points, under a renewal of the scattering liquidation which has been in progress for the last several days. There is nothing in the news to encourage aggressive selling, however, and the market soon turned firmer on the appearance of supporting orders around the ring, reports of steadiness in primary circles and covering of scattering shorts. The close was steady at a net advance of 5 to 9 points.

Owing to the holiday, there were no cables from Europe. Rio closed unchanged yesterday at 8$500. Santos unchanged; fours, 8$550; sevens, 7$750.

New York warehouse deliveries yesterday, 6,390 bags, against 19,069 last year.

Good butcher bulls, 3.25 to 4.00.

Above quotations apply to corn fed hogs. Mast and peanut fattened hogs 1 to 1½c lower.

Cattle receipts light, market continues strong on best grades. Mr. A. J. Evans, of Fort Valley, Ga., was on the market again this week with two loads from his feed lots; one car of strictly good Hereford cows and another load of high-bred yearlings, which were bought under contract some time ago by an Atlanta packer.

Several loads are reported for the incoming week and receipts are expected to be better.

Hog receipts about normal; market about a quarter lower than a week ago. Yards continue to keep sold up to arrival with nothing carried over.

OVER $200,000 FOR THE ROBBERS

Haul on Queen and Crescent Richest on Record.

New Orleans, May 16.—The two masked bandits who early yesterday morning held up the fast New York limited train of the New Orleans and Northeastern railroad near Hattiesburg, Miss., made perhaps the richest haul in the history of train robberies.

Today it is positively known that from the safe, which was blown open with nitroglycerin in the Southern Express car, the robbers secured more than thirty packages of currency, one of which contained more than $50,000, representing the monthly pay rolls of the New Orleans and Northeastern and Alabama and Vicksburg railroads at Meridian and Hattiesburg.

Total Booty Over $200,000.

According to passengers on the train who returned to New Orleans today, Express Messenger Gray stated that one package in the car contained $140,000. This the officials of the Southern Express Company deny, but the general belief is that the total booty secured exceeded $200,000.

The railroad and express officials have given the order to spare no expense in running down the robbers and a force of sleuths from two of the principal detective agencies of the country are pitted against each other in the effort to effect the capture of the men. Besides these detectives, special agents of the railroad company and county officials in that section of Mississippi are bending every energy to capture the robbers and recover the loot.

Work of Professionals.

The detectives are of the opinion that the robbery was the work of professional bandits and members of the gang which has been operating in the south for several months past. The descriptions of the two men tally with descriptions of the pair of highwaymen who held up the Mobile and Ohio passenger train near Corinth, Miss., in February and detectives are working on clews which indicate that the gang is composed of four men.

Notwithstanding that the express car was not detached from the train and that every passenger was awakened by the series of explosions made before the safe door yielded, not a single passenger made any effort to stop the robbers' operations.

The conductor and baggagemaster are said to have run through the train begging for a revolver, but none could be found. A Mississippi national guardsman with an army rifle was on the train, but in the excitement he forgot his gun.

HUMPHREY TO BE AN OFFICIAL AT BALTIMORE CONVENTION

St. Louis, Mo., May 16.—(Special.)—Hon. John I. Martin, the veteran sergeant-at-arms of the national democratic executive committee, has tendered to W. G. Humphrey, of Atlanta, the position of one of his chief staff assistants for the national democratic convention at Baltimore. He is today in receipt of a wire from Mr. Humphrey accepting the apointment.

Mr. Humphrey is the chairman of the police committee of the Atlanta city council and a former member of the police board of that city. His admirable qualities as an organizer and a disciplinarian attracted the attention of Sergeant-at-Arms Martin, who will have full control of the peace, safety and comfort of the thousands of people who will assembly daily for several days in the great Baltimore convention hall.

Mr. Martin has occupied this position for the past twenty years and has made an excellent record in the administration of this important department of each convention during that period.

Mr. Humphrey will be assigned to duty as a right-hand man of Mr. Martin at the Baltimore convention.

Confirmed by Mr. Humphrey.

The above telegram was shown to Mr. W. G. Humphrey, of the Robinson-Humphrey-Wardlaw Company, yesterday, and he said:

"Yes, the report is true. I received a letter from Sergeant-at-Arms Martin asking me if I would accept a position on his staff, and I replied that I would be glad to do so. I was not an applicant for the place and never heard of it until I got Mr. Martin's letter. He seems to think that I can be of service at the Baltimore convention, and I have accordingly placed myself at his disposal for that week. That is all I know about it."

Mr. Humphrey is one of Atlanta's most prominent and popular business men, and has been prominently identified with public matters through his membership in the city council and his connection with the police board. He was particularly instrumental in bringing about the present effective reorganization of the police department. His work as an organizer has been so effective in all branches that he is often called upon as referee in various kinds of contests, filling that position with signal ability last year in The Constitution's Around-the-state Automobile Tour.

Sergeant-at-Arms Martin could not possibly have made a better selection.

ROOSEVELT CLAIMS

sets of delegates are to be sent to the national convention, he denounced the action of the supporters of President Taft there as "scandalous." At Paulding he said:

"The most scandalous thing our opponents have recently tried and failed in is to steal from the people of Washington the delegates of that state. Wherever we held primaries in that state we beat them. Where they were strongest we beat them 2 to 1. Where they were not so strong we beat them about 8 to 1. They had no chance of any kind and so they have endeavored to steal what they could not earn.

While Colonel Roosevelt was speaking at Lima a man called out, "What about the third term?"

"Foolish Creature," Said Colonel.

"You can't ask me any question, you foolish creature, that I can't answer," he said. "I will answer you by quoting the words of President Taft's father about the third term."

He then read the letter written by Judge Alphonso Taft, the president's father, to The Cincinnati Enquirer, which he read in his speech in Dayton last night. After quoting Judge Taft's opinion in referring to Grant's candidacy for a third term, that the only danger lay in the use of federal patronage for the purpose of procuring a third consecutive term, he said that Judge Taft's name headed the list of members of a Grant third term club.

Taft Family in Grant Fight.

"Down among the list of members comes the name of a bright young representative of the family, Charles P. Taft," said Mr. Rosevelt. "The whole Taft family was in that movement. I will appeal from son to father and ask you to accept the sound common sense which the father spoke as to the ridiculous folly of raising any talk about a third term when terms are not consecutive and the man out of power has no earthly means of influencing a single officeholder, a single privileged representative of the privileged class."

TAFT CLAIMS

in the Central armory here to a great crowd.

"I am here most reluctantly, but I am here from a sense of duty," said the president. "I am here to ask justice for an Ohio president."

The crowd stamped and cheered and applauded that statement with vigor.

Speaking of the Payne tariff bill and the need existing for further tariff revision, Mr. Taft got a laugh and a cheer by remarking:

"If the democrats will only give me the money I will see that the schedules which are too high will be revised."

New Phrases About Roosevelt.

Mr. Taft made probably the most comprehensive defense of his own administration that he has delivered in the present campaign.

Mr. Taft made some new phrases in speaking of Colonel Roosevelt. At one point he called his ideas of constitutional government "wild and ridiculous notions," and at another he spoke of Mr. Roosevelt's "tyranny" and "explosive inconsistency."

The president brought again the charge that Mr. Roosevelt, Senator Dixon, his campaign manager, and the democrats in the senate were responsible for the weakening of the British and French arbitration treaties.

"I propose, however," said the president, "whether in or out of office, to carry on the agitation for those treaties. My experience in more than forty states of the union last year has convinced me that the American people are for the ratification of those treaties as they are."

The president will leave here early tomorrow for western Ohio.

Claims of Taft's Directors.

Washington, May 16.—No formal statement claiming a majority of delegates at the Chicago convention for President Taft was issued by Director McKinley tonight, but the officials of the national Taft bureau were counting on 543 by this reckoning:

Total counted for Taft up to today, 527; counted in today, Arkansas, 4; Montana, 8; Idaho, 4; total, 543.

A Forced Confession.

(The Catholic Standard and Times.)

"Pshaw! here's the rain coming down again and somebody's stolen my umbrella."

"Somebody's stolen what?"

"Well, the umbrella I've been carrying for the last week or so."

family is heavily afflicted with insanity; that he himself is a neurotic, a somnambulist and a neurasthenic; that he is subject to extreme emotional disturbances marked by loss of memory, which two alienists have diagnosed as hysterical insanity, one physician adding the alternative term of hysterical delirium, and the majority opinion indicating that the attacks are hysterical attacks marked by emotional disturbances of brief duration, with loss of memory during the attack and for a varying period following it.

Accountable for His Crime.

"The evidence, however, while clearly revealing these attacks, indicates that his crime was not committed by him during such an attack. Therefore, while there is some divergence of opinion among the alienists as to whether these attacks indicate actual insanity, there is sufficient ground for the conclusion that he is accountable for his crime and that the exercise of executive clemency in this instance would be contrary to the public good.

"The affidavits and medical evidence as to Richeson's unfavorable heredity, his lapses of consciousness and his attacks of delirium are too voluminous to include in this statement and are not suited to publication.

Richeson Doesn't Know.

Richeson was not informed of the governor's decison tonight. His spiritual adviser, the Rev. H. S. Johnson, and the prison chaplain, the Rev. H. W. Stebbins, visited the prisoner at 8 o'clock and remained with him for an hour. When they entered the death chamber they were not aware, however, of the governor's finding.

Upon leaving the death house, Mr. Johnson was informed of the decison.

"I am very sorry. I had held hopes that it might be different," he said. "However, I think the governor has acted very humanely and with great justice and wisdom in submitting the matter to alienists as he has."

When asked if he would notify the prisoner of his fate in the morning, Mr. Johnson said he could not tell.

Deputy Warden N. D. Allen said tonight that the prison officials would not give the prisoner the news. He expected it would be conveyed to him some time tomorrow, either through his counsel or one of the clergymen.

Richeson's day passed very quietly. He wrote no letters, but received three from members of his family.

Richeson's Lawyer Talks.

W. A. Morse, counsel for Richeson, felt very keenly the governor's decision. He said:

"Although I feel that the evidence submitted warranted a different conclusion, as one of Richeson's counsel, I wish to thank Governor Foss for his thoughtful consideration of the petition for commutation of Richeson's sentence. He was just and courageous enough, in the midst of a bitter cry for vengeance, to pause an look around him.

"I, who have been so near Richeson during all those months, feel very sad that it must finally end in his being killed by the method at present approved by the law. He now must look for merciful judgment to his God to whose service in the innocence of his boyhood he consecrated himself."

U. C. T. TO ELECT OFFICERS TODAY

Columbus Likely to Be Selected for Next Convention.

A lively session of the Georgia-Florida Council, United Commercial Travelers' convention, is promised for this afternoon when the selection of officers and next year's meeting place will occur.

There will be four vacancies in the list of officers, the grand secretaryship, two executive committee places, and the office of grand sentinel. For the first it seems likely that an Atlanta man will be chosen, giving this city her only representative in the list of officers.

C. K. Ayer, past counsellor of Atlanta lodge and for three years its secretary, is prominently mentioned in connection with the election, and his friends are urging his name before the convention. R. L. Wallace, another leading member in the local field, is in the race. The retiring secretary is W. A. Freeman, of Macon.

According to the rules of the order, the other officers will go up in rotation, except the grand treasurer, who holds over for another year. J. H. Timberlake, of Macon, now grand counsellor, will become grand past counsellor, taking the place of T. B. Lewis, of Atlanta.

R. B. Cole of Jacksonville, will then become the head of the order for the ensuing year, being next in rank to the present head. Mr. Timberlake. Mr. Cole is one of the most popular men in the council, and his elevation from grand junior to grand senior counsellor will meet with the approval of all.

E. R. Weir, of Athens, goes up to the place vacated by Mr. Cole; J. M. Keeley, of Tampa, assumes the office of conductor, and M. L. Stearn, of Savannah, will be page.

Columbus After Convention.

Columbus is leading in the race for the next convention, and already has a large number of votes pledged. Pensacola is her only other rival so far, and is apparently not running a very strong race.

The business session will open this morning at 9 o'clock, when the reports of officers will be made, followed by reports of committees. This had been started on Thursday afternoon when the convention adjourned to take a tour of the city in automobiles.

There has been a wonderful growth in the order during the past year, according to the reports, and it is in better shape in every way than ever before.

This afternoon the convention goes in a body to the Atlanta-Montgomery baseball game, and tonight the great event of the convention, the annual banquet, will be held at the Piedmont, with covers laid for more than 500 people.

Saturday Bagmen Day.

Saturday is Bagmen day, when the Bagmen of Bagdad, the social side of the U. C. T., will perform their stunts for an interested public, and do many other more interesting things which the public will not be allowed to view. There will be a parade at 10 o'clock in the morning, which will prove a unique feature, followed by initiation of candidates at 3 o'clock in the Knights of Pythias hall. The order's initiation comes Saturday night.

During the business of the men folks today, the ladies who are also here for the convention will be amply taken care of by the wives and daughters of the local members. A tour of the shopping district comes this morning, with luncheon later at the Piedmont, and the ball game will be attended this afternoon.

When the Travelers reached the city Thursday morning, more than 300 strong, they made an imposing sight, as, with flags fluttering and colors displayed everywhere, they marched through the principal streets to the Piedmont hotel. Everybody wore a smile and a handsome badge, not to mention a blue, gold and white hat band, and wherever these signs were displayed, there was also the sign of the outstretched hand.

Everybody was happy, to say the least, and the open session, the first of the convention, was full of spirit and enthusiasm. R. N. Fickett, Jr., called the meeting to order, and Rev. S. R. Belk offered the invocation.

Mayor Welcomes Delegates.

Mayor Courtland S. Winn on behalf of the city welcomed the delegates to Atlanta, and A. L. Brooke, for Atlanta council No. 18, and H. J. McDonald, for Fulton council No. 505.

The response on behalf of the assembled guests was made by J. H. Timberlake, of Macon, grand counsellor. Other addresses of welcome were made by J. H. Andrews, of the T. P. A., a rival organization among the traveling men, C. J. Hollingsworth, of the Georgia Travelers, and J. C. Harrison, of the City Salesmen's Association. Excellent music enlivened the session.

At 2 o'clock a short business session was held, which was adjourned to allow the visitors to make an automobile tour of the city. During the business session the visiting ladies were entertained at a reception in the Piedmont parlors.

Last night the convention in a body attended the Forsyth theater, and later met in good fellowship in the lobbies and parlors of the hotel, where many a good story was told and things of interest discussed.

the District of Columbia," and when he says was turned down for appointment by former President Roosevelt, with the statement that "when all the criminals now serving jail sentences shall have been appointed to office I might then consider Chase's appointment."

Senator Dixon's statement follows:

"Here are the facts: About three weeks ago, Rucker, of Atlanta, Ga., who, for eleven years under the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations, had held the position of collector of internal revenue at Atlanta, told me that he had been talking with Chase, one of the contesting delegates from the District of Columbia to the Chicago convention, and that Chase was most anxious to make a declaration in favor of Roosevelt. I said that I could not be put in any equivocal attitude in a matter of that kind, for I had understood that Chase had been put forward by the Taft managers and run as a Taft delegate in the 'soap box primaries' in the District of Columbia, and that I would not talk with him except with Rucker present, to hear all of the conversation. He called later and said that Chase was anxious to talk with me that evening and if it was agreeable he would bring him to my house at 8 o'clock. I told him that would be agreeable.

"At 8 o'clock Rucker came to my house, bringing Chase with him. We sat in the library and talked about the campaign.

Continuing, Senator Dixon said Chase told him that all the negroes were opposed to Taft, and if seated in the convention he would vote for Roosevelt. He promised to write a letter the next morning declaring for Roosevelt, which Senator Dixon was to give to the press. The next morning Chase called over the telephone and Senator Dixon had a third party listen to the conversation over a branch phone. Chase promised to have the letter that afternoon.

"When he did not appear again," said Mr. Dixon, "I simply sized up the whole situation as an attempt on his part to lay the foundation for a plea to Taft headquarters of, 'Please buy me quick. I may declare for Roosevelt any minute.' This is the truth about this ex-convict."

PEACHTREE!

It is certain now that on the strong tide of an advancing market, everything on Peachtree out to Ponce de Leon will go to $1,000 a front foot.

Discriminating buyers who secure lots that are especially well located, either corners or lots running through to other streets, will possess one good asset in a piece of Peachtree frontage. This property is fast becoming fancy and rare. We have a few (a very few) small Peachtree investments that are a little better than the average. They are about the size that a young fellow can handle and make money on.
